Preface

The original task given to the Historical Committee was to update the Taylor genealogy, using current computer technologies. But was there enough "other" material to warrant producing a book equal to the previous Volumes? The call went out to the family to submit letters, articles, anecdotes, etc. The result is Taylors of Tabernacle, Volume III, published in July 2004. This is not an academic work, but a compilation of information. The effort has been made to separate facts from hearsay, but both are presented with equal validity. It has been the desire of the compilers of this Volume to continue the style and context of the first two volumes. However, Volume III is organized into chapters rather than in purely chronological order.

It is the intent of Volume III to tell the story of the Taylors, and their neighbors and friends, who have kept Camp Meeting through the past nine generations. We hear from our ancestors through their letters and diaries, we hear from our contemporaries through essays and remembrances.

It is the intent of Volume III to give future generations a glimpse into what Camp Meeting was like at the beginning of the 21st century.

It is the intent of Volume III to stand alone in telling the Camp Meeting story, but to also be a companion to the two previous Volumes. Some information from Volumes I and II is repeated here, particularly where corrections could be made.

It is the intent of Volume III to encourage the family to know where and who we come from.

Where we go, who we become — depends on how each of us chooses to keep Camp Meeting.

"THERE COMES THE CLARION SOUND OF A CALL TO DUTY — THE RESPONSIBILITY AND HIGH PRIVILEGE OF PROVING THE WORTH OF THE OLD TRADITIONS OF TABERNACLE."

(Editors, Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. I)

INDEED, I HAVE A GOODLY HERITAGE.

(Ps. 16:6)

Introduction

Camp Meeting is not easy. Even in the 21st century, with its air-conditioning, freezers, processed foods and cell phones, Camp Meeting is not easy. To commit a week of vacation, to gather dispersed family members, to organize cooks and meals and beds, and to live in uncertain comfort, is not an easy thing to do.

But for 178 years we have kept Camp Meeting. Why? Not because of tradition, or "the hands that are on us," or because it's what Daddy did, or what Mama would want us to do. No. We keep Camp Meeting because Richard Taylor got it right.

We are made for community. We, not just as Taylors, but as human beings, we want to be connected. Not dependent on or responsible to, but connected to a community, to a sense of self that is tangible and real, that is as small as an individual and as large as the exponential generations of a family. Even the most solitary among us knows the need to be in family (Ps 68:6). Even the most cynical among us knows the need for something greater than self. Ellsworth Kalas called it the "God-shaped void." The first century church called it being devoted to the fellowship, the breaking of bread and prayer (Acts 2:42).

Richard Taylor called it knowing each other and knowing God. And to that purpose these meetings were established.

The wood burning stoves are mostly gone, the softball games are not what they used to be, the dress is more casual, but the promise continues — the promise of community that is for you, and your children, and your children's children. So long as we choose to keep Camp Meeting, so long as we choose to deliberately, intentionally seek to know each other and to know God—

> Hear o 'Taylors of Tabernacle', the Lord your God is one.
> 'Seek to know' the Lord, 'seek to know' each other. (Deut. 6:4)
> Do not devote yourselves to stories and endless geneologies. These promote controversies rather than God's work—which is by faith. The goal of this command is love, which comes from a pure heart and a good conscience and a sincere faith. (1 Tim. 1:4–5)

—then Camp Meeting's spirit will be perpetual; then Camp Meeting's best days will not be in the past; and Camp Meeting's best people will not be those in the cemetery.

> And surely goodness and mercy will follow us all the days of our lives; and we will worship in the house of our fathers ~ forever.

Let nothing stop us from knowing each other, from claiming each other, from loving each other.

Choose to keep Camp Meeting.

"Think not to pass your lives upon the merits of your ancestors. If these have been clever people, and well esteemed in their day, it was because of that virtuous and upright course which they had the moral courage to pursue. Let that be lacking in you, and your line of descent, however respectable it may have been, will be of no use to you. The world will give every one credit for his or her own action; and while the good name of a parent is greatly to be desired, yet it will soon be found to be misplaced upon the dissolute and the worthless."

"I hope we are as determined to seek the salvation of our soul as we ever were."

The Taylors Come to Camp Meeting

Elizabeth Kendrick Yarbrough

On March 7th, 1817, Howell Taylor and his two sons, Richard and John Young, left their home in Mecklenburg County, Virginia, headed for Tennessee. They arrived in Montgomery County, Tennessee, April 15th of the same year. Although they lived there for nearly six years, something pulled Richard a little farther west. In February of 1826, Richard Taylor, the seventh child of Howell Taylor and Susan Young, left Montgomery County, Tennessee and traveled to Haywood County.

I try to imagine what the land looked like to him. What was it about this particular plot that persuaded him to stop? Surely the spring running through the woods was encouraging, but could he have known that the well would produce the sweetest water I've ever tasted? I still can't see the land as it was. I only see what it has become.

Richard saw its potential because he stopped and began the slow process of settling. According to his son John A. Taylor's diary, Richard "built a cabin with dirt floor; put up a crib; fenced a small lot; planted his seed for an orchard; and made a little start for a settlement." In the fall of 1826, Richard called for his family to join him, and the Taylors of Tabernacle were quietly founded.

The first church was built in 1826. The split-log house served as the church and schoolhouse. This church, called New Hope, was along the spring, about 400 yards in front of the house we now know as New Hope. In 1829, the family faced their first death in Haywood County. Nancy Alexander Taylor, wife of Richard Taylor, was buried the first week of August in the newly plotted cemetery.

By 1832, a new church was constructed, reflecting the prosperity of the Taylors and the growing neighborhood. John A. Taylor writes, "This house was also built of logs. Yet they were long, and straight and nicely hewed, and when finished was considered a nice house for the times." The church was built by a group of church members on the site of our current church and was renamed Tabernacle after Howell Taylor's home church in Virginia. This church was much loved by John A. "It was during the time of that second house that Tabernacle reached her greatest altitude of perfection."

Even so, in April 1847, the second house was torn down and a third raised on the same spot. Built by John Thomas, a local carpenter and paid for by the church membership, the new "neat frame country church" was dedicated October 3 at the "Annual Meeting".

This brief note is the first mention of the "Annual Meeting". John A. Taylor began recording details of the meeting in his diary in 1847 and continued until his death. Clearly, the meeting had been annual for some time, but this provides the first indication of an established event. In 1855, Richard Taylor took another step in the formalization of the meeting. He appointed the Rev. Thomas Taylor, Rev. Joseph Somervell, and Rev. Robert Venable Taylor to hold a two-day annual meeting at Tabernacle Church. Robert Venable Taylor was the first president of the association, serving from 1855-1919. He wrote, "[Richard Taylor] wanted his children's children and the children of his neighbors converted and brought into the Church to the remotest generation. To this end these services were instituted. . . . [W]e should never lose sight of the pious and leading thought of Richard Taylor in originating this anniversary."

The two-day meeting continued, although not always for two days. Some years John A. Taylor records services for the better part of a week, some last as many as 10 days. However, all are recorded as at least the required two days. The schedule seemed to depend on the weather and the preacher's commitments. Many years he writes, "meeting broke up due to rain" and one year all the preachers left to attend the Methodist Annual Convention.

By 1866, the meeting had become a well-known event. "The Christian Advocate" attended the meeting known by this time as "Kinfolk Meeting" and published a lengthy article about their experience. They arrived late and the door was locked for Love Feast. We can only assume that they, like Aunt Nancy, were not also locked out of heaven. The gathering they describe sounds familiar. A visit to the graveyard, a sermon, dinner, another sermon, prayers, rejoicing, and happy people were then, as now, the core of Camp Meeting.

Here is one of their most interesting observations, "the faith and good works, and the eccentricities too, of the father [Howell Taylor] descending, as it were, to his children, and to his children's children." How enlightening to see yourself from another's perspective. A week in a Tennessee July, no air-conditioning, courting in a cemetery, hash for breakfast, three church services most days and five on Sunday. Let us pray the faith and good works still descend, for I am sure of the eccentricities.

In September of 1870, John Taylor turned the pulpit and benches in Tabernacle Church. By this time, the church had stood longer than the previous two combined. This reorientation may mean that our latest reorientation has brought us back to the original plan. The church also got a new coat of paint for the annual meeting that fall. The bill was $142.50.

In 1876, the schedule of the Kinfolks Meeting was altered. John A. Taylor wrote Robert Venable Taylor, afraid that he had not seen the change published in the paper, "I write to inform you that it will henceforth include the first instead of the 3rd Sunday in Sept."

In 1880, Dr. W. L. Duckworth did something that would change the meeting forever. Having recently lost his wife and having too many children to impose on anyone's hospitality, Dr. Duckworth pitched a tent on the grounds. By 1890, Will A. Taylor reports, "A good many of the friends are already tenting on the ground at the church."

However, a generational difference is apparent in the use of the word "tent". Some likely had more solid structures than a cloth tent. In 1892, Will A. Taylor writes, "Got about 400 more ft. of lumber to finish house to tent in during the meeting. We are all down on church ground tonight. There are about a dozen tents here." In Will A.'s day, the word "tent" could mean any cabin, camp or cloth structure that was used on a temporary or part-time basis. At the nearby Joyner's meeting, they call their cabins "tents" to this day.

As foundations were cleared for tents and cabins, a firmer foundation for the meeting was laid as well. In 1883, Will A. Taylor drafted two Articles pertaining to the "Annual Convocation at Tabernacle." These Articles call for the eldest Preacher in the family to be the President; establishes membership, "all the descendants of any who have ever been connected with the church at Tabernacle"; an Executive Committee, as well as a Secretary, quorum, and authority to conduct business; and requires at least a Friday to Monday meeting with "preaching and religious services . . . kept us during these exercises."

Around this time the organization of the meeting itself was struggling to meet the demands of a growing family and a larger campground population. Meals seem to have been a particular problem. John A. Taylor wrote in 1880, "Let every one gratify his own taste in the matter. We have tried it without carrying our dinner. It does not work.. . . We have tried it by spreading cloths on the ground without plates, knives and forks. Too much grease for comfort in that arrangement. We have tried it without cakes, pies, etc. We like it better with these."

By 1895, there were 10 camps on the grounds. In 1896, the first family group photographs were taken. In 1898, the fund for a monument to Howell Taylor began and the monument was dedicated in August 1899. At the turn of the century, Tabernacle continued to grow and build. In 1906, tents were common, but each year brought more permanent structures. In 1907, Robert Venable Taylor drafted By-Laws of the meeting. The bylaws were simple. They outlined the purpose of the meeting, the membership, the Memorial Service, and officers.

Robert Venable Taylor, the last surviving grandson of Howell Taylor, died in 1919. Howell Richard Taylor took his place as President of the Kinfolks Camp Meeting Association. He wrote at his appointment, "I have fallen heir to a great heritage. The mantle of the saints of preceding generations has fallen upon my shoulders. I am challenged and inspired to try to walk in the footprints of those who have gone before."

In 1922, eight new houses and a beautiful remodel of the 1847 church building to a brick façade graced the grounds. The church, even still, was not large enough to hold the crowd, so a tent was rented for the week. By this time, the meeting was held in late August and was a week-long event. Samuel H. Taylor reports at the meeting's end, "Worked like the mischief moving from Tabernacle."

The next several years brought wonders to the campground. Electricity came in 1937. Wilson Mount first served as songleader in 1939, although he didn't become a fixture until 1945. Story Hour with Miss Louise Durham began in 1941. At the close of the meeting in 1942, Howell Taylor wrote, "Somehow it was hard to break away from the place that has grown dearer through the years. The meeting this year has meant much to me. . . All seemed to feel the touch of sadness caused by the absence of the boys in service." The touch of sadness followed by aching grief for those who never returned.

In 1946, a grand addition, "this year baseball games have been added to camp meeting activities. It is furnishing much pleasure to the boys and men of the teams and equally as much entertainment to the onlookers." In 1947, another campground tradition premiered. John Thornton, Jr. and Ben Sharpe provided a slide show of previous meetings. "They were certainly appreciated by everyone and requests were made that the custom be continued each year as a matter of record and pleasure." 1948 was a year like every other with "singing and much laughter."

In 1955, even the slipperiest of backsliders got new motivation to head to church — air-conditioning. Today, we head to church early "to get a seat", but in the hottest years the cool temperature beckons more than any cushion. The church reportedly has heat, too, although fewer of us have ever considered it. The same year, the family began a labor of love that continues to this day. The Historical Committee was appointed "to do research and compile a history of Kinfolks Meetings."

Our preacher in 1955, Rev. W. Q. Scruggs, left a few words with us about his experience. "The Tabernacle Camp Meeting is the best combination of food-fun-and-salvation I ever saw or ever hope to see on this earth." Food-fun-and-salvation nearly covers the entire week. Howell and Richard Taylor might take exception to the order of that list, although I'm not sure it's inappropriate. Food and fun are marvelous gifts of Camp Meeting and may even appear to come first, but at the end salvation is the goal.

1964 brought one of our richest blessings, the Rev. Ellsworth Kalas. I remember in the late 1970s or so, Dr. Kalas preached morning sermons on the characters of the Old Testament. I wish I could say I remember the lessons, but mostly I remember coloring pictures of Jezebel after church. It was the first time I had ever voluntarily stayed for sermons. For a child of less than 10, perhaps that's the best lesson I could have learned. A "Kalas year" still motivates me to worry a little less about the weather and cut the cake for lunch early enough that I can make it to morning church.

Rev. Howell R. Taylor died in 1967. "When the assembly calls to worship are made this summer, those attending will hear another voice." The voice was that of Joseph Thornton III. That voice is for many of us the only voice Tabernacle has ever had. Joe is a great-great-great grandson of Richard Taylor and his true heir. "Richard Taylor was the most eloquent man in prayer that we had on the circuit. His whole soul seemed to go out in prayer. His fervent zeal and deep earnestness found expression in the richest and most glowing language. He seemed to enter the very presence chamber of the Almighty." In the days after September 11, I longed to hear Joe's voice. I know that if anyone could find the words and pray the prayer I needed, he could. The gifts of our ancestors are fully present even today.

In 1975, the meeting was moved to the first Friday in August. This schedule held until 2000, when encroaching school calendars encouraged the move to mid-July. The Heritage Walk also debuted in 1975. Every Saturday morning we head to the cemetery to give the children a different perspective on all those markers. In time, they learn the names of their ancestors and how we trace back to Howell Taylor. That morning, many of them simply learn that there is more to the graveyard than climbing Sturdivant and playing "Ghost in the Graveyard" with their flashlights.

Yet, flashlights and "Ghost in the Graveyard" are part of the wonder of Camp Meeting. Children learn early that the graveyard is no place to fear, beyond an older cousin's sneak attack. When I was a child, the size of your flashlight was of critical importance. The little children had small ones to fit the size of their hands. Older children had progressively larger lights, until one year, you finally had the coveted lantern flashlight that could spotlight the church from the back fence of the cemetery. The next year, you gave up the flashlight, preferring to let your feet find the path they know so well. I still don't carry a flashlight, but I'm sure I will again, when my feet are no longer as sure of the pathway.

In 1989, the church underwent its latest remodel. It was enlarged and the pulpit turned to face the other direction. In the beginning, I was disoriented. Favorite seats had to be renegotiated and the new hymnbooks felt too slick in my hands. Everything has settled now. I am expecting the view when I open the door. Yet, I occasionally get a glimpse of the old church in my mind. Whenever I do, I see Uncle Edmond and Miss Averil sitting on the diagonal pew right by the door. My view of them is not from the side, as an adult sitting in a pew along with them, but from the front, as I saw them for years as I sat on the altar with my flashlight waiting for the voice of Tabernacle to send me squealing into the night toward the graveyard.

With all the history behind us, the story of Tabernacle is just beginning. Our connection to this place was our ancestors' most precious bequest and, with God's grace, we will pass it down to those that Robert Venable Taylor called "the remotest generation." My great-grandmother, Emma Lee Taylor Hamner wrote, "Dear old Tabernacle where we all worshiped from our infancy and now our precious loved ones who have gone before are sleeping there to await the great resurrection morn. There is no spot on earth so sacred to me as this hallowed ground." And the people said, "Amen."

The Taylors, Methodism and Camp Meeting

Hannah Shaw Walton McCall

The Taylors have been "Methodists" since before there was a Methodist Church. The Methodist Episcopal Church was not formally created until the Christmas Conference at Baltimore in 1784. But as early as 1775, Methodist circuit riders had been welcomed in the Taylor home and a Methodist society had been formed at the Tabernacle.

Family tradition has it that Francis Asbury, the great circuit riding preacher and first Bishop of the Methodist Church, crossed the river at Taylor's Ferry and was directed to the home of Col. Edmund Taylor by Jack, the ferryman, because the Taylors were "praying people." The encounter between Asbury and Jack may actually have happened. The Taylors did operate a ferry on the Roanoke River. And, reputedly, members of the Taylor family never had to pay the toll for using the ferry. Also, the slave, Jack, was known to have captured several British soldiers in the Revolutionary War. However, it was probably not Asbury that made the first contact between the Taylor family and Methodism. In 1775, circuit rider George Shadford recorded in his journal that he was turned back at a river by a great flood of water and came to a large plantation where he asked for lodging. He was kindly received, and "after taking some refreshment, proposed to preach if a congregation could be had." A messenger was sent out, and many came, "but they were wild as boars." The word however took effect upon their "rude hearts;" the planter and his wife were converted. In 1777, another early circuit rider, Freeborn Garrettson recorded, "We held a watch night, and I think I never had more freedom to speak. The word was blessed to the Colonel and his family, and they treated me ever after more like a son than a stranger; yea, I may say, more like an angel than a poor clod of earth. And I, on my part, shall ever respect them for their kindness to me." Howell, Col. Edmund Taylor's son, was an unmarried man of twenty-one years in 1775 when George Shadford preached in his home.

Regardless of whether or not the encounter between Asbury and the ferryman ever happened, it is known for certain that Francis Asbury did visit Col. Taylor on his trip through the area in 1780. His journal recounts being well received by the family and preaching at the Tabernacle to a crowd of 400 people. There is ample evidence to the bond that formed between the Taylors and Bishop Asbury and Methodism. Asbury makes numerous references to visits in the Taylor homes — sometimes to Col. Edmund's, sometimes to Edmund, Jr.'s, sometimes to Howell's. In 1805 the Annual Conference of the Virginia Conference was held at the home of Col. Edmund Taylor. On his way there, Asbury writes, "We directed our course to Salem, chiefly to see Sister Taylor, at Howell Taylor's. She, confident of God, is suffering on patiently until she is released from her load of painful affliction." (Susan, called Susanna, Young Taylor died in 1810.)

{Note: At the time of Asbury's first visits, the Edmund Taylor home was located in Mecklenberg County, Virginia, just south of the Roanoke River. Col. Taylor built the "Tabernacle" on his property six miles to the south of the house, which happened to be across the state line, one-half mile into North Carolina. Today's Tabernacle United Methodist Church is located in Townsville, NC. By 1791, Col. Taylor had moved south into Granville County, NC. The land that he deeded to his son Howell in 1778 was in Mecklenberg County, VA.}

Howell Taylor, son of Col. Edmund Taylor, was born in Virginia, October 16, 1754 and died in Haywood County, Tennessee, May 30, 1845, at 90 years of age. He was influenced, as a young adult, by Bishop Francis Asbury and the other Methodist preachers that passed through his father's home. It is believed by the family that Howell's conversion occurred at the Tabernacle near his home in 1784. Howell was licensed to preach but never felt especially called to preach, so he said. He did, however, make exceptions for funerals, children baptisms, weddings and certain meetings because he did want to meet the needs of the community and there were a scarce number of preachers in the community. One account of Howell comes from Rev. Thomas Ware during the quarterly meeting in 1790, "On Sunday morning the love-feast was appointed to begin at eight o'clock. When the house was filled, those who could not get in were engaged in some religious exercises without, and numbers were under the trees. A son of Col. Taylor, of Tar River, supported by two men, went about among the people, praising God, and telling them what the Lord had done for his soul; wherever he came they were melted into tears. His appearance was sufficient to disarm the most stout-hearted of them. As to preaching, it was out of the question. Nor did there seem to be any need of it; for all seemed to yield to the gracious influence, and with melting hearts to say, 'This is the work of God.'"

Howell was known for his originality, his independence of character, punctuality and diligence. In addition he was known for his usefulness in the community, especially in the church. His eccentricities were all innocent, and as he enjoyed them, no one objected to them. He was plain, candid and outspoken. His grandson, Samuel Edmund Taylor, wrote in 1899, "I do not think any man in this country ever wielded such influence upon his posterity as did he. He was not a man of scholarly attainments, and yet he ranked among the wisest men who ever lived. He seemed to live for one purpose only, and that was to serve his God. This purpose was as firmly fixed in him when around his hearthstone, or in his field, or in the deer hunt, or upon the highway of travel, as if he were in his chosen corner at church. He would have died a martyr to his faith in his God. He stood opposed to every calling or pursuit in life the tendency of which was to draw men away from God. When asked why he did not send his sons to college, his reply was, 'too little of God at college.'"

Howell's character and sense of purpose, and his sense of humor, are evident in this letter to his son Edmund (still in Virginia), dated June 10, 1828:

> "I am glad to hear from your sister Judith that the sting of death is drawn from her. As she is confined to her home would it not be best to appoint prayer meeting at her house with her consent. I hope we are as determined to seek the salvation of our soul as we ever were. Oh let us struggle on my son till we gain the prize. Tell Allen I am thankful to him for his letter. He writes that he means to stand for old Methodism and so do I, my son. God being my helper; I am in my seventy-fourth year and never had better health. Tell Howell and Mary (Edmund's children, Howell's grandchildren) to come and eat bear meat with me."

In 1778, Col. Taylor wrote to his son Howell "for the natural love and affection I bear to my son Howell Taylor and for his advancement in the world I deed him a tract of 2,300 acres of land on the waters of Beach Creek." That same year, Howell married Susan Young. She was from an equally prominent Methodist family and was, as described by her grandson, John A. Taylor, "a woman of strong mind and of a decided character for virtue, and holiness." They had six sons and two daughters: Samuel Allen, born 1780; Judith Burton, born 1781; Anne Lewis, born 1782; Edmund Taylor, born 1785; John Y. Taylor, born 1787; Howell Taylor Jr., born 1791; Richard Taylor, born 1793; and James Wesley, born 1793 and died young.

It was two of Howells' youngest children, Richard and John Y., who decided to move from Virginia and pioneer to the Western country. (Note: Richard's wife, Nancy, was from the middle Tennessee area.) Howell, aged 62, decided to go with them – "for rich land, for health, a good range and good society." They settled in Montgomery County, Tennessee in 1817.

Howell's grandson, John A. Taylor, records: "My grand-father bought the place at which he lived from Mrs. Lockett and moved to it on August 26, 1817. His sons settled about four miles east of him. His daughter, Anne Lewis, and family (she had married Samuel Jordan) arrived with 'Aunt Becky' in that same year. Aunt Becky and Grand-father were married Nov. 13th 1817 (at my Father's.) These lived in Montgomery County till 1826 when my father (Richard Taylor) left for Haywood. He brought some hands down (there) the fall before removal, and built a cabin with dirt floor; put up a crib; fenced a small lot; planted his seed for an orchard; and made a little start for a settlement before moving.

Richard moved his family and goods, landing at his home February 20, 1826. "The wagons were hardly moved from the spot which they unloaded; before these pioneers, THE METHODIST PREACHERS, were on hand to spend the night. I do not know which party was more rejoiced at seeing the other, my Father and Mother, or Greenbury Garrett and Richard Huston. The preachers wanted to form societies, and build churches; while the others were as anxious to engage in the work, as were they. This desire seasoned the cup of everybody, and no one felt the least grieved with rough fare, and humble doings. In hauling his goods from the river, my father had some three or four of his fine horses killed by the Buffalo gnats. It was at that time a great loss."

Richard Taylor and family moved from Clarksville to Haywood County in February of 1826 and settled on 765 1/2 acres of land there. Later that same year, his father and brother moved to Haywood and settled in the same area. As John Y. Taylor described it, "In the fall of 1826 my father took a wagon and put Mother (Nancy Alexander) and three sons, and two servants in a wagon to make a visit to Grand-father (Howell) and Uncle John (John Y.).

"As Grandfather and Uncle John were to move to Haywood that same fall, it was agreed that my brother Bob should remain with Uncle John while his oldest daughter Elizabeth should accompany my father and mother (back to Haywood County). When the time arrived for the separation my brother backed out and I remained in his place (with Uncle John), and thus I moved twice, and helped drive cattle, turkeys, and geese, etc. In the removal of my father, a certain cat claimed by us boys had been left behind. This cat was taken possession of when we went back upon a visit, and brothers Bob and Joe brought her out with them. The cat was named Kate and when we met they had many things to tell me about 'Aunt Kate.'"

In 1828, Howell Taylor wrote a letter to his son, Edmund, saying that he had never lived in a place that he was better pleased with than this. He told Edmund that the land was cheap, costing him $2-$4 per acre. At the time Edmund was still living in Mecklenburg County, Virginia. Howell mentions that he, age 74, and his wife, Becky, are in better health than they ever have been before. Between 1818 and 1823, Edmund, Howell, Jr. and Allen each made a visit from Virginia to Tennessee.

In 1831 and 1832, Allen, Howell Jr., and Edmund all made the move to Haywood County to join their brothers Richard and John Y., along with their father, Rev. Howell Taylor. Their sister, Judith, did not move to Haywood, but three of her children did. Another sister, Anne Lewis moved to Haywood at some time, but in 1834 moved back to Montgomery County.

John A. Taylor, Howell's grandson, writes, "It was in the children of my grand-father that his branch of the Taylor Family reached its greatest altitude of perfection. I have known no man with five sons, everyone of which would have been a ruling spirit in his neighborhood, and who would have ruled with such exactness in dealing justly with men, and in having God in everything that they did. They were superior to their ancestors and also their descendants."

Allen was the oldest son and a gentleman. He was said to be refined, hospitable and generous. Often he hosted gatherings of young people in his home. He paid far more attention to etiquette than his brothers. He also paid close attention to his Christian duties and was understood as a substantial man of God, full of religious zeal. Unfortunately, Allen did not live a long life, but died at age 55.

Edmund lived 86 years. He proved to be a remarkable example of longevity. He was a man of cheerful, innocent, peaceful character. He inherited the magnetism of his father and drew the crowd around him in every circle he entered. Yet there was an idiosyncrasy that often manifested itself in unlooked for and unexpected ways, exciting agreeable surprise or astonishment and awe. Edmund outlived his brothers by many years.

John Y. bore a "Moses-like meekness." He was mild and gentle of expression, and delicate of health. He possessed a martyr spirit, knew no fear of man, and had a directness of speech. He was seldom able to appear in the pulpit, but he preached by example.

Howell Jr. was said to be the most dignified and learned of the five brothers, well read and a ready writer, more the politician than his brothers. Howell Jr. showed all the dignity of a Christian Bishop, and all the firmness of a Christian martyr. He bore the designation "Captain," although no record of the basis for this rank has been found to date.

Richard was described as one of God's noblemen, the most elegant man in prayer, with fervent zeal, deep earnestness, and rich and flowing language. He was large hearted and liberal in his views, given to hospitality and successful in business, fond of society and recreation, a great hunter. None was more zealous in behalf of the church.

All of these sons were pioneers of the scripture. They all lived by the motto "As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord." Also, each family was involved in the services of The Tabernacle.

In "Reminisces of Old Times in West Tennessee," Joseph S. Williams remembers that the Taylors were "men of parts and large property, zealous in the advocacy and vindication of law and order, noted for their patriotic zeal and Christian virtues. None contributed more in the forming of sound morals and the general well being of society."

John Taylor Barbee, M.D., in 1947, wrote, "He and his five sons were all farmers and fox hunters. They were all Methodist and very religious. Under the Rev. Howell Taylor they built the first "Taylor Tabernacle" five miles north of Brownsville."

In 1826 Richard Taylor and others built a church on Richard's property, near the road. This church was thirty feet by thirty-six feet, and named "New Hope." In 1846, Richard deeded 1 1/2 acres where the church stood to the Methodist Episcopal Church and renamed it "Tabernacle." Trustees at that time were John Williams, John Y. Taylor, Robert Howell Taylor, Alex Claiborne, Richard Taylor, Joseph Richard Taylor and William Bullock Taylor. These trustees appointed a successor to fill their places so as to continue this line of the trust forever. In 1894, William A. Taylor (Richard's grandson) deeded 6 acres of land to the Tabernacle Church South, the eastern portion to be used as a graveyard for whites. "Taylor's Chapel" was built by Edmund Taylor in 1847, near his home in Fayette County. Another church, "Prospect," was established by Capt. Howell Taylor, Jr. and others in the area south of Brownsville where they had settled.

When Richard Taylor first came to Haywood County, he built a log cabin with a dirt floor. In 1826, Richard had trees cut and planed into lumber for building the beginning of his home, "New Hope." New Hope at Tabernacle is the oldest home in the Taylor family. The location of this house was selected because of its proximity to a perpetual spring. After Richard Taylor's widow, Ann Jett Harvey Taylor, died, his grandson, William Alexander Taylor, moved into New Hope. Will A.'s son, Edmond Wilder Taylor, occupied the house thereafter, until his death in 1995. Richard Taylor's great-great-great-grandson, Richard Howell Taylor, now occupies the house, with his family. The current Richard has begun an extensive restoration and conservation effort on the house that has been home to the Taylors for seven generations.

Camp meetings in Mecklenburg County date back to the 1790's. The first of them was said to take place at Zion Chapel, with Bishop Asbury as the speaker. The records say that a horn was blown to signal each tent to begin praying and singing. Sermons were held before breakfast, another in mid-morning, afternoon, and a last sermon of the day was held after dinner in candlelight. Revivals and protracted meetings would also have been held during this time at the "Tabernacle" which Edmund Taylor had built in Virginia.

From the time they landed in Haywood County in1826, the Taylors had family preaching, gathering, and annual revival at the "Tabernacle." In 1855 Richard Taylor, son of Howell Taylor, organized and formalized the meeting by appointing executive members and setting a definite 2-day meeting at Tabernacle Church. The appointed men were Rev. Thomas Taylor, Rev. Joseph J. Somervill and Rev. Robert V. Taylor. Robert V. Taylor (grandson of Howell) served as President of the Kinfolk Association from 1855-1919. Rev. Howell Richard Taylor (great-grandson of Howell) served as President from 1919-1967. Rev. Joseph Richard Thornton III (great-great-great-great grandson of Howell) has served as President of the Kinfolk Association since 1967 to the present.

Robert V. Taylor writes in commemoration to Richard Taylor, "It was the one heavenly thought of his life to bring the children into the church. This is the great conservative element of human society, and a benediction to the world. He wanted his children's children and the children of his neighbors converted and brought into the Church to the remotest generation. To this end these services were instituted. While we gather here annually in tender recollection of our dead, and mingle our spirits in the sweet communion with theirs, we should never lose sight of the pious and leading thought of Richard Taylor in originating this anniversary."

In their 178th year in this place, the Taylors still live and worship in the house of their fathers, and mothers.

From 1880, John A. Taylor:

It is not good order

1. for boys to be riding horses either to water or anywhere else during the time of service.
2. for persons, either men or ladies, to form groups out of doors and continue talking while service is going on in the house.
3. for gentlemen, when invited to dinner, to overlook bacon, beef, lamb, shoat and fowls and begin upon cakes and sweet meats, which for the most part have been provided for the ladies. Such a course of conduct as this might lead to the providing of one table for gentlemen and one for the ladies, which would destroy half the sociability of the occasion.
4. for any body to go without dinner from timidity to let it be known to some proprietor that they have had none.
5. for anyone to pack up provisions so long as anybody is unfed. It is no breach of good order for any one who has not had dinner to make it known to some proprietor, who will see that they are provided for.

From 1883, Will A. Taylor:

Article No. 1

"Annual Convocation at Tabernacle"

"The Preacher God shall call from our midst shall be the President, the three oldest members the Executive Committee, they may call into their counsel any they think proper.

All the descendents of any who have ever been connected with the church at Tabernacle shall constitute the membership of the association. Each of these may solicit the attendance of any they think will be benefited by the services.

Sat. P.M. before the 1st Sunday in Sept. shall be set apart to do honor to the memory of the dead (at the graveyard or in the church as the circumstances of the hour may indicate). The Pres. with the Executive Committee and their council shall appoint someone to deliver a lecture or read an essay and then call for voluntary speeches suitable to the occasion. It is expected that the membership far and near will come in on Friday prepared to remain at least till Monday following and that preaching and religious services will be regularly kept up during these exercises.

This association we hope to be perpetuated and we earnestly pray that the blessings of God through Christ may rest upon it in the salvation of the posterity that is to come after from generation to generation that we may all be numbered at last among the saved and redeemed in our Father's house when we will go out no more forever.

Also a Secretary to record all the important events in a permanent book connected with the association.

The Secretary shall have power to call together at any time any five members (three constitute a quorum) to transact any business that appertains to the interest of the association, fill vacancies, appoint officers, take collections, make improvements, etc."

Article No. 2

"The unwritten Origin and Constitution of Annual Meeting at Tabernacle, Haywood County, Tennessee named Yearly Convocation, commonly called Kinsfolk Meeting, because they predominate in such large numbers.

About sixty years ago Richard Taylor appointed Rev. Thos. Taylor, Rev. Joseph Somervill, and Rev. Richard Venable Taylor, to hold annually a two-day meeting at Tabernacle, where he and his numerous family and many of his neighbors had their church membership in the Methodist Episcopal Church, South.

From 1907, Rev. R. V. Taylor:

By-Laws

1. It was his expressed wish and desire that these meetings be perpetuated that his children's children and his neighbor's children from generation to generation, through the future be brought into the fold of Christ.
2. All that take an interest in these meetings, and show it by their presence, constitute its membership.
3. Saturday Memorial day; a funeral sermon was usually preached in memory of those who had died during the past year.
4. The officers are president, Vice President, and Secretary & Treasurer. The President selected from one called to preach and sent out from this church. The pastor is Vice President. The Secretary & Treasurer knows his duty.

From 1983, Business Meeting:

The following system of governing bodies was approved in regard to camp house building and transfer.

A. Building Committee governed by The Board of Trustees governed by camps
B. One vote per active kitchen. Acquisition of camps shall be based on camping seniority. It was voted by the Trustees that any individual planning a new camp, or addition, seek the approval of the Building Committee regarding camp site and type of structure. If dissatisfied, the individual may then appeal to the Board of Trustees. If there is still a grievance, the matter will be settled finally by a vote of the camps. Each kitchen operated the previous year shall carry one vote. Regarding the transfer of a camp to another individual, the board voted the following recommendations.

1. The first step in the transfer of a camp house shall be private negotiations between the individuals, with the approval of the Building Committee. If this can be achieved satisfactorily the process ends there.
2. If the camp remains for two years without reasonable use (to be determined by the Board of Trustees), a qualified participant may appeal to the Building Committee for action.

From 2000, Business Meeting:

A motion was made that the following dates be set:

July 13-19 2001	July 16-22 2004
July 12-18 2002	July 15-21 2005
July 18-24 2003

With this schedule, Camp Meeting will start on the Friday closest to the 15th of July. The motion was seconded and passed. (28 for/1 against).

Letters

"My interest in their future is very strong, and indeed almost amounts to unhappiness, but I shall try to train them up right, I rely upon the truth of the old Scriptural adage for the balance."

Henry Lewis Taylor

Introduction to Letters

Becky Duffey Thornton is a true scholar and guardian of family history. She is a great-great-great-great-grand-daughter of Rev. Howell Taylor and lives in the house that her great-great grandparents built. She wrote, concerning transcribing these letters,

"The benefit is that since I have the originals I could verify through the context of the letters as well as the addresses on most of them – plus the handwriting – to whom they were written and by whom.

Also, I don't know if it is any benefit to have the letters transcribed exactly the way they were written or not, but I happen to like seeing them in the original form with the original spelling and punctuation. It doesn't mean that the writers were not educated, just that grammar and spelling were different two centuries ago.

The personal benefit to me has been that I feel much closer to our ancestors. I have grieved with Robert Howell and Harriet Susan over outliving three of their five children, children who could claim both Richard and Capt. Howell as their grandfathers. I even dreamed about them last night. It's meaningful to me how much I "interact" with them.

What a blessing we have received."

"These men solved the problem of compatibility of religious sanctity and social enjoyment. In their convivial merriment there was never any sacrifice of the religious principle. This, like a golden thread, was woven in their walk, talk and intercourse with the world. They did not allow themselves to be cramped and fretted with artificial rules of etiquette and superficial conventionalities. They possessed a dignity, ease and grace that was so natural that it gave them a ready access to all and a passport to the highest grace of society. They were as firm as a rock in their religious convictions, and as regular to their prayer as to their daily meals."

Rev. Robert Venable Taylor, 1880.

LETTER TO EDMUND TAYLOR IN VIRGINIA FROM HIS BROTHER, JOHN Y. TAYLOR, IN MIDDLE TENNESSEE. "Brother R. and son John" are Richard and his son, John A. Taylor. "Martha" (Alexander) is John Y.'s wife. "Father and Mother" are Rev. Howell and his second wife, Rebecca.

Letter was cut off in the middle.

It was written December 14, 1819. Rev. Howell, Richard, and John Y. had left Virginia for Tennessee in March of 1817.

(Spelling and punctuation are as written.)

Dear Brother,

After a long silence on both sides I write to you. Martha has been afflicted with a pain in her shoulder Neck and one of her eyes, but is much mended. Our Children are well and I enjoy tolerable health. Father and Mother were well on Saturday. Brother R and Family are mostly well except his Son John and he is very sick we think with the yellow Jaunders. I hope my long silence will be excused when I state the cause. You instructed me to procure a plantation (etc.?) for WS and SD. I cant get a suitable place directly in the neighbourhood for them and knew not what to say until this was known, and not hearing from either of them since I received your letter have finally concluded they have declined (torn page) their design this is an excellent place for a sho(?)(torn page)aker and had I not have been confined directly to the neighbourhood a suitable place might have been procured (rest of page torn off) times are dull(?) as to trade and Money scarce hardly a fin(?) (fair?) price for Tob. But I have engaged mine-my Tob. At $5&1/2 pCw(?) distance is two great, pray for your unworthy Brother Martha Joines me in love to Brothers and Cisters by name and all enquiring friends.

LETTER TO EDMUND TAYLOR FROM HIS FATHER, REV. HOWELL TAYLOR. "Your mother" must be Rebecca, Rev. Howell's second wife, as Susan, his real mother, had died by this time. Ann Jordan is Ann Lewis Taylor, Howell and Susan's daughter, who married Samuel Jordan. John and Richard are Howell's sons. "Molley" is not known-maybe a servant.

Spelling and most punctuation unchanged.

Tennessee, June 7, 1824

Dear Edmund, I have sat down to wright you a few lines and hardly can git you a subject worth a reading, although I think you would be glad to know from us at any time, our health I think is as Common at this time except Your Mother for Some days past with a bad Tooth ake, and at present with a head ake, Ann Jordan is porely, the rest of Your Brothers and Sisters, as far as I know I beleave is in Tolerable health, Except some of there Children with the hooping Coff. Your Molley has another daughter born April 25, 1824 name, Mary Jane, our Crops is Very promising at the time, my Tobacco turned out but Pore last year on the account of a hale one pease that was almost Sholder high. I did not git one leaf, we Saved only five hogsheads three sold for $4.24, cents (?) sold for $3.25 cents at new orleanes, yesterday weak Brother Harrison preached, and your Brother John Spoke after him, and the Power of God followed his word and we had a Gracious Season indeed. I was much lifted up to see John, Richard and there wives together with Your Sister Jordan all shouting and praising him who are worthe of all prase as to My Self if I am not deceased I am as much determined to Serve God as ever I was in all my life, I find these is no gitting along without diligence, I hope these lines may find you well, and on the way to heaven.

Give my love to all Your Brothers and sisters wife a black People and Neighbours, pray for your old Father that his faith fale not.

LETTER TO HOWELL A. TAYLOR OF FAYETTE CO., TN, (Son of Edmund and Elizabeth Pettus Venable) from his double first cousin, Henry L. Taylor (son of Capt. Howell and Mary Pettus Venable)

Letter was used later for a note pad with reminders and figures, as were a lot of the Taylor letters. The bank was in Somerville I have been told.

At Home May 9th-1835

Cousin Howell

Pa request me to write and say that he has put another trouble upon you, he ask that you will take the enclosed bills to the bank as a secu-ral(?) of his note, get the note in your possession, and keep it until you see fit to visit us, probaby you may be required to sign the bills in order to give you control of the note, if that be the case please do so, the $25 enclosed we suppose will be sufficient to pay the discount, you may think it strange that he does not send me to attend to the business, but I offer no apology for him, construe it as you like.

Pa is quite afflicted at this time, does not use his arm yet, but suffers more from a little sore on his lip (the cause of which I know not) than from the arm, it gives him a fever, and much against his inclination confines him to his room, we would be glad to see you at ay time

LETTER TO EDMUND TAYLOR OF FAYETTE CO., TN. From his brother, Capt. Howell. "Richard" is their brother, and his wife is Sophronia Macon. Who is "Brother James?" The eighth child of Rev. Howell, James Wesley, died young in Virginia.

Brownsville, Fby 28th 1837

Dear Brother

I record yours by Mr Hunter- was sorry to hear that you had been more indisposed-but glad to hear of your improvement-and also that of Brother James. I expected him and yourself over last week-but if it is his pleasure to remain longer with you I have no objection. I wish him to act for his own pleasure. I am pleased to inform you that our Family is in usual health—Brother Richard's Wife is much on the mend-and Father is no worse probably some better. brother Richard says he is serving on the Grand Jury at Court which will probably prevent his being at the quarterly meeting-I wish our children to go over but don't know whether I can get them off. I caught cold when I was over with you and have had to keep tolerable close except in good weather ever since I am getting over it-but think it would be imprudent to expose myself until warm weather. Give my best respects to brother James and tell him I expect Mr. Mathews will start to Orleans next week-

Yours Truly

LETTER TO EDMUND TAYLOR OF FAYETTE COUNTY FROM HIS BROTHER, CAPT. HOWELL TAYLOR. This "cousin Sarah and child" is likely Edmund's daughter who married Robert Burwell Alexander. Mary is Howell's wife, and Richard's son, "E" must be Samuel Edmund.

Dear Brother

We were much pleased to hear that Cousin Sarah and her child is likely to recover and not much complaint in your own Family. Our white Family including your Sons are in common health. Mary came home from Robert Taylors this morning. Father and friends mostly about. Brother John rather complaining. Brother Richards Son E at Brother Johns – quite unwell—our grass was so very ripe when cut most of the seed had lost and having to get out of a large quantity of Hay took much time which detained your Boys-I send Cousin Howell 2 bags herd(?) grass and 1 Timothy Seed- I expect Brother and G.(?) Smith your Sons and ours will be at the Camp Meeting on Saturday-whether Mary will go I am not able to say- I wish to be there the latter part of the meeting if convenient. dont Tent on our account because we could all go to Your House- we are now curing too Barns of very bright Tobacco- The rains is fine for the latter part of the crop. Yours with the most affectionate regard

LETTER TO EDMUND ALLEN TAYLOR (while in Kentucky studying medicine) from his brother-in-law (also his first cousin), Robert Howell Taylor. "Dump" is Edmund's sister and Robert's wife, Harriett Susan (Taylor) Taylor. "Puss" is Amanda Elizabeth Ann Taylor, sister of both Edmund and Harriett. Amanda died in childbirth with her first baby. "Baby Mary" is the oldest child—also mentioned in other letters—of Robert and Harriett. She died at age 16.

Dear Ed,

We have received your favour of the 8 inst and return to you our sincere thanks for the notice you have taken of us and also proceed in our plain unvarnished manner to frame some sort of an answer.

It has been a great many months since we attempted anything like an epistalatory correspondence with any persons and from your own confession I am aware that you are not a stranger to the fact that there are many difficulties attendant upon the task of writing with those who are not accostomed to it.

Thanks to a kind and presirving Providence that you will find no obituary in this sheet for as far as my memory srves me the list of your friends has sustained no loss since you left. Nor has there been any serious case of desease among them to my knowledge and as far as it now extends they are all enjoying tolerable if not good health.

Dump and Puss are now sitting by (torn page) little Mary is playing on the carpet and (torn page) am asking her if she wants to see Uncle Ed and she replies yes as plain and as earnest as you could. She is verry fat and mischievous talks a little cries a little plays no litte and says yes to every thing you may ask her.

It is Christmas times with us according to the almanack but nothing else except the marrying and parade of the Negroes.

I made a very indifferent crop of cotton this year according to costom a tolerable crop of cron and other things, I went down to Mr. Howell Reeds a week or two ago and started one of the largest wolves that ever I saw gave him a powerful race but did not get him. The leaves were so dry that I could never get near enough to kill him and my dogs lost him in burnt woods after runing about 5 hours you know I am always there when they quit I went out the other morning with Jo and had a verry pretty fox chase which we caught in about an hour I have since caught a cat but this is dry talk to a man so far from home as you are I will therefore quit it, I wish now that it was in my power to ask you what to write about for I fear I shall not be able to fill up this sheet, Your sister says you may get Mary's frock of which you made mention earlier. We congratulate you on the progress you (torn page) making towards a professional man in looking to the future with regard to medicine we hope the confinement to which you must submit may not impair your health and that you may realize both in your studies and practise you most sanguine expectations. Success in this as in every other persuit depends upon personal effort and application which no doubt will obviate any difficulties that may be thrown in your way

Eminence and distinction in a useful profession are objects worthy the ambition of any man but how few ever attain to them, not because nature has thrown any in(????)arable obstructions (torn) their path nor because they have not the means of prosecuting the necessary course but because they fail to make that application which is the one thing needful for the accomplishment of any thing,

Your two sisters and Mary sends their love to you Accept of my cincere wishes for your happiness

Yours (etc)?(etc)? Robert H Taylor

Philidelphia Sunday Novbr 12th 1843

Dear Wife:

I arrived here in safety and in good healh on yesterdy and spent the day in looking at the City and in search of Mr. Howell, whom I found after a long search and procured boarding at the same house with him; which is an excellent house Frank; (as I stated in my letter at Cincinati which you have received;) had had chills he had two more and when we got to Wheeting I got medicine for him and advised him to remain there a day or two; I expect him here in the morning

The novelty of travelling and Romantic scenery on the route which affords matter for volums if I were disposed to write; were well calculated to interest me and call off my reflections from home and the sweet enjoyments of family and friends and in these things I realized some momentary enjoyments.

But now I am in my room and fully realize the sad misfortune of being seperated from you for so long a time; but we must like Philosphers submit to those privations which will result to our mutual interest; although for the presant it may seem intolerable in after years we will not regret it; although I have thought since I have been here if I were at home, all the Medicine and money in the world would not induce me to undertake it again; indeed if it were not for the mortification of our friends I would abandon medicine entirely and live the life of an honest and happy planter; these feelings will soon pass away I trust when I get to studying closely. I will write again in a few days I intend to write to you every week and you must do the same; my next I will direct to Denmark; give my respects to your father and family to papa, mama, family and friends, I feel so little like writing I can not write any more now.

I still remain your kind affectionate

LETTER TO DR. EDMUND ALLEN TAYLOR from: his father, Capt. Howell, his brother Henry L., And his mother, Mary Pettus Venable Taylor.

Also contains notes to Parizade, Edmund's wife, and Amanda, Edmund and Henry's sister from Henry and Mary.

Also includes Capt. Howell's copy of a letter from Dr. Barbee advising Edmund on a medical partnership when he returns from medical school. This letter has "Jany 27" and "Paid" written on the envelope by hand and initialed by the postmaster. It is addressed to: Dr. Edmund A. Taylor, Medical College, Louisville, Kentucky.

(As in all letters the spelling is left unchanged. Some punctuation has been altered for clarification. JRDT)

Haywood – (?) January 25th-1845

Dear Son,

Yours of the 12th is before me and I hope P. has recovered and that you are all in good health. I am just from your place all well except Mrs. Dowdy with a cold. She says Lucy is a fine steady woman and suits her well. They finished clearing today. The trees are to belt and rail (?) timber to cut. Things are going on smoothly—Mr. Dowdy requests me to say to you that you will not have enough corn and to enquire whether you wish to take his at 9/? Pr Barrel. There is no difficulty in selling but he has refused until he knew your mind-it is thought corn will be $2.00 after a while.

I visited Dr. Barbee to get his advice in regard to the proposed partnership with Dr. Watkins-he was from home attending Thomas Boyd who has since died. Wiley Johnson is also dead. The moment I commenced this letter Dr. Barbee's answer in writing was handed to me, which I will copy:

Dear Sir,

I have had the subject under consideration contained in Edmund's letter. Edmund will do well with or without a partner Doctor Watkins is a clever fine young man as far as my observation goes-My opinion is Edmund will not gain or loose anything by the copartnership-but as he is young and diffident a partner might render his situation more pleasant for the coming year-Tell him to consult his own feelings and that there is no objection to uniting with Watkins for one year.

Tell him to prepare himself to stand erect in his profession for every Tub stands on its own bottom in every department of life."

(Capt. Howell continues his part of the letter):

Dr. Watkins is in your shop(?)-but as you are in no way committed you can let things stand as they are until you come home and then do as you choose-whatever you think best to do will give me satisfaction-My House and my hands and heart is all open to you and Family and to do all for you in my power except to give you more property and money-and that you would not have while your mother and myself Henry and Amanda is still to be provided for. Turn over.

(On back of page):

The last of your cotton and mine and some of my tobacco is at the River. Robert H. Taylor and Henry expected to put it on board of the New Castle today and also some of his cotton and start to New Orleans-but the Boat disappointed them. They have made an arrangement with the Boat to take it all next week and they intend going. I think I shall not write to you again until their return if they should be spared-

I take a tea spoon full of Barks and a little wine every morning which has improved my health greatly. Your Mother is getting on as well as could be expected. John and Stephen as usual keep under some complaint in the winter. We have had mostly an open fine(?) fire(?) mild winter and but little sickness-I see your Grandfather last Sunday he was well as could be expected. Tell Amanda our friend Lorenzo Lea(?) is at Jackson-a find chance if she wishes to prosecute her studys. My love to you all- Your loving Father

Bro Ed Sunday evening

You told pa if he chose to pester himself with Bivens to(?) get me to draw off the apr(?), you need not be uneasy about him we will try to keep him in a good humour until you get home, but even if we were disposed to draw off the apr(?) we could not do it for Ma and myself have taken some faithfull looks for your Book to settle with some who have applied to me for a settlement and we can't find to save our lives. I was very sorry you hide it for people aught not to be kept from paying their debts when they git in the notion. Bob and myself expect to start to N.

Orleans next Thursday or Friday on the New Castle, I was truly mortified to find two or three sides of blank paper, not with you so much, but with Sis Pad and Puss, to think we send all of our letters crowded as thick as letters and lines can be, from margin to margin, and they let two or three blank sides come here and they not say a word, it is a shame, and if they don't alter I will quit writing so much. There was a murder committed in our neighbourhood a week or two ago, that shamed(?) Irishman Boyd shot old Jo Hawkins he lived a week or two after he was shot and then died, Boyd has made his escape and no one knows where he is, the difficulty between them was this, Boyd rented the place where Tom and Frank Hawkins lived last year-and when this new year came Boyd thinking their time out and his come goes to the house while the boys were absent takes their things out and puts his in, Old H and his two sons hearing of this goes there with their guns to see about, Boyd fastened himself up in the house and while they were walking around the house Boyd polked his gun through the window and shot old H.

You're a(?)(Affectionally?) Henry L. Taylor

NOTE: The following is from Henry Taylor to his sister-in-law, Parizade Meriwether Taylor, affectionately known as "Pad," and to his and Edmund's younger sister, Amanda, affectionately known as "Puss," who later on, after she married, died in childbirth. He wants them to write him!

Sis Pad and Puss

Are either of you acquainted with a gentleman living in the state of Tennessee Haywood County near Brownsville by the name of Henry L. Taylor? If you are your acquaintance must be very limited for I never hear of your writing him any letters. Yours A(symbol for "affectionately?")

A man that writes letters and gets no answer

Bro Ed

Troop and Bally are both doing very well

NOTE: The following are from Mary Venable Taylor to her daughter, Amanda, who is evidently with Edmund and Parizade in Kentucky, and to her daughter-in-law, Parizade.

Edmund and Parizade's daughter, Sarah Madison Taylor, later Johnson, is not yet one year old. I haven't determined who the "Nancy" mentioned could be. Amanda (and Edmund's) sister is Harriet Susan Taylor, who married her cousin, Robert Howell Taylor.

In the note to Parizade the sister mentioned is Parizade's sister, Caroline T. Meriwether, who married James Allen Taylor. The "Sam" mentioned is probably Caroline and Jame's son. Caroline's baby, who has Sarah's eyes, but is not as pretty as Sarah in Grandmother Parizade's opinion, (imagine that!) is Elizabeth Taylor, later Mrs. Bland Peter Boyd, Sr.

Dear Puss

If you all can get a line or two from me in some (corner?) of a letter you may think much of it. If I had time and talance like you and Pad I would write much. You think you have nothing worth writing-you might write what you had learned and what kind of work you have done and what sort of folks you meet with-how often you go to Church and who you hear preach. You might write a long letter about Sarah's friskiness; I expect she is more interesting now than she ever will be-do you think she will be able to run on her feet to meet me when she gets home. While I am writing Mr. B. Weddle is talking even on siting in the east corner of the hearth. Last Sunday Nancy went up to Maddison I can not tell when she will return. She has been twice to see me since you left, she is always talking and thinking about coming, and I am always thinking about going there. I have been only once. Your sister and children are very well. Do not be so backward about writing if you do not (like?) it take up the cross and do it any how, I will expect you to do better for the time to come.

Your affectunate Mother MPT

Dear Parizade

When you heard form us last I was quite unwell but I have regained my usual health. Yesterday week I went to see Harriet I heard there that Sam was very sick I went to see him and found him better. Your sister is very well. I took a good look at Sarah's eyes in her baby's head tho not half so sprightly her mama ses she is much prettier than Sarah, but I told her I knew better. I was very sorry to hear you had been sick. I hope you will not be sick any more. I think you do not take exercize enough. You must take (bet?) and Sarah and walk the streets every day when the weather will admit fo it. I expect you have become acquainted enough with the City not to get lost. Susan (h?) and Frances are high in the notion of going to N. Orleans with Henry and Robert. I cannot tel how they will end it. Susan is very anxious to go. Edmund's letter was three days later than I expected. I felt great anxiety for the next mail. I expect a letter every 2 week anyhow.

(VC VC ?) MPT

NOTE: There is a postscript from Capt. Howell, written on the 27th of January, 1845:

27th. Bivins denys the he owes me any thing more and I don't intend to settle with him. Your Mother and Henry could not find your account Book-if Henry should get to N. Orleans I have told him to see that Mr. Wright send your check for $225 if it is not done.

LETTER ADDRESSED TO "MR. HOWELL TAYLOR"—"politeness of Mr. R. H. Green," Judith Burton Taylor Green's son, who delivered it—from John A. Taylor. This Howell is Edmund's son. His cousin, John A., is writing him about Rev. Howell Taylor's grandchildren's going together to purchase an inscribed slab for his grave. Rev. Howell died june 30, 1845. "Uncle Howell" is Capt. Howell.

Cousin Howell

I submitted the matter of which we were speaking to Uncle Howell on my way home: and he seemed gratified that we had been so mindful of what he regarded the duty of the children of our Grand Father. He concurs with you that a slab of sufficient dimintion to cover the grave with an appropriate inscription engraved upon it would be the most proper course—He thinks the cost of a single slab will not exceed fifty dollars-which may be had by sending the dimintions and inscription, properly directed to the Penitentiary of the State- I have further submitted the matter to the consideration of Bob, Jo, Henry, Buck, and George Green—who together with myself-you and Brothers and Dr. Ed will make ten, all of which will bear an equal propotion in the cost-which will not be burdensome though it should be the double of what we now suppose. The business then is a heavyer job to perform: I mean the writing the proper inscription-Who will do it; and how shall it be done—We must either act in a body; or some one or two must do the work—Or shall we get some one else to do it for us—I should like very much if you could come over and lets have a general meeting of the Boys to see what course we shall take—My own opinion is that we could all do the whole of it, better ourselves than we may in any other way—We have all the fall and winter before us—cant you find a convenient time in the course of a month or two when you can spare two days to come over I think you can. We have a protracted meeting including the 2nd Sunday in Oct—why not come then if not before and come by and bring Babe with you- We shall order to Randolph-to save labor and costs-Let me hear from you by Cousin Dick-Nan joins me in love to you, Cousin Susan and the Babes and all our relations

LETTER TO HOWELL TAYLOR OF FAYETTE CO. from his uncle, Capt. Howell Taylor.

Oct. 5th –47

My dear Nephew

On examing the orchard I find the fall apples had dropped very much. Leaving a plenty for ourselves we have not sent you as many as we desired. Tho more than your small Family will eat before they rot. They ought to be kept cool until cooler weather-and the decaying ones kept selected from the others-if I had known the state of the orchard as well weh you were here we would have gathered these apples for you. And advised you to send Two weeks later when you could have got a fine chance of limber Twigs with them for winter. Henry starts a load of Cotton to Memphis this morning. Our kindest regards to Cousin Susan with your aunt Marys most grateful acknowledgements for her present the 3 fine Turkeys-for Yours and her kindness and attention to us we feel truly grateful it is a matter of much comfort and pleasure to old people who have devoted a long life for the good of society and for the rearing and prosperity of the Young to know that they are (not) thrown away in old age with the sincerest regard I am your uncle

Howell Taylor

LETTER TO "COUSIN HOWELL" FROM ROBERT H. TAYLOR. On Jan. 2, 1852. This could be Howell Taylor Jordan, if Anne Lewis Taylor Jordan's children had moved here by 1852, but it is probably Edmund's son, Howell, in Fayette Co. No address was indicated. "Retirement" must have been the name of Robert Howell's home. Could "Dick" be Richard Green, Judith's son, or did he move west? "Lo" is James Madison Taylor.

Spelling and most punctuation unchanged.

Dear Cousin Howell,

This is Sunday night just after supper that unpropitious hour which precedes the retirement of noisy children (I have not selected this evening to write to you because I wish to take advantage of the Sabbath; but simply because on enquiring after your health I learn from our mutual cousin Dick that your health is bad. A circumstance which does not bear verry pleasantly on my mind; and hopeing that the intelligence may be softened by a direct bulletin from yourself I am induced to send you this note)

Now sir to return to our first thought, suppose that you were to open the door of the room in which we hurdle; what do you think you would see and hear: Think. now before you read farther and see if you can't make out a sort of intellectual degueerotype of us.

Well my wife sits near a table reading a newspaper, or rather looking at it; for while I am happy to inform you, she is no great scold I think she issues an injunction or a probhibition of some sort for every line she sees.

The children have a hog killing, betwen the trundle bed and the fire some are sticking (and every hog squeals terribly.) some scolding and some cleaning others carrying off and hanging up, while Lo our youngest (and a fine boy he is) is exceedingly clamorous for a pig-tail.

Say my wife, don't knock the bucket over children; Susan straighten out that crumb carpet, Why did you not put a cleaner gown on Lo? Give him some water etc etc etc etc etc. A sort of colony quite respectable in numbers begins to move up stairs which will allow us more room for thinking. I take this chance of acknowledgeing your esteemed favour of Sept 8th which I have just read and in which I find a promise that you have not redeemed; Which however I trust your health and other circumstance will allow you to fulfill soon. From the confidence which I have in your punctuality, I feel assured that nothing could have prevented you from making your promised visit but causes beyond your control I must confess my disappointment in not seeing you at the Conference in Brownsville; with the proceeding s of which you have been familiarised by your friends and the papers.

So far as you have taste or inclination for gossip you have had so frequent and good opportunities of being perfectly posted in reference to our neighbourood that it is unnessary for me to attempt to give you any thing new in that line. Though I must confess that it would suit my convenience verry well at this particular stage of my epistle to know positively what you would like for me to write about.

You have seen intellectual success; men of great mental opulence who never distributed or exhibited their wealth of information, either to the proffit of themselves or any body else You can not, you may not think yourself flattered when told that yours is the opposite of such a character; Whatever amount of capital you may have dug, from the ore of your intellect; a liberal share of it has been thrown into useful as well as proffitable circulation. Knoweledge has been reduced to practise. A wayfareing man may run, and read this in the comfaratel and neat appearance of your houses and lots; your stock and farm: Which whilst they are all laid under contribution , to your comfort and prosperity, stand out prominently as a guide to those who love improvement. Deplorably sluggish as is my own mind in the path of progression I must confess that it received an impetus when I was last on your farm, from which it has not entirely recovered to this day. I exceedingly desire to have an agricultural talk with you I am so great a novice at leveling land that I would be ashamed for you to see the attempts which I have been makeeing at it, I asked permission to dictate; I want you to write me word by the bearer of this all about every thing in which you take interest whether it be in the house with your wife and children fixing of your houses from a chicken coop to a dwelling your negroes all about your crops and particularly how much you made of each all about your stock and how much your hogs averaged. A little admonition concerning spiritual interests comes verry acceptably form you, together with any thing which you may see proper to communicate will be thankfully received and appreciated

We desire to be respectfully remembered to your wife and children and with our most sincere wishes for all of your happiness allow us to subscribe as ever your earnest friend

LETTER TO HOWELL TAYLOR OF FAYETTE CO. from his uncle, Capt. Howell Taylor of Haywood Co. (A letter about sharing seeds and planting.) "Cousin Susan" is Howell Allen's wife, "Cousin Samuel" is Howell's brother. "Brother Thompson" is unknown.

Haywood April 9th—1852

Cousin Howell

I send Cousin Susan's Watermelon Seed by Brother Thompson-if you should have an opportunity-please procure me a bolt and chain such as you have to your Door and if there is any passing send them and let me know the cost—Since I sent Cousin Samuel his Pumpkin seed I have looked more into the quantity which we have and I think I could spare as many more if you or him want them please send for them—I hope your Father will pop over before planting time as the middle of May is early enough-there is not much complaint among us

Yours respectfully

LETTER FROM CAPTAIN HOWELL TAYLOR to his nephew, Howell, with a note from "HST" which must be Harriet Susan Taylor since "HLT" or Henry L. Taylor did not have a child at this time. Sister Mary and Julia are Edmund's daughters and Howell A.'s sisters. Julia married 4 months after this. Dr. Edmund is Capt. Howell's son. Sounds like Capt. Howell has arthritis.

Haywood May 26th – 1853

My dear Nephew

Your very friendly note to me inclosed in Henrys letter is to hand and very highly appreciated – and indeed I am so fully assurd of your regard for me that nothing short of an open avowal from You of a contrary feeling could convince me of Your want of friendship – I very highly appreciate your sympathy for me in my affliction, and no one can ever know the amount of suffering I have past through for the last twelve months – and I trust I have felt a spirit patient resignation to it. I have troubled other people with it as little as possible – tho at times my suffering has been so severe as to cause me to speak of it – I hope it will work out for me in the end what a kind providence designs in this chastisement for my real welfare and happiness – after the trial of many remedys do but little good. A few days after Your Father left us Your Aunt Mary concluded to rub me every night with Butters Nerve and Bone Lineament and it has produced a great improvement with me so that I can ride about and take considerable interest in the farm. I can not flatter myself with the expectation of ever being cured – but the relief which I have obtained in part is to me a matter of much rejoicing.

Your kind offer to assist me in some of your remedys is highly appreciated and I must take the liberty to say to you that you do not fully understand my views in regard to your favorite kind of practice – when the steam practice was first introduced in the hands of very ignorant persons I thought it not safe and was opposed to it – since I expect it has been reduced to a science by wise Physicians – and many common people have been taught much by noticing there practice and can use it to advantage – and I believe there is in it less harm and more good than the old system – and if I was sick and wanted help I would much rather trust myself in your hands or Your Sister Mary's than nearly all of the old Physicians in my knowledge – still I have an abiding confidence in Dr. Barbee and Edmund in connection with him – It is true I may have less faith in medicine generally than some other persons – I should be pleased to see You and have some conversation with You if it was convenient for You to come over but don't wish you to neglect your business or Family on my account.

The visit of Your Father and Cousin Julia was a great treat to us and brought many of our relations here which probably would not have called on us otherwise for a long time if ever – our County has just passed through great excitement in regard to the rail road election – and it was defeated by a majority of only three votes – differing so widely as I do from most of my kin on this subject probably it would be best to say but little about it – not much complaint in the Family – please let Your Father hear from me with respects to You all

Yours with very great esteem

Cos Howell — You may expect a letter from me some time soon, I am at this time pressed with business and have no disposition to write, my love to all and Georgie's too. We are going to see you after the crops is laid by.

Truly Yours
H. S. Taylor

Our little boy is a little unwell, but hope it will pass off soon.

IN THIS LETTER CAPT. HOWELL MENTIONS HIS SON, DR. EDMUND ALLEN, his wife, Mary Pettus Venable Taylor, and his son, Henry.

Haywood June 9th—1854

Dear Brother (Edmund)

When you and Cousin Howell was over to see us you invited me to go over to see you and be with you at your Church on Sunday—which I felt much inclined to do—as I fear I shall be disappointed I write you these few lines to let you hear from us. in a few days after you left the disease of my back returned on me with great violence which greatly deranged my whole system—for several days I have been mending and think I could now ride to see you if I had company—and invited Edmund to go with me. who expressed a great desire: but added that his professional engagements at this time forbid it. Mary has been quite unwell from cold but is better to day—and a few days past, Henry was taken very suddenly with a breaking out with the nettlerash which made him very sick—he is about again but not very well These I think are the chief complaints among us—as far as I know Edmunds Family is about. Henry is making a great effort to cultivate his crop and whether he will succeed I think depends much on the season being favourable and the continued health of his hands—I should like to learn when Brother Davis has an other appointment at your Church—hoping I might be able to meet him—to whom please present my respects and say to him I would like to see him over here. Yours with affectionate regard

THIS LETTER IS FROM CAPT. HOWELL TAYLOR who settled in Haywood County. It may be to Captain Howell's brother, Edmund, in Fayette County, which is south of Tabernacle. Since Howell lived nearer the southern part of the county he may have been speaking of the relations living near Tabernacle. Also, "the meeting" that he talks about is not Joyner's, as they didn't begin until 1893. The "Edmund" mentioned in the letter is Dr. Edmund, Capt. Howell's son, and the "oldest daughter" is Sarah Madison.

Haywood

Dear Brother,

By Mr Smith I received your invitation to come over to the meeting at your House on tomorrow and the next day—which I felt strongly inclined to do. I consulted with Edmund to learn whether he would accompany me. He gave it as his opinion that the fatigue this hot weather and the crowd of company would be too much for me and besides his oldest Daughter tho not confined was too unwell for him to leave—we design visiting you on the first suitable opportunity—There is some complaints among the Negroes tho I hope nothing of a serious nature except with Salley that has been in a very declining state for some time—As it regards the seasons we have had some fine showers for Cotton—tho Corn needs more rain—in this we have much cause of Thankfulness—We hear there has been fine seasons from Brownsville North as far as our Relations where they have fine crops—while in many sections of our County and Country we hear of most distressing droughts—I hope you have been blest with rain—with my respects to you all—I remain your affectionate brother

My dear Nephew

My great anxiety to hear whether your trip over here to oblige me injured you induces me to write these few lines which I hope you will answer. There is some complaint among our Negroes and your Aunt Mary has suffered much with a bad cold. she is about in the day. but coughs and discharges much phleme nearly all night—by keeping in the House I am getting along better than I have any right to expect. Your Cousin Edmund (Dr) had a hard chill early last week. but is now going about. his Waggon and ours is going to Somerville to day with Cotton and to get loads of Cement and Lime for the Bridge. please answer me shortly as I shall be uneasy until I hear whether you got home without damage. such friends as Your Father and Family I value above all price. that is always ready to serve a friend. please present me respectfully to cousin Susan and the children

Yours Truly,
Howell Taylor

PS. Since writing the above the weather has become cloudy and we find the Ice is an inch thick.and on account of the appearance of bad weather and the prospect of getting Ice we have some idea of suspending the trip to Somerville

FROM DR. EDMUND A. TAYLOR TO HIS COUSIN, HOWELL TAYLOR.

Brownsville
May 31 1855

Dear Cousin:

We had a fine rain yesterday and I planted my potatoes and have spanish slips enough left to plant three or four thousand hills and about two hundred yam slips; I shall keep them for you and your Papa until I can hear from you; If you need them you had better send your horse Cart which will be much better than carrying them in (torn page) on horseback. I heard the Candidates on Tuesday Johson is a buster

Yours affectionately etc
E A Taylor

P.S. Papa did not have any slips left he is improving has been to see me twice to day to talk about the rain, he would have sent over to day but was afraid you had no rain

FROM HENRY LEWIS TAYLOR TO HIS FIRST COUSIN, HOWELL TAYLOR concerning winter activities with Henry's "Pa," Capt. Howell, and "Ma," Mary Venable Taylor. "Sam" is likely Samuel Allen, son of Edmund, and not Samuel Edmund, son of Richard. Evidently Edmund and Capt. Howell's children were very close, since they were double first cousins, their fathers having married sisters, Mary and Elizabeth Venable. "Dick green" is Judith's son. "George" is Henry's wife Georgianna. "Bob is probably Robert Venable Taylor, another of Edmund's sons.

At Home Jany 26th 1857

Cos Howell

Dear Sir

Your welcome letter to Pa came to hand to day – he seemed to be satisfied after having heard from you all and says any further correspondence must fall upon me – consequently, I have taken my seat with the determination to fill this sheet – but before we branch off upon matters less importance I will condense in as few words as possible what word Pa wishes to return from him, to wit – We paid $2 pr barrel for corn – you can all get sweet potatoe plantings from us in the spring provided ours should keep – Sam came on our side of the river and returned and we heard nothing from him – has not been near us since his trip to Virginia even to tell us about the kin – this is the substance of his messages and complaints, not a word about buying Negroes or having overseers, think you gave him a pretty smart cut, I did not see the letter he wrote you but judge from your reply that it must have borne strong marks of worldly-mindedness, Dick Green, in consequence of his native impudence, could always talk plainer to Pa than any other young man. Second to Dick, you stand in that particular, but your friendship for him is so strong that you do not hesitate to admonish him and try to check him from evil you can see ahead, be assured it is received in as kind a spirit as tis sent.

Since about the first of this month none of us have been from home, not even beyond the limits of our own premises (except myself twice to church to bring the preacher home with me, but he wont there) have been most of the time housed around the fire trying to keep warm, the only intercourse with the world out has been thru the news papers – would send a boy repeatedly to the office, in this secluded and retired manner your letter found us to day, and you can not imagine how welcome it was. Ma and George forgot their doubling and twisting, Pa and I laid aside our reading, and little Ed and Willie good to imitate older persons, seemed to catch the same spirit and took a short respite from snow hids(?) and traps – don't be astonished Howell, true: this may be a little figuration but there is no exaperation. Strange indeed that friends who may visit do not write often.

And you(?) had just returned from a rabbit hunt, certainly you are in my class, did Bob go with you? My wife wanted a rabbit the other day and I caught two or three in a short time, I found it fine sport, so pleased that last Friday while the snow was so deep I took two or three boys with me and caught seventeen, and Saturday thirteen more, making in two half days thirty, don't you call that a good hunt? You must tell Uncle Ed the latter part of that sentence, but not the former, I tell George I hope she will be saited, she can apply to herself the old blessing "Rabbits dried and Rabbits fried, Rabbits cold and Rabbits old, Rabbits young and Rabbits tough." H, your suggestion is a good one I will drop Samy(?) and take you up, we have had fine sport running foxes this winter, I had succeeded in training my dogs to run nothing but a fox, they are plenty all around us, but should this rabbit hunting necessity last long they will be spoiled and put me to some trouble – Probably I am too hasty in promising to take you up as a correspondent, your reply to this may be such a Killer as to silence me as affectually as you have Pa – you can plague any one; take you face to face, you would even me out of countenance before I would have time to think, and even at this distance I know well that I am not beyond the reach of your talent in that particular, but however, I do not feel very uneasy, and shall not be particular how vulnerable I may place myself, but will pen my thoughts as they may come to mind – Don't forget to ask Boby if he is a rabbit hunter? The old Taylor will is "eight Negroes to each child," three times eight is twenty-four, but ten times eight is eighty, these are big figures and I am afraid some degenerate Sons will depart from the old land marks – an education with correct training is all I shall aspire after, my oldest boy is now nearly large enough for school, tho his size is ahead of his age, he knows his letters and is well advanced for his age, think he will make a smarter man than his daddy, my interest in their future is very strong, and indeed almost amounts to unhappiness, but I shall try to train them up right, I rely upon the truth of the old Scriptural adage for the balance.

Jany 29th – You will discern that my writing has been suspended for two days – during that time we have been engaged with some of our neighbors in building a house for a poor widow who had the misfortune to get her house and plunder burned during the cold spell, but she will be more than reinstated to her former condition, in fact, will make something by the occurrence. Also, since my last writing a feeling of melancholy anxiety has come over our household – Ma has been complaining for some time with a cold, last night and to day it is accompanied with violent pain in her side and distressing cough – She has not taken to her bed but is sitting and lying by the fire, she is so much opposed to taking medicine that we dread to see her sick, will trust to a kind Providence for the result, and hope she will soon be restored.

Our last twelve bales cotton was sold the other day for 12 cts – a good price for "dog tail," a short crop and big price suit so well together, the (?) gives us so much time to plan - - ?? — (this is followed by a line which is on a fold and unreadable —) which would otherwise exist in our purses.

My that is well nigh full of such as it is, take exceptions to nothing that is said, but attribute my plain talk to true and intimate friendship. Pa request that I would answer you is complied with in my way I close with this request of a reply without delay, all the family unite in sending love and respects as each may be applied to the respective members of all your families – Yours, etc. H. L. Taylor

WILLIAM HOWELL GREEN WAS JUDITH BURTON TAYLOR GREEN'S OLDEST SON. By the terms of this letter his death date in Book Two is incorrect, except for the year. Edmund in the letter is Dr. Edmund, Capt. Howell's son and uncle of Mary—daughter of his sister, Harriett Susan (Taylor) Taylor and her husband, Robert Howell Taylor.

Haywood
March 25th—1857

Dear Brother

According to your request I write you a few lines to inform you of our sick friends. I expect before this you have heard of the death of our long afflicted Nephew William Howell Green who died on last Friday and I was pleased to hear that he was much resigned. Mary and Son Henry has just arrived from Robert H Taylor's and report Mary to be no better—her disease has developed itself to be the Typoid fever and her situation I fear is a very critical one—in company with Edmund I was to see her and Brother John last Sunday. The latter was better but very feeble. he has had a very severe attack—Chills and fever added to his usual complaints has bought him down very low. I hope he will get up again.

Edmund had a severe chill last week and still followed by a pain in the side—and he attends to Mary through much feebleness Dr Barbee has been with him to see her—

Since the weather has become warmer I have mended much and begin to move about

Yours very Truly
Howell Taylor

FROM CAPTAIN HOWELL TAYLOR, ON THE DEATH OF HIS GRAND-DAUGHTER, to Edmund Taylor. Robert Howell and Harriett Susan's oldest daughter, Mary, was 16 and a half when when she died. She was named for Harriett Susan's mother, Mary Pettus Venable Taylor, who was her grandmother and Capt. Howell's wife. Samuel is Edmund's son.

April 1st-1857

Dear Brother

Mary and myself is now at R H Taylors, and I have the melancholly duty to perform to make know to you that his prescious Daughter Mary departed this life early on last Monday morning—leaving the most heart stricken parents you ever see—The only relief to there deep sorrow is to know-that she died in full prospect and assurance of a blessed immortality-She was buryd on yesterday attended by a large company of Relations and Neighbours—Robert desires me to remember him to you and Sister Elizabeth most kindly and make his grateful acknowledgements for all your kindness and attention to his beloved child—and to ask Cousin Samuel to be so kind as to call at Mr McLellands and get her likeness and any thing else that may be left there—

Brother John is still confined to his Bed tho says he is free of fever—I hope he will get up again

Yours Truly

FROM CAPT. HOWELL TAYLOR TO EDMUND TAYLOR. Their brother, John Y. Taylor, died the next day. "Richard H. Green" is Judith's son. He died later that year. "John A." is Richard Taylor's son, and the William mentioned is William Lewis, Richard's son. Dr. Barbee is SusanYoung Taylor's husband. She is the daughter of John Y. Taylor and Martha Alexander

Brownsville. Wednesday morning
May 12th--1857

Dear Brother

I write to satisfy your anxiety about our beloved Brother John--I have just left him and he was alive and that is about as much as I need say--Dr Barbee says he has taken no nourishment for four days but sucks a little water with a reed--he says in all his practice he has never seen any one live so long at the very gate of death--every day is expected to be his last--and whether he knows any one I am not able to say--

Richard H Green has mended very much and rides out to hunt Squirrels and Ducks--John A. Taylor is very complaining and so is William with chills.

Yours affectionately
Howell Taylor

FROM CAPT. HOWELL TAYLOR TO EDMUND TAYLOR. "Sister Martha" is Martha Alexander, John Young Taylor's wife, and Dr. Allen Jones Barbee is his son-in-law, married to Susan Young Barbee. Richard Green is Judith Taylor Green's son. John A. is Richard Taylor's son. I don't know who Cousins Mary and Julia might be.

May 14th 1857

Dear Brother

I am at Brother Richards on my way home our beloved Brother John breathed his last at 6 Oclock last evening--and at his request Brother Harris attended his enterment which has Just closed by reading the Burial of the dead--he seemed to be in a very happy frame of mind during the whole time of his long confinement and on yesterday morning--he said to Brother Richard he was happy--and there is no doubt he has ended a long warfare and gained the crown of endless life--Dr Barbee says the shock to Sister Martha it seems may cause her death before an other morning--Richard Green is mending--John A. Taylor is very ill with inflammation of the stomach--Cousins Mary and Julia are here

FROM CAPT. HOWELL TAYLOR TO EDMUND TAYLOR. Capt. Howell's handwriting has gotten smaller as he has gotten older and sicker. His excellent vocabulary, however, is still in fine form as exemplified by parts of this letter.

He writes to his brother about the death of Edmund's wife, Elizabeth Pettus Venable, who was the sister of Capt. Howell's wife, Mary Pettus Venable. Howell did not know that his own wife, Mary, would die within ten days. She outlived her sister by less than two months. Capt. Howell died in August of the same year in Virginia. "Cousin Howell" mentioned must be Edmund's son, but I don't know why he doesn't call him "Nephew." Son Henry is Henry Lewis Taylor.

My dear Brother

I heard of your being very ill about Christmas and was not in a situation to go to see you and have not been yet in spite of my care I took cold and have been out of order to move about much tho am now mending. Mary had mended very much but from imprudent exposure her cough has returned upon her very bad--not much other complaint

Sometime about the middle of December I forwarded to the Editor of the Richmond Christian Advocate the obituary of my beloved Sister Elizabeth which I fear was not received for I noticed it is not published in the paper up to the seventh instant which come to hand to day--I am at a loss to know how to act in the premises and must wait awhile as I kept no copy I could not remember so as to use the same Language and indeed if it should be published I should have to ask the charitable forbearance of the family because I never felt so entirely incapable to Justice to any matter of duty imposed on me as to express worthily the true character of one whose merits and worth was so preeminently meritorious.

please say to Cousin Howell I have not forget his great present but must wait for dry weather to get out his grass seed--we are closing up our Cotton crop which will be 84 or 85 Bales most of which is unsold

Son Henry this day got a Deed from Genl Loving for his land for 482 acres for which he is to pay $5000--one half very shortly and the balance at Christmas--hoping that a kind providence may prolong your life for usefulness and sustain you in your heavy bereavement and affliction--I am as ever your affectionate brother

FROM CAPT. HOWELL TAYLOR TO EDMUND TAYLOR. Joseph E. Venable must have been Mary Pettus Veneble (wife of Capt. Howell)'s brother as well as Elizabeth Pettus Veneble (wife of Edmund)'s. "Brother Richard" is Richard Taylor, "Henry" is Capt. Howell's son and his "good Lady" is Henry's wife, Georgianna Wood. "Brothers Harris and Davis" I believe from the context of other letters are preachers. Capt. Howell died a few months after Mary. My relatives told me it was of a broken heart.

My dear Brother

Inclosed is a very kind and friendly letter directed to us by our much esteemed Brother Joseph E. Venable

In writing you a few lines, such is my feelings I am at a loss what to say except to inform you and Family that the funeral of my beloved Mary is to be at Prospect on Thursday the first day of April at eleven Oclock--and if any of you should find it convenient to come I hope you will be with us on the night before. while your presence with us would be very desirable if your health is feeble and the weather unfavourable we would not expect you. as I have a great desire if it is the will of a kind providence that your useful life should be protracted beyond that of my own. I feel greatly indebted to your dear children who have so kindly called on us while other relations except Brother Richard has neglected us--we have not been left without the sympathy of many friends--Brothers Harris and Davis is expected to with us--my health is better. I think my temporal business is well arranged and if I can only be ready when I am called away to rejoin my beloved Mary in the spirit land it will be enough___Henry and his good Lady take great care of me and she is attending to the business of the Family exceedingly well--very far beyond my expectation--The whooping Cough is the principle complaint in the Family. with kindest regards to you all
Yours very respectfully

Howell Taylor

With the open weather of spring I hope to be able to spend some time with you all

From Joseph E. Venable to his cousin, Edmund Taylor of Summerville, TN.

Petersburg, Va 21st Dec. 1861
Howell Taylour Esqr.
Summerville Tenn.

Dear Cousin,

Your late esteemed favour came to hand and I assure you that I was delighted to hear from you and all of my relations. Now as regards Cotton, our supply has been moderate fair range from 9 1/2 to 10 1/4. A good crop would command 10c. Cotton oznaburg very scarce. None to (be) had from the Factories, all they have has been bought by the government, I find some in the stores for which they ask 19c. 7/8 cotton goods worth 16 c. goods of all kinds have been very high with us. Everything suitable for the army has been bought up. Cotton must sell well as soon as the blockade is (raised?). I have been talking with some of our married men and suggested to them if they would furnish me with the funds I would go south and buy a lot of Cotton and hold it until the blockade was raised; amongst other places I thought of Summerville Say buy it and store it there. Would not like to send it to the river at present. What do you think it could be bought for; what is the freight to Memphis; Now as regards myself I met with a heavy loss about 12 months ago. The three losses all coming together; am'ted. To full twenty thousand Dollars. It was a hard blow but I went to work and have been enable to make a little and if I had half a chance I would soon over come my misfortune but all this is gone and it may be for good. Both for me and my family as regards my children Jennie you know married Barksdale of Richmond who is doing well. He is a kind man and Christian; they have three children living one son, two daughters- had five lost two the oldest and youngest—Mollie my third daughter married Mr. Walker. They live on James River below Lynchburg. They have one child a fine boy. Mr. Walker is a farmer has a good estate and doing well. He is a steady nice man but not a professor of religion. Sallie my second Daughter married Mr. Donnon who is engaged here in the dry goods business. He is a business man and no doubt will do well. They have no children as yet. My fourth daughter is just 17. She was at school until last Aug. I think of sending her to school again; our fifth and youngest is at school, Bettie your Mother's Name. She is about 11 years old. My boy Willis has been with me about my office for the last 6 months and I design sending hem to School next year. My wife is well and fully as large as when you were with us. We have been taking a few boarders. Sallie and Mrs. Donnon and Col. Barksdale and Jennie are boarding with us for the present. Col. Barksdale rented out his house and furniture for $1800. He expects to be in the country a good deal for the next 8 months; Well I have given you a long acct. of my family—perhaps more than will interest you; the War is the great matter of talk; of our dear friends not many of them have gone. Joe Venable is a Norfolk. Robt. Davis has a son at Manasas Mr. Cunningham who married R. Davis sister had one son in the army. Howard Venable (is) at home at present. He spent some 4 months in the hospital near Manasas. Brother Jim is at home. He is well. All of his daughters are with him. He expects to send most of them to school next year; Sister Ophelia is at home in good health. That family are all well. Gray married a Mr. Green, he is of the same family of Green that married your fathers sister. I was sorry to hear that your health was not as good as formerly. I was truly delighted to hear that your father was in such good health. Remember me to him and hay to him it would give me great pleasure to visit him. My love to all my relations. When do you and your good lady expect to pay another visit to old Virginia? We should be delighted to see both of you. My love to her and children. My wife says you and your lady must pay us a visit, as she thinks the time is now at hand for your lady to come in to see her friends. We have sent a great many persons to the War. Some of the Companies from Prince Edward that went over the Mountains suffer a good (deal). The company from Farmersville went to Manasas. They were in the Battle of 21st of July. Only lost one. Mr. Dunnington wifes brother had one son in the battle. He was not hurt. The companies that went from here to Norfolk have had uneasy Time no deaths. Our people seem just now to be in better spirits hoping that old England will come in but I some how think the Yankees will back down – We have a trying time upon us in my point of view and it ought at least to make us feel our dependence on one that controls all things. Excuse this scrould (scrawl). My wife joins me in love to you and all.

Farewell yours truly

Late March, 1862?

Dear Bro Joe

As this will reach you the first day of April, I felt inclined to make you a handsome April Fool. I send wrapped in a bundle something which you will not care to open—under another design, but having selected some of the early bloomers, I thought you would not object—Our oranges are nearly ripe. Bro Joe I do with you could be here to enjoy them, although dwarf, it is a rare sight to see a tree so heavily laden with golden fruit—It imparts a rich odor to all the air around & all nature seems fragrant today—This is truly a lovely day for the last day of March—Winds are stilled—

We heard from Bro. last, week, bro Joe, & he is sick—Every thought of what he endures for his country ought to encourage despondency. I do hope, Unc How. will cheer up & think of the spirit of the army in the field for the army at home is not an exhibition of patriotism, but encouraged to stay there by too many of the citizens, they are carrying out, Washburn's basest desires—Bro Joe, I wish so much I could see you to talk one of our Creenhouse chats this morning. Enclosed you will find a variety of flowers for Cousin Lois' April Fool—tell Cousin Lois I am anxiously expecting a letter, saying that if Mother will come after her, Aunt Sue is willing for her to visit her abolitionist kin. Tell Aunt Sue she is such an Abolitionist to let Cousin Lois come down & take lessons—I wish she would ride Sissie's pony down. If Aunt Sue was not so easily frightened I would feel like making her promise to bring Cousin Lo, but no, I know her flowers & garden could not be left alone—

I am very busy mixing for some thread to knit as my eyes are still sore & I must deny myself the pleasure of everything else—I have been enjoying Chess, but now Bro Jack is going away I will have to be deprived of that pleasure—I made a scholar's mate of Bro Jack last night. I was elated, as it was the first Joke of the season—-

If you think of it, you must tell Unc Sam, I am taking good care of his books, but it is impossible to get anybody to take them through for me—on horseback—He will have to come after them, as I know of no other inducement that Aunt Kate would let him come—Tell Mrs Fields, Sissie would write her in answer today but she is keeping house & I can (not) get her to tear herself away from everything to write—

Mother sends much love to all & says you must study hard & she will come to see you as soon as she can—Give love to Grandpa & tell him we have thrashed Old Sherman & are fast gaining the day—That our prayers have been answered & Lincoln's have not—as he says—Write soon & often to

Yours Loulie

My Dear Jack

I am I can ashure you badly disappointed by not finding you as I wanted you to go with me to see my Kith in Haywood and elsewhere. I go on this morning hoping you will come up and remain with me a few days—

I learned with a degree of pain that you were intent on going into Tenn. but allow one who has experience upon the middle Tenn question to make a suggestion and give a reason why you must not go now. I have been there and know- Winter with all her blightning influence is upon us and if you go to Tenn. you can not possibly stay in a house at night nor can you build a fire for fear of betrayal. You cant tell who are your friends and there being no mountains—You can find no secret retreat. All have taken the oath and Secret Scouts are detested. But if you are determined upon going take this piece of advice: Make your head quarters somewhere upon the River this side of North Ala. Get upon the good side of some good man who you can go and visit when you are tired, or go to Sparta Tenn, where you can fall back on the Cumberland Mountain to some Secret Cave. Next Summer when you need no fire and can sleep upon the ground you can go any where but never stay upon a pike or large dirt road nor within three miles of where you are last seen during any part of the day.

And now if you are determined to go this winter wait until I go back and I will show you a few of the Ropes and a good place to stay in Ala And also letters to Scouts in that country who know all about

Truly Your Friend
John M Claibone

NOTE: October 1864 is late in the Civil War. Sherman has marched through Atlanta and John Bell Hood is about to waste the Army of Tennessee in a desperate attempt to take Nashville. The "Secret Scouts" were a group of Confederate couriers working under Col. Shy to distribute information to Southern sympathizers in Tennessee. Four of the Secret Scouts, including Sam Davis, were hung by the Union Army as spies. Tennessee, particularly middle Tennessee, had been occupied by the Union for most of the war. Even prior to the Armistice at Appomattox, the Army had been requiring people in Tennessee to swear the oath of allegiance to the Union.

Monday Morning

My Dear Father

Thinking you might want me to attend Your family or kinfolks, meeting. This would afford me much pleasure. Mr. Alexander, and I, could not leave, the children, I know you will think this is right.

Sometime when Mr. Johnson is at home, I will try and visit you. It would afford me great pleasure to be with you on these occasions. As my home is in another region, I will not complain. I have much to be thankful for. May I ever appreciate the many blessings that ever have been strewn around my path. Dear father I can never thank thee enough (for what) thou hast done for me. I hear from Jack often he seems, to be, well pleased with Dr. Smith, says he is learning fast, he has to dress, and be ready for prayers, in fifteen minutes.

Brother Lee our station preacher, began, a protracted meeting this morning, he is a good man, and a good preacher, and I hope, he will have, a good meeting. Sis and her father got home without any trouble all glad to see her.

Tell Puss, Lute, has got six pair of socks, for the soldiers, fine large, long socks, she has learned, to knit quit well, we intend to make fifty, pair of pants, for the soldiers this season.

As to my Negro clothes, I have had spun, and wove, at home all of the woolen cloth to clothe them, and have had the most of it made up, for them. I bought the cotton cloth, for them. I cut out nine bolts, on last Friday, which I am saving to make up on some rainy day. Tell Puss, not to think, I am bragging I thought it would interest her, to know how I was getting on.

Love to all, and be assured I will come, when, I can leave the children. May heaven ever bless thee, is my most, sincere, prayer. Your devoted Daughter

My Dear Son,

Yrs of the 16th Inst. Is to hand, by the politeness of Rev. W. C. Johnson. I am glad to hear you are doing so well. Study hard and improve yourself while you have the opportunity. I fear this War will eventually destroy every thing we have got. I have Just returned from a four days trip trying to procure potatoes for us to live on. I got 30 bushels, and can get 30 more if I can get the flour from the Mill to pay for them. My mules ranaway and broke our spring Waggon so that it cost $64.00 to get it mended in Greenbacks, and I have not a dollar in the world. Just by old Davys foolishness. They ran twice the same day or rather once at night after they ran in the day. I was trying to get back with the Crippled Wagon and I suppose a deer whistled by the road side and Bill Broke and I held on and finally he got Cox started and they ran full 1/2 a mile before I got them stopped. I then made Alford walk before them until I got to a house and when we took him out Bill ran off with the Crupper under his tail and dragged his harness at 300 or 400 yards before he got them off. This happened in the night-dark... I am still scuffling. I think I shall have a between 40 and 50 barrels of corn when I get it all gathered. Sister Bettie was at La Grange last Monday to try and get us 100# meat but faild, so we are living on Molasses for Meat and Milk etc.

Give my compliments to Uncle Howell and tell him we are dead poor. Truly, and no Joke; and now my son strive to be industrious and be a Gentleman, which I know you are, act honourably with your schoolfellows, and have nothing to do with bad boys—treat all respectfully, and mind your own business, attend punctually to your studies and obey your Teacher implicitly—and I doubt not that "all will be right". Go to see your Grandfather and tell him we are scuffling, and also to come down and see us. Tell him I want to have a chance to wait on him, to let him see what a good servant I make—We are well as usual—

Your Afectionate Father
R. B. Alexander

To Mr Joseph V. Alexander

P.S. You must answer this, I fixed some wagon harness and put Bill at the off wheel, and he works finely. Don't try to run away, but I would not like to work him to a small wagon—

R. B. A.

From Robert Howell Taylor to his uncle, Edmund Taylor about the death of Richard Taylor. "Ma" is Richard's third wife, Ann Jett Harvey. Added on the side of this letter is a mostly undecipherable set of notes—in a handwriting I have not been able to associate with any of the previous relatives--possibly for a eulogy. In the part of the notes that are readable the following is stated:

"Richd. Taylor, aged 72 Died Sun. night, Jan. 16, 1865 Born in Mecklenburg Co. Va Removals Montgomery Tenn Haywood Tenn where he died His first act came like Abr to erect an altar to the Lord Professed religion July 20, 1808 His Zeal Marriages Early training and Education Calm, practical, pious--His character dignified Christian gentleman his solicitude for the conversion of the rising generation, neighbors (unreadable) His death sudden tho for some time he seemed to have a presentment his approaching end. work (unreadable) his children to meet him in heaven last words sweet Jesus (unreadable)"

Much of the rest is unreadable but seems to have Bible quotations and the words "Comfort our friends and kindred and all aside..."

Mr. Edmund Taylor
Dear uncle,

The (torn page) of my dear fathers death has no doubt reached you. The object of this note is to give you the facts in relation to it. He died on sunday night Jan 16th. I saw him in the forenoon of that day, he appeared as well as usual. walked over to my brother Johns. Ate supper as usual. at prayers read a long chapter a part of our Lords Sermon on the Mount. Retired to bed and slept soundly untill half after eleven. when he awoke arose up in his bed and complained of pain in his stomach. He shortly after threw up what he had eaten for supper which seemed to afford him some relief. Ma-ma seeing that he was verry sick sent for the girl who attends the family in sickness. She also proposed to send for the Doctor and my brother John. He objected saying that another attack would kill him but that he (torn page) no person disturbed. The nurse haveing arrived he (torn page) ma to go to the fire and not to fatigue herself. He then threw up the second time instructed the girl to tell us all to meet him in Heaven laid himself down and said "Sweet Jesus" which were his last words. his last act was to point his finger upwards closeing his eyes he departed so calmly that Ma and the girl both thought he had fallen to sleep for sometime after he was (torn page) which was about a quarter after one no person (torn page) except Ma and the girl. My brother and the (torn page) both been sent for when he threw up the second time. neither had time to arive. Thus closed the earthly scene of one whom you have known all his life. His loss is a severe stroke, we sorrow not as those who have no hope "For if we believe that Jesus died and arose again even so them also which sleep in Jesus will God bring with him." My precious father. what a rich legacy he has left his childen in his example. Though but too dimly traceed whilst he was with us. now that he is gone, shines out upon me with the brightness of the sun. Had he have lived untill the Friday afer his death he would have been seventy two years old. He professed religion on the 20th of July 1808. My dear uncle you are the last one of that generation I trust you will be spared to comfort us awhile. I think I will see you (torn page) great while pray for me that I may be true to (torn page) examples of my worthy ancestry and be permited to meet them in the Heavenly land

Camping at Camp Meeting

Susan Young Thornton

'Camping' means that you are on the grounds for church services and for the time in between. 'Camping' requires a place where you can be, when you are not in the church – an arbor, a tent, a cabin, and it requires something to eat. 'Camping' originally meant staying for the day and going home at night to sleep and prepare for the next day. John A. Taylor's journal recounts that in 1880 "the preacher had no one to care for his children while attending the revival meeting and too many children to visit in anyone's home, (so) he put up a tent and ate with the members who brought dinner to the church." The tents and the meals were more communal picnics than the individual family units of today. In 1891, Richard and Harriet Mann decided to build a cabin, because, as sawmill operators, they "had more lumber than money." Although boards from older camps have been recycled into newer buildings, the current Sharpe's camp has parts of the original building from the mid-1890's. True commitment to camping was when you moved the mattress off your bed at home to your bed in your camp!

Tracing the anthology and evolution of the camps is complicated. Cousins married cousins, families quit camping, families started camping. What defines a "camp" and how do you define when a camp was established? Does a "cabin" make a "camp"? You could define a camp as any cabin with a kitchen. At the annual business meeting, each "active" kitchen gets one vote. But then there are examples of grown children who have built camps for their families but continue to eat with their parents and siblings. So you could define all cabins, all residential buildings, as camps. But then there are buildings strictly for sleeping. Does Sue Johnson's sleeping room by the lower bathhouse count as a camp? Then what about John O. Johnson, III's multi-room sleeper – is it a camp? Or is a camp a family unit, as sometimes families have moved between buildings? Or, in the very early days, families "camped" without structures in that they stayed on the camp ground for preaching and eating and visiting, but went home to cook and sleep. In 2003, there were 36 camps, 2 bathhouses, a cabin for the preacher and one for the song leader, and more than a few sleeping rooms.

So, Where did 36 Camps Come From:

Taylors of Tabernacle, Volume I contains pictures from the 1896 Meeting. In them you can see that the basic style of a camp house hasn't changed in over 100 years – shake shingles, tin roofs, board and batten siding, strap hinges! The pictures are titled as "Family of" and seem to divide the campers into three groups – the family of Robert Howell

Taylor, the family of John Alexander Taylor, and the family of Joseph Richard Taylor. Robert, John and Joseph were brothers, sons of Richard Taylor, grandsons of Howell Taylor. Thirty-three of the thirty-six current camps are descended from these three "camps."

The Robert Howell Taylor Camp included his grand-daughter Bessie Allen Mann Bradford, who would later marry Dr. Alfred H. Sorrelle. For a time, the Sorelles shared dining arrangements with the Edmund Taylor camp. Now the Sorelle compound has three kitchens, three 2-story sleeping cabins, and four family groups – (1)Woodson, (2)Carloss, (3)Jameson, and Jordan. {Note: Bessie Allen Mann was the youngest daughter of Richard V. and Roberta Taylor Mann. Roberta's sister, Henrietta, was married to Ben Bradford and they had no children. So, Bessie was sent to be raised by her aunt, became Bessie Allen Mann Bradford, got the big farm when Ben Bradford died, and is listed four times in the genealogy!}

The John Alexander Taylor Camp included his sons William Alexander and Robert Edwin, and his daughter Emma Lee. Will A. built the first cabin and is what we know today as the (4) Caldwell/Thomas/Hamner camp. Will A.'s oldest daughter, Zaidee Peete Taylor, inherited the running of this camp from her mother. But it was the families of his youngest child, Julia Elizabeth Taylor Thomas, and his sister, Emma Lee Taylor Hamner, that have continued the camp. Two other of Will A.'s children established their own camps. Annie Meriwhether married William Allen Chapman and begat the (5)Chapman, (6)Schottelkotte, and (7)Willie/Ross camps. Edmond Taylor married Averil Crafton and began the (8)Edmond Taylor camp. Will A.'s brother, Robert Edwin Taylor married a cousin, Emma Matilda Taylor. Their daughter Octavia married John Walker and begat the (9)Walker camp. Edwin's son Edwin Speed Taylor married Martha Ella Johnson and carried on the (10)Edwin Taylor/Hughes camp. Descendants of Will A.'s uncle Samuel Edmund boarded with Edmond and Averil Taylor until establishing their own camp, the (11)Hamilton Camp.

Joseph Richard Taylor married Mary Claiborne and had thirteen children, mostly girls.

Georgianna married Asa Mann and carried on her father's camp, which today we know as the (12)Sharpe camp. Eventually two of Georgianna's grandchildren moved out and established the (13)Turner-Lane and (14)McConnico camps.

Martha Irene (known as "Jack") married Alfred Battle and begat the (15)Battle and (16)Shaw camps.

Harriet married Richard Mann and had four children: Alsey Austin, "Buddy," Mann's descendants camped until the 1980's; Nora Ada married William Thomas Currie II and began the (17)Currie camp; Capp

Irene Mann married John O. Johnson and began the (18)Johnson camp next to her sister Nora (the roof was built to span both cabins); Harriet Dick Mann married C. E. (19)Weddington and built a camp out of wood saved from the 1891 building. The Currie camp grew when half of Nora's grandchildren started the (20)Currie-Lane camp. The Johnson camp grew when (21)Jack established his own camp on the site of the sleeping room that his father had built for him when he was twelve. This left his brother, Alsey, with the original camp.

Ruth married (22)Nicholas P. Thornton and begat all of the Thorntons. Five of their sons, (23)Richard, (24)John, (25)Marion, (26)Harbert and (27)Robert established camps that are still active today. Their only daughter's daughter, Libba Pitman married (28)Alex Claiborne and established that camp. The Richard Thornton camp is now run by his son Bill. And Robert Thornton's daughters Myra Jo Hurley and Lois Young run their fathers camp. The original N.P. Thornton camp was run by their son, "Mr. Nick," and is now occupied by three of his children's families (Nicholas, III, Robert Earl and Ginger). The other four of Mr. Nick's children established the (29)Harmon, (30)Guilford Thornton and (31)Cavin-Crafton camps. When the Cavin and (32)Crafton families became too numerous for their building, they flipped a coin. The winner got to stay, the loser had to find a new camp but got to take Bingo and Henriette, the cooks! The Richard Thornton camp begat the (33)Joe and George Thornton camp, without a coin toss.

Judith Taylor, daughter of Howell, never moved from Virginia, but her descendants did. Her great-great-granddaughters Margaret Hall Burton Mann and Lillie Read Burton Williamsom have connections to Camp Meeting in 2004. "Miss Lillie Read" built the (34) Williamson Camp in 1984. "Miss Margaret's" four daughters all grew up attending Camp Meeting. Betsy Read Mann married Robert Earl Thornton and now runs the original N. P. Thornton Camp.

William Barcroft is listed as a "class leader" in the Tabernacle Church Class Book from 1860, along with Richard Taylor and John Williams. The Lea family is known to have been long-time members of Tabernacle Church and to have participated in Camp Meeting for many years. In 1918, Araminta Lea married Robert Barcroft, merging the two families into one camp. They built their current camp in 1960, what we know as the (35)Barcroft-Simmons camp.

John Williams was a founding member of Tabernacle Church. His descendants continued as members of Tabernacle Church and the Tabernacle community. James Fletcher Coppedge married Annie Jane Ogilvie in 1917 and established the (36)Coppedge-Price camp.

Camping in the 21st Century:

The design of a cabin hasn't changed much in 178 years – wood walls, wood floor and tin roof. Sleeping rooms with a kitchen in the back, adjacent to a dining room. Usually one long dining table with benches, so that everyone communes together. Unless there's not enough room, then a "children's table" is added. Sleeping rooms are of every size, shape and number. And every camp has a porch or sitting area in front – with all configurations of swings and benches and gliders and rockers and 'bouncy chairs.' Most camps have a dog-trot down the middle. The Thorntons built cabins tall enough to park combines or other farming equipment in the dog-trots during the other 51 weeks of the year! (Except for Robert who built a two story cabin but put a gate up to stop his brothers from using his cabin for equipment storage.) Most porches, dog-trots, kitchens and dining rooms are at ground level (i.e. dirt floors). Some camps use sawdust on the ground to control dust, others use red sand, and a few camps have poured concrete floors! Joe Crafton, an engineer and one of Mr. Nick's sons-in-law, suggested that a larger gap be left between the walls and roof eave, so that air (and mosquitoes and other projectiles) could flow into the rooms. Marion Thornton left stubs from the branches on the tree-trunks that he used for front porch columns – so he could hang his hat on them. (They also make great climbing holds.) The Joe/George Thornton camp has one sleeping room made of corrugated tin from the seed house of an old cotton gin. The Harmon's cabin is made from an old church building.

The buildings – the cabins, the bathhouses - have journeyed through time and have a legacy of their own. The cabins, just like the Meeting, are for the use of those who will benefit from them. Yes, individual families built them and are responsible for the care and custody of them, but we don't really own them, as the land belongs to the Campground Association. (How do you explain this to an insurance agent?) For example, the Alex Claiborne camp was actually built by Libba's uncle, Harbert Thornton, in 1919. But he didn't like the dust from the road, so he built a new camp on the ridge, far from the road (where it is today). The building was then sold to Harbert's brother, Macon. It was used by his family until his descendants quit camping, and then by various families as sleeping rooms. Macon's niece, Ruth Thornton, moved in after marrying Bill Harmon in 1947. Macon's nephew, Guilford Thornton camped there with his young family from 1961 to 1967. Sue and Jim Keathly used the separate kitchen as a sleeping room for a few years. In 1979, Libba Pittman Claiborne, another of Macon's nieces, bought the cabin from Macon's grand-daughter. And so, the Alex Claiborne camp became (at least) the sixth camp to be nurtured for a time in the little cabin by the road.

In the 178 year history of Camp Meeting, the cabins have been used and shared and exchanged without formal legislation, or lingering animosity.

The bathhouses and utilities are typical of how the campground has tracked just behind the rest of the world's technology. Kerosene lamps and a hand-dug well provided light and water to the early church and campground. Outhouses (latrines), separated for men and women, segregated for whites and blacks, were built on the hill along the sides of the cemetery. The outhouses lasted into the 1960's. Slop jars, or what we politely called "chamber pots," lasted past that. The first shower facility on the campground was built by Nick Thornton in the 1940's, behind the Edmond Taylor camp. It was two rooms made of wood, with one showerhead in the middle of each. They say that the girl's side had battens to cover the cracks between the wallboards, but the boy's side didn't! The floorboards stuck out on one side because Mr. Nick didn't want to cut them in case he needed the boards for something else later. The water came from a water tower that was fed from the well and warmed only by the sun. The upper camp bathhouse was built in the mid 1950's. It was a concrete block structure with a concrete floor and concrete block partitions to make shower stalls. The floor always seemed to be damp, but it did have flush toilets and hot water! Well, the water was hot for as long as it lasted. The lower camp bathhouse was built in 1973 by George Thornton. It was remodeled in 1992 to a light and airy wooden structure with "rockin'" toilets, fiberglass shower stalls and a bigger hot water heater. The upper bathhouse was also remodeled in 1992. Now the floors stay dry, except when someone is bathing an animated child!

Electricity came to rural America with the Rural Electrification Administration in the 1930's. Electricity came to the church in the 1930's and to the campground in the 1940's. One meter for the entire campground. The telephone was run from Bill Thornton's house up the road and hung on a tree in the center of the campground. We don't have block ice delivered to the campground any more, now we have rented refrigerators delivered for the week. Air conditioning was added to the church before the 1955 Meeting (after the preacher the previous year had noted the heat). In 1963, Harbert Thornton, age 70, added an air-conditioner to his sleeping room. In 2002, almost half the camps had air-conditioners for one or more sleeping rooms, but of course, they are provided primarily "for the babies". And for half the camps, their only source of hot water is still what they heat on their stoves. Just like their great-greats did.

One thing that is not like the great-greats' is cooking on a woodburning stove. Before portable propane tanks and with limited electricity, the good 'ol cast iron Army stove was the way to cook at Camp Meeting. The art of starting it in the morning and keeping it going all day, while managing not to kill the cooks with heat stroke or burn the camp house down, is all but lost. Only six camps even have a wood-burner and they have other stoves along with it. The George/Joe Thornton camp preserves their tradition that all the men of the camp would rise early to start the stove and share time together before the cooks arrived and the day began. The Craftons held on to their wood-burner as long as they could because Bingo, their cook since forever, said it helped her arthritis. And the cooks at the Caldwell/Thomas/Hamner camp actually prefer the wood burner!

We don't smell the wood burning in the stoves much any more, but we do smell the food cooking on the stoves! Feasting on the bounty of the land is still what we do between going to church and talking about each other. Fried chicken is overwhelmingly the favorite meat. Chicken pie, hash, spoon bread, corn puddin', fried corn, tomatoes, Brownsville peaches, sweet potatoes, mashed potatoes, purple-hull peas, butter beans, squash casserole, Miss Harriet's slaw, Sally Cavin's mashed potato salad, and baked apples, which just don't taste the same anywhere else. And graham muffins are unique to Camp Meeting. The Harmon camp grinds the wheat and supplies it, with recipes, to anyone on the campground. (Try the graham pancakes!) We don't have to actually raise the chickens and lambs that we eat. But, today, the clarion call goes out when the local grocery is running a "special" on a Camp Meeting staple – and you'll see each member of the family, down to the smallest, going through the check-out line with the "limit per customer" of fryers or bacon or eggs or sugar or whatever is on sale.

The dining table is also the perfect place for animated family conversation, and pranks. The dinner guest with a sense of humor (they hope) or the unsuspecting family member at the Weddington camp may be surprised with a lap full of icy water as, without a word, the edge of the oil-cloth table covering is rolled up and the water is poured in so that it passes by those who are paying attention and dumps on whoever is not! The George/Joe Thornton camp holds the record for the longest-lived prank, having picked-up a joke from their parent's youth and carrying it into the next generation. "Eat me up, old hog" began as a joke on Joe when he was courting Lucy, and was continued as a loving prank on Lucy by her children, nieces and nephews.

From the earliest days of John A. Taylor's admonition to share, hospitality has abounded:

> We have tried it without carrying our dinner. It does not work. Too inconvenient to go home for dinner. We have tried it by > spreading cloths on the ground without plates, knives and forks. Too much grease for comfort in that arrangement. We have tried it without cakes, pies, etc. We like it better with these. Gentlemen, when invited to dinner, (should not) overlook bacon, beef, lamb, shoat and fowls and begin upon cakes and sweet meats, which for the most part have been provided for the ladies. Such a course of conduct as this might lead to the providing of one table for gentlemen and one for the ladies, which would destroy half the sociability of the occasion. (No one should) go without dinner from timidity to let it be known to some proprietor that they have had none. (No one should) pack up provisions so long as anybody is unfed. It is no breach of good order for any one who has not had dinner to make it known to some proprietor, who will see that they are provided for.

The Edmond Taylor camp has "boarded" several families who, for whatever reasons, weren't able to run a kitchen but wanted to camp – the Sorelles, Hamiltons, Walkers, Alsey Johnsons, and Cavenas have all feasted in the community of that camp. Libba Claiborne fondly remembers the years she and her mother boarded with Uncle Marion and Aunt Lib. And she has remembered her Mother's admonition to "Always stay close to my family." Libba would ultimately set-up camp for her family in the cabin next to where she had spent her childhood! Lillie Read Burton Williamson's children were raised in Brownsville and spent their childhood visiting and boarding with cousins during Camp Meeting. Mary, her youngest, writes, "Death came early to several members of the family that made this camp (have) a greater dependency on the campers of Tabernacle. It was a bond so strong that when the family was in spiritual despair, there was love here that brought us back into God's arms". Miss Lillie Read and Mary's camp is now a haven for teenagers and anyone else that is not asleep at 3:00 in the morning.

Some things change, some stay the same — and we continue to drink from a well that we did not dig.

1983* - The Guilford Thornton Camp

Ann Dillard Thornton

You wouldn't think such a simple thing as Roy Lane offering to carve a placard for our new cabin would cause such discussion, but it did. We knew we were the "Guilford Thornton Camp," but what date should we put on the plaque: just when was our camp "established"?

Camp Meeting 1956 was our first as a family. I married Guilford on June 21st, 1953 while he was in the U.S. Navy. Following his discharge in the fall of 1955, we moved to Brownsville. That summer Guilford built for us a sleeping room with a porch. This structure still stands by the big tree closest to the church on the north end of the camp. His parents, "Mr. Nick and Miss Pattie" camped nearby with Guilford's five younger, unmarried siblings. We ate with them. The cabin was called the "honeymoon house." Although, the honeymoon was over as Lee Ann, our first-born, was 9 months old and cried every night!

In 1959 we moved to a new cabin, complete with four bedrooms, kitchen and dining room. Mr. Nick built this cabin for us (which now included another daughter, Susan Young) and for Guilford's sisters, Sally and Pattie Marie, and their new husbands, Moe Cavin and Joe Crafton. It was next door to Mr. Nick's camp. Four rooms – one for each couple and one for the children - not much room for three growing families! But it worked that year and was our first experience in "running" a kitchen. Today, it is the camp of Sally and Moe Cavin.

In 1961, the cabin that Uncle Macon had used in the 1920's was vacant. So, after putting a new roof on it, we took our little girls and set-up camp there, where I ran the kitchen. This was the time when Susu spent one entire Camp Meeting riding her stick horse! Guilford Fletcher, Jr., (Gif) was born in 1962.

In 1967, Gif fell out of a tree and broke his arm just before the Meeting. The injury was so severe that we spent much of that week in the hospital and decided not to try to camp. BUT—Aunt Lib called and invited us to camp with her and Uncle Marion—so Guilford rigged a pulley over Gif's bed to elevate his broken arm—-and we settled in to camp at Uncle Marion's. We enjoyed being with them so much that we camped there for the next few years. Even when Aunt Lib and Uncle Marion decided not to camp full-time, we always hung Uncle Marion's multi-colored porch light (that he had gotten from a hotel in Denver) and provided a bench at the head of the table for Aunt Lib.

In 1970, Uncle Marion told us that "his folks" would be wanting to use his house and we should move. He suggested the Boyd camp, which was vacant. Peter Boyd had built the cabin some years earlier down in the lower camp. And I do mean "down." The cabin was at the bottom of both slopes in the campground, the one from the church and the one from the ball field. The cabin was so low that any water hitting the ground anywhere on the campground would run right through the middle of it. While our first camp may have been the one closest to the church, we were now as far away from the church as one could be, and still be on the campground!

Each year, before the Meeting, we would wait to hear from the Boyd's about whether we could use their cabin or would they be camping that year. And each year, during the Meeting, we would speculate about where our next move would be. Some years we ran a kitchen, but the last several years of that time we ate with Guilford's mother, at the far other end of the campground. This was the camp started by Guilford's grandfather and currently occupied by his siblings Robert Earl, Nicholas and Ginger, and their families. Betsy Mann Thornton ran the camp…the food was delicious and we enjoyed the commotion!

In 1972, we built a two-room sleeping cabin in the lower camp. We did this thinking we were anchoring a spot for a future cabin. But it was close to the road, and a confined space, and the Building Committee advised that there might not be enough room for a full camp with kitchen and everything. So, in 1974, we sold it to Eppes Turner, who, naturally, added a second story, kitchen, dining room, etc. And we kept using the Boyd house – walking the length of the campground to church, to meals, and to the bath house – visiting and enjoying all our cousins along the route!

By 1974, there was "no room for new camps." In 1980, Lee Ann married Larry Tilley, who loves Camp Meeting. In 1983, the next generation began when Laurence Thornton Tilley, our first grandchild, was born.

In 1983, we were, finally, able to buy the Boyd house. We tore down the kitchen and dining room, and cut the sleeping rooms into two sections. We kept one of the sections, turned it around and moved it back near the road. The other section we sold to Alsey and Sue Johnson, who moved it behind their camp for additional sleeping space.

We contracted with Cousin George Thornton to construct a new cabin for us on the site of the old Boyd Camp. Robert Earl Thornton helped by bringing in loads of dirt to raise the building site, so water would wash around and not through the cabin! Larry Tilley drew plans for us and George "designed" as he went along. George's "crew" for the job was his brothers, Joe and Bill, and his longtime helper, Cephas. They built us a fine house. It was a happy summer for us and "the brothers" seemed to enjoy their time working together. Joe quipped that he spent more money for gas going back and forth from Covington than George had paid him! They were a riot! And by August 1983, we all laid our hammers down and had Camp Meeting in a brand new house, with a brand new baby.

And a brand new plaque – with the date: 1983, which stands for 1956, 1959, 1961, 1967, 1970, 1972, and 1983.

I want to add that lots of wonderful things have happened since that summer. Gif married Anna Russell Morrow in 1992 and five more grandchildren have been added: Ann Fletcher Tilley (1986), Anna Russell Thornton (1994), Richard Taylor Thornton (1996), Cole Farrell Thornton (1998), and John Guilford Thornton (2001).

We are grateful for a wonderful heritage, for the gift of Camp Meeting, for family, extended and immediate, and for a loving God who keeps His arms wrapped around us.

But in the summer of 1983, I knew that now I was "free to die" - my children had graduated from college and they had a camp house of their own.

Julia Claiborne Johnson Marcil

A baby-bathing sink with hot water on tap in the bathhouse?

Well, it is the 21st century, I guess. It had to happen sooner or later. One of my most vivid memories of camp meeting when I was a little girl is of standing in the old tin sink in our camp's kitchen that my mother, Dr. Sue Johnson, snagged when the Brownsville hospital threw it out during a renovation around 1960 or so. Being a doctor and all, she's interested in the concept of good hygiene, so she's trying to give me a bath in that old scrub sink. I'm screaming bloody murder because, while there is running water in that kitchen, there is no running hot water. And the fact that the old Civil War-era cast-iron stove has been going full blast all day long a few feet away, and that it's probably 97 degrees outside anyway, doesn't make a bit of difference. That tin sink is cold, and the water is colder, and before Mama can get me clean enough to suit her, I am convinced this bath is going to kill me.

Cousin Aileen Smith of the Taylor camp says one of her first memories of my mother, who married my father Alsey Johnson to get into the family, is seeing Mama coming across the campground, a screaming child under each arm, to the bathhouse on Cousin Aileen's end of the grounds,—you know, the one that's built of cinderblocks and situated out back of the Taylor cabin. ("We thought it was awful when they built that bathhouse there, and now we realize we couldn't bear to have it one step farther away," she says.) Before that bathhouse was built,—with hot and cold running water in the showers, no less—everybody had to make do for the more pressing bathhouse needs with two wooden privy sheds that used to be up by the cemetery. (The one of the northwest corner was unofficially the Men's, and the southwest the Women's, says Cousin Aileen, "but my husband Ron preferred the southwest one,—he said the conversation in line there was better.") For the less important bathhouse function of getting cleaned up, there was always a kitchen sink or washpan out back or a drive into town. My mother says that when she was dragging us across the campground bathhouse-ward, everybody used to tell her just to give up and let us be dirty. Good hygiene has its place, but as any child born to the campground knows, that place is not Camp Meeting. Mama never listened to reason, but as soon as she got us clean, we showed her. We got dirty again. Dirtier. (Is it just my imagination, or was Dorothy Lane always clean when she was little? What was Cousin Corinne's secret? It must have driven my mother nuts, particularly since our cabin was connected to theirs. So near to cleanliness, and yet so far.)

Of course, to the grownups, having that first bathhouse was the ultimate in campground luxury and convenience. But when you're little and have never set foot in a shower in your short life, standing under a cataract of water is a terrifying place to be, and the fact that the water is warm is still pretty cold comfort. Cousin Aileen says they could always tell when the baseball games were over because they could hear the screams of toddlers being hosed down coming from the bathhouse. I believe it. I can sort of remember screaming in the showers just as loud as I did in the sink. I know my niece Anna Johnson howled there when she was a baby, and my children Will and Coco Marcil did, too when I tried to clean them up in the "new" bathhouse that's out back of my mother's little cabin. I finally realized tossing children into the shower only seemed easier,—my clothes and I always ended up wetter and soapier than the children did, all of us were usually crying by the time we were done, and to top it off everybody's damp legs got muddy up to the knees from all the dust by the time we got back to our cabin. In truth, any mother was better off letting the kids go dirty. Or putting a plastic tub in the floor of the shower, letting it fill up and then turning the shower off while bathing them, like Brenda Simmons used to do when her children were little, or heating up water on the stove (the cast iron one finally fell apart and now we have a gas one you can turn on and off at will) and mixing it in a dishpan with cold water from the kitchen sink, like I used to when my children were babies. Just like they did in the old days, before there was even one bathhouse. So much for progress.

But now that we have the official "baby-bathing sink" in the new bathhouse with hot and cold running water, children born from now on won't share our quaint, traumatic memories of the campground bath experience. Just like my own children will never know what it was like to do some of the flat-out fun things we did when we were kids, like slide into a muddy ditch en masse after a big rain or beg ice chips off the men with the giant hooks on the backs of the trucks that delivered those big blocks of ice to every cabin. They'll never chase after the mosquito trucks to play in the clouds of DDT or toxic whatever-they-used- to-spray to keep the mosquitoes from eating us alive, like we used to, either. Remember how great that was? Relax, Mama, that toxic stuff didn't kill us. Or the mosquitoes.

For that matter, neither did being dirty.

NOTE: The first "bathhouse" was a wooden, two room structure. Each room had hooks around the walls and a single shower nozzle hanging in the center. Whatever hot water there was came from the sun hitting the water tank that stored the water from the well. This bathhouse was built by Nick Thornton, Jr. and, being the frugal farmer that he was, he didn't cut the floor boards to fit the building but let them stick out on one side. Just in case he need the flooring for something else in the future.

Popcorn at Camp Meeting?

Maty Lou Turner Lane

In 1972, Ed Turner began popping corn at his camp. He started with the idea of charging five cents for a bag of popcorn and giving the money to all the children to place in the offering plate on the closing night of the Meeting. The second person that came to get a bag of popcorn was a small child. When the child looked up and said rather pitifully, "But I don't have a nickel", the popcorn no longer cost anything. The only rule was that everyone must come and get their own bag of popcorn. Cousin Eppes made a red and white flag that was hung out to let the campers know when the popcorn was ready. The same popcorn machine and flag are still used today. It is such a delight to see the children, old and young alike, come running when they see the flag go up.

The History of the Edmond Taylor Camp

Aileen Taylor Smith

The building we call The Edmond Taylor Camp was built during the summer of 1948. In fact, its construction took the whole summer of that year. My father built it himself with only occasional part time assistance. He was careful and of course was working in "spare time" he took from farming. He began the lay-out in the spring as soon as the cotton crop was in the ground.

The story of that summer, as often told with loving laughter by Bill Thornton, is that Bill came by regularly to see how work was progressing and to offer words of encouragement, and occasionally give a helping hand. Time was growing short and on the day before Camp Meeting was to begin Bill watched for a few minutes, then asked, "Cousin Edmond, do you think you are going to be ready?" Papa drove one more nail into the corner shelf he was putting up in the dining room, then turned and smiled as he said, "Well, I tell you, Bill. When the preacher starts preaching, I'm going to lay my hammer down."

I am Aileen Taylor Smith, daughter of Edmond and Averil Taylor. My father was the youngest of the six children of Will A. and Hattie Taylor. My grandfather, Will A. was the grandson of the Richard Taylor who built New Hope in 1826.

Until my father built The Edmond Taylor Camp, my mother and father, my brother, David Gene and I were part of the old "Taylor Camp" which has since been rebuilt on the same site and is now known as the Caldwell-Thomas-Yarbrough Camp.

I remember the happy mealtimes there at the children's table under the big cedar tree. The ground was uneven and the table legs sank into the soft earth causing any spilt iced tea to run to the laps of those sitting on the low side, creating gales of laughter from those on the higher side, and screams from those who got wet. I remember one bright Coleman lamp on a big shelf in the northwest corner of the dining room. To keep the flies away there was always a person on each side of the table gently waving back and forth a long leafy green tree branch.

In the earliest days of my camp meeting memories we did not have electricity. TVA turned on our lights in 1937, but in my childhood memory it was never dark and it never rained!

I remember sharing a bunk with my Aunt Zadie whom I loved dearly. She was my father's eldest sister. I called her "Mama." She always made me feel special, and I knew I was a princess when she tucked me under the mosquito netting and said, "God bless you my sweet child. Sleep well!"

I believe the decision to divide the Taylor Camp into three camps had become necessary as six families seemed too many to gather at the two existing tables and too many mouths to feed from one kitchen. Probably there were too many hungry mouths for the sizes of the pots. Papa's sister, Annie Taylor Chapman built a camp for her family and Papa decided to build one for his.

The building site had been selected and approved by the Grounds Committee to be just west of the old Taylor Camp. To construct the new building, oak trees were felled on Papa's farm at New Hope which was our home, and the logs were cut into planks by Kendrick Saw Mill. The green lumber was laid out and measured for work to begin.

My brother and I were waiting eagerly to have friends visit with us. There had never been extra room while we shared the Taylor Camp. Our new camp was designed to have two dormitory rooms with an open hall between, leading to the dining room and kitchen across the back. The west room would be mine to share with my mother, my cousin, Patsy Simmons, and my friend, Betty Gray Kirby. The east room would belong to my brother to share with his friends and Papa.

I believe Papa spent one "sleepless night" at the camp! It became his habit after the evening church service to say "I think I will sleep at the house tonight as I need to feed the animals at the barn before I come for Prayer Meeting in the morning."

My mother loved "running the camp." I remember all the grand excitement or preparation. We actually killed the fatted calf! Each year Papa selected one of the new crop of calves to be saved and fattened for the Meeting. Eggs were placed under the hens on the dates required for hatching and growing the baby chicks to the size needed to have fried chicken. A special ham from the pork of the winter before was hanging in the smoke house. The day we said goodbye to the calf as he was taken to be butchered was sad, but sadness was forgotten when we put the many packages of meat in the rented frozen food locker.

Corn, tomatoes, beans, peas and okra were planted with the days necessary for maturity carefully counted to ensure the food would be ready for the week of feasting. Meals were planned. Mother and our cook, "Dick" talked over all the details and made grocery lists. "Dick," whose real name was Lora Taylor, had a magic touch in the kitchen. She could use ordinary flour and create hot rolls which were light enough to fly off the plate. She could make whole wheat muffins which made you want to keep eating breakfast until the horn blew for church. She turned apples into nectar of the gods! And, oh my, what wonderful corn pudding, beef hash, country steak and fried chicken. Dick cooked for our camp for many years. Now her daughter, Lula Mae Jarrett still cooks at Tabernacle, managing the kitchen at the Robert Thornton-Hurley-Young Camp. She said, "I can't make apples like Mama did."

Mother took great pleasure in sharing the blessings and bounty of Camp Meeting with friends and family whom she invited to have meals with us. Among the first to be asked were Cousin Bessie Sorrelle and her children because her family and our family were as close as two vines entwined, offering each other love and comfort in good times and bad.

After the 1957 publication of the Taylors of Tabernacle, there was a revival of family interest in returning to the camp ground. Louis Walker built a camp in the late 50's and he and his family had meals with us for several years before they added a kitchen. Later Lyde Davis and J.C. Hamilton joined us until their new kitchen was ready in 1964. That date is easy for me to remember because Mother came to Toronto to meet her new grandchild. It was the only camp meeting she missed in 65 years. Instead of running the kitchen at our camp, Papa, David Gene, Margaret and their two babies enjoyed the hospitality of the Hamiltons. A few years later Mother invited Sue and Alsey Johnson and their family to close the kitchen at their camp and join our table. Alsey was a master storyteller whose wit and wisdom made each meal a feast of laughter and fun.

By 1992 our family had grown and the Edmond Taylor Camp needed to be bigger! During the past years we had added a room to the west, then a separate sleeping cabin, then a room to the east, but we still needed more spaces; and our dining room and kitchen were "a cook's worst nightmare." The time had arrived to do something major so we replaced earth floors with concrete, enlarged the cooking and eating spaces and raised the roof to add three rooms. All of this work was planned and carried out under the able management of Richard Taylor.

When we looked back in our family's recorded history, we found that exactly 100 years earlier our grandfather, William Alexander Taylor had built the old Taylor Camp. To quote from his diary entry for the Thursday before Camp Meeting 1892, "Got 600 ft. of lumber of J.F. White to use in making Hattie's house at church", then on the next day, "Got about 400 more ft. of lumber to finish house to tent in during the meeting. We are all down on church ground too-night. Dr. Johnson preached to-night to a small congregation." Sounds pretty short of time to me! I bet Grandpa Will A. laid his hammer down just as the preacher started preaching!

My mother used to enjoy telling that Papa had asked her to marry him while they walked in the cemetery. She said they looked at the many gravestones of Taylor ancestors, and he asked if she would like to have Taylor on her tombstone. Papa never confirmed or denied the story, he just smiled.

I met Ronald Smith on June 7, 1950 at a wedding party. On Sunday afternoon of Camp Meeting 1951, which was in August then, Ron and I walked among the tombstones and sat in the shade of the old maple trees. He said, "Aileen, I love you. Could you be happy with me? Would you like to have Smith on your tombstone?"

Ron died on June 29, 2001 and as he had requested I buried his ashes at Tabernacle. We had questioned whether we should choose to be buried in his family plot in Canada or mine in America, but we made no decision. When he knew he was not going to win the battle with cancer, he said, "Aileen, take me to Tabernacle. We've had a good forty-nine years. Your family is also my family. Our life together began there."

Since 1948 The Edmond Taylor Camp has cradled life: births, deaths, joys and sorrows. My brother David Eugene married Margaret Rankin. They have four children. My friends, Mary and Grant (Skip) Cavena and their three children are now part of our big and growing family. Ron and I have three children.

In July 2002 our family gathered together again in the now enlarged Edmond Taylor Camp. Miss Averil, Papa, David, Skip and Ron are no longer with us, but will live forever in our hearts. We are family and we draw together each year because we love God and each other. We share memories of joy and sorrow, of success and failure, of love and loss and grief. Mary, Margaret and I are now the "old folks" in our camp.

I believe that coming to Kinfolks Camp Meeting at Tabernacle gives us that time and place to restore ourselves through worship and communion with family and friends, a time to find the positives in our lives, a time to pause and pray. Miss Averil called it a return to The Salt Lick. When my grandson, Daniel King, was four years old, he and Ron traveled from our home in Canada to Tennessee together. Daniel's parents could not come to Camp Meeting that year and I was already at New Hope with Papa who was not well. When Ron turned off Tabernacle Road on to the lane beside the Church, Daniel said, "Oh, stop, Grandpa. You can let me out here. I know where I am now".

When I return, I know where I am. Growing up near the camp ground, I spent childhood summers walking around the empty camps in anticipation of the annual re-awakening. Then on the Friday afternoon of moving home day, I would again walk through the camps tasting the bitter sweetness of feeling sad. I would walk slowly, stopping in front of each camp to allow my memory to re-people the swings and benches. I would fill my pockets with sawdust to keep with me a little longer the smells of camp meeting.

From the Hamilton Camp

Lyde Davis Hamilton

When JC and I built our first sleeping room we boarded with Miss Averil and Cousin Edmond (Taylor). The first year we had a kitchen, Miss Averil went to Canada to be there at the time of Joanna's birth. She let us have her good cooks for the week and Cousin Edmond, David, Margaret and their family boarded with us. It was wonderful having such great cooks my first year and I did everything that they told me. The next year I was on my own, but I learned!!

We loved being there and sharing with our friends. I tried to fill the table every meal. We always made it our vacation time and it was wonderful having our children and grandchildren for a whole week together. JC's dreams and prayers were that they would always love to come and share in all the wonderful services and praise God for the privilege of being part of such a special family reunion.

When JC got sick in 1990, Linda and Diane ran the camp for us and we came when we could. At that time we really scaled-down and have had a much smaller camp since.

I pray that when my grandchildren get established in their jobs that they will be able to come for the whole week and share with their friends.

I have been so blessed to be a part of such a great family. This camp and cemetery are very dear to my heart.

Harmon Camp

Ruth Taylor Thornton Harmon

Ruth Taylor Thornton and Claude William Harmon, of Humboldt, married in September 1946. In 1947 we had our first camp in the Macon Thornton camp house. We camped there for several years. I don't remember exactly what year a spot became available but we moved a one-room house on the place where we currently camp. This building was formerly known as the telephone house. It was where the telephone for the campground was located. Another room for sleeping was added and later a lean-to, down the side of the camp, was built for a kitchen and dining area. As the children grew older, another sleeping room was built for Rebecca and Patricia to share. This room had a bunk bed built that went from one side of the room to the other and would sleep four people. The girls have lots of memories entertaining their girl friends in this neatly painted "flower power of the 1960's" room. Our family of seven increased by one when Rebecca married Michael T. Parker in June 1973. Putting the pressure on to build a bigger camp. Bill told Patricia that when she married he guessed he would have to build a new camp to accommodate all the son-in-laws. The girls remember drawing out floor plans in the sawdust for the future camp as they got excited about trying to get Patricia married. That day came five years later when Patricia announced that she and Edward Gaylon Herron were to be married in March 1979.

A new day was dawning for the Harmon family! Bill kept his promise and planning for the new camp began. We all remember Bill saying, "I want this house to be big enough where I don't have to build another one in my lifetime," and so our hopes for a 12 bedroom 2-story camp with a kitchen/dining area across the back and a porch that stretches across the front were in the making.

Around January or February of 1979, we purchased the vacated Snipes Grove CME church, which was located just about 1 mile from the campground for $250.00. We had a year to get it off their lot. Our whole family, son-in-laws also, worked most weekends to tear down this old church building and save the lumber that was to be used for the new structure. The lumber for the church had been shipped to Al Rawls' father in 1922, at Allen Station in Haywood County, TN. The floors of this church were left intact and cut the size of each of the six bedrooms on the ground floor and later transported by trailer to the campsite. Oh, if these floors could talk! Preparations were also being made back at the campground to tear down the old camp to make room for the new camp. One of the existing rooms of the old camp was moved off of the grounds to Mike Parker's residence off Newbern Rd. in Brownsville, TN. The rest of the camp was torn down, board-by-board, and used in the new camp.

Under the direction of Cousin George Thornton and his helper, Cephus, the floors were moved and set in place for the ground floor of the "Harmon Hotel". Now Cousin George was very witty and he enjoyed joking around. However, he was a master at utilizing time and labor. He would leave to go load more lumber and while he was gone he would leave us enough to do. Upon his return we were always waiting for him. Rebecca Harmon Parker learned many tricks of the trade from Cousin George. He taught her to be a carpenter and how to lay tongue and groove hardwood flooring on the second story. The railing at the top of the stairs on the second floor is the "altar railing" from the Snipes Church. Scattered around the walls inside the camp are the old boards that Rebecca and Patricia painted flowers on but the outside was finished with newly cut cypress lumber. Our dining room table is made from 3 cypress boards, 16 feet long, sanded and painted with polyurethane. This eliminated the use of oilcloth that was used for years. Currently 10 of the 12 bedrooms are finished and we have 24 campers. All bedrooms are air-conditioned and we converted from a wood stove to a gas stove for cooking in the kitchen. We use 4 refrigerators and one upright freezer. The grand-and-great-grand children have their own refrigerator in the hallway for their popsicles and drinks so they don't bother the cooks in the kitchen area. We furnish ice and wheat flour to the campground. On the weekend before Camp Meeting starts, the family gets together to grind the whole wheat on a mobile mill Bill purchased several years ago. The kids, grandkids and great-grand child love to participate in this experience.

Yes, our house is filled with wonderful memories as it was built by our family with love and to enjoy.

Stories from the Sharpe Camp

Louise Sharpe told the story of the time when the Bishop who was holding the Meeting ate with them. "Doc" Taylor was serving at the table. When he offered another piece of chicken to the Bishop, the Bishop said, "Doc, how many pieces of chicken are on a chicken?" Doc said, "you ought to know boss, you ate them all."

Once, when guests were at the table and someone spilled water all down the table, one of the young folks yelled, "Dam it! Dam it!!" All were shocked, and then died laughing. And have never let that "young person" forget it - regardless of their protests that they were innocent and only meant to put napkins in the middle to keep the water from spreading.

Ruby Johnson (07/30/1908–07/21/1999)

Written in 1991

When Irene was twelve years old, we bought the blue oil cloth table cloth that we still use today. I have been coming since I was six years old. We came in wagons. They were building a new church and we had church services in a tent. Before we had lights, we put our curling irons in the oil lamps to curl our hair. I love Tabernacle. I am eighty-three years old and I can still water ski.

Marrying at Camp Meeting

By Carol Cavin-Dillon

On August 19, 1958, on the Tuesday of Camp Meeting week, Sally Thornton married F.G. "Moe" Cavin. Theirs was the first wedding to take place in the church during Camp Meeting. Sally is the daughter of Nick and Patty Thornton, and she had always wanted to have her wedding at Camp Meeting. She decided that the wedding should be on Tuesday so that she wouldn't miss all the weekend fun with her kinfolks.

In preparation for the event, Mr. Nick had the annex built onto the church just to house all the guests at the reception. On the day of the wedding, the church was full as family and friends gathered for the 4:30 p.m. service.

The Rev. Howell Taylor officiated, and the ceremony was recorded on a 72-speed record, which Sally and Moe still have.

There were, as might be expected in a Thornton wedding, several light moments. For weeks before the wedding, Miss Patty had been telling Mr. Nick what he needed to say during the ceremony. When Cousin Howell asked the question, "Who giveth this woman to be married to this man?" Miss Patty wanted her husband to say, "Her mother and I." When the moment came, Mr. Nick said in a wispy falsetto voice that came out of his enormous barrel chest, "We do." The whole church erupted in laughter.

At the end of the ceremony, Sally wouldn't let Moe "kiss the bride" because all of the children in the choir loft would get too close a look.

Many more light moments came after the ceremony. Ruth Taylor Harmon, the bride's older sister, managed to find Moe's going away suit and she sewed the pant-legs shut. Other practical jokes were played on them, but the greatest came well after the reception was over. Moe and Sally planned to spend their honeymoon in Paris, Tennessee. They arrived in their hotel room on their wedding night after following an elaborate and secretive get-away scheme. They thought they were safe, when the phone rang. On the other end of the line were Averil Taylor, Guilford Thornton and a crowd of others, standing around the one telephone that was nailed to a tree in the center of the campground. When Moe answered, Miss Averil said, "Hey! We're in the lobby. What y'all doin'?" And the crowd erupted. Everyone (except Moe and Sally) thought it was hilarious.

Years later, the next generation would carry on the tradition. When Carol Cavin-Dillon, youngest daughter of Moe and Sally Cavin, married David Dillon in Nashville in 2001, they planned to spend their wedding night at the Hermitage Hotel. They had told no one where they would be. Yet when they arrived in the hotel lobby, who was there but Susan Thornton, daughter of Guilford and Ann Thornton, and Carol's own brother John and his wife Sherrie. They looked up from their seats in the lobby as if surprised to see the newlyweds and said, "Hey! What ya'll doin'?" Once again, almost everyone thought it was hilarious. It was, if nothing else, a great tribute to our heritage.

George And Joe Thornton Camp

Julia Rebecca Duffey Thornton

This camp was built when the original Joseph Richard Thornton Sr. and Hattie Love Womack Thornton's camp got too crowded. George and Virginia (Barcroft) Thornton and Joe and Lucy (Marshall) Thornton built a new camp on the "hill" near the ball field.

The founders of our camp are no longer with us, and the running of the camp has passed to the next generations. The families are: Janet Thornton Lee, Mack and Charleen Thornton, Bob and Donna Thornton, Joe and Becky thornton, and Cole and Carolyn Thornton along with their children and grandchildren.

Our camp has many traditions, which we love and have established as "ritual!"

One of these concerns the wood-burning stove where our beloved Ora Wills cooked for us for 35 years until her death.

Every morning while the sun was rising, the men of the camp would gather the wood, start the fire in the stove, and make the coffee while visiting and sharing thoughts. Even though the stove is only used for special occasions now this tradition has meant so much to them that the men of our camp still carry it on while making and drinking coffee and getting the camp "freshened up for the day". This is a very special part of being together for the men in our camp with lots of stories and memories and laughter.

Everyone in camp is expected to be up for breakfast. This is the meal that is usually just family, which makes it so meaningful to us. In 2002 when every member of the family sat down together to share a meal there were 33 of us at the tables and we always have extra guests! Our dear cooks, led by our wonderful Gwen Reid, are amazing to cook for so many with such a sweet spirit.

The unmarried males in our camp sleep in the seed house of an old cotton gin. Its sides are of corrugated tin. So it is easy to awaken the boys for breakfast by scraping a stick up and down the sides! The excruciatingly loud "brrp, brrp" noise it makes gets them up! However, if some of them still won't get out of bed, then they get to hear "The Lark" sung to them.

George loved to sing this special song to "slug-a-beds." After all, the rule is that everyone be up for breakfast no matter how little sleep you had the previous night. This song has been sung to many a camper. If you have just settled back into the covers after the scraping on the side of the tin house, imagine how delighted you would be to hear this sung in loudest tones:

"The lark is up to meet the sun, the bee is on the wing.
The ant his labor has begun, the woods with music ring.
GET UPPP!"

That may be better than the way Joe's great-uncle Nick used to wake them up from sleeping on the straw mattresses—by twisting their big toes, but there is debate about this!

Another tradition in our camp concerns the family's love of embarrassing Lucy in front of her friends. As the story goes, when she and Papa Joe were courting in the cemetery Cousin Emory Weddington told that he heard:

Joe: "Lucy, you are so cute. You just look good enough to eat!"

Lucy: "Well, then, eat me up, old hog!"

Of course, she denied it, but we would wait until one of her elegant friends from town, Mrs. Ann Marks, would come out for lunch, and then we would sing, either to the tune of "Just a Closer Walk" or more likely "Are You Sleeping, Brother John" the following: "Eat me up, eat me up, old hog, old hog; eat me up old hog, eat me up, old hog, eat me up, eat me UP!" with lots of extra choruses from Mack and Bob! Everyone would laugh like crazy, and Lucy would turn red! Miss Ann looked forward to it every year.

Another one of our traditions is having watermelon, rag bologna, cheese, crackers, pickles, and hot peppers after church every night, just as though we haven't been eating royally all day! We gather around the table with our cousins and share stories and laughter and have the greatest time! That is when a lot of the memories are passed on through the generations.

On the wall in our camp, next to the picture of Ora, hangs a framed quotation from the King James Version of the Bible, the last part of Isaiah 55:2: "Eat ye that which is good and let your soul delight itself in fatness."

In our camp we delight in each other, in the richness of our lives together, in our heritage, and in our faith, and each year, thanks be to God, we are enriched in soul, mind, and body by His love and our love for each other. May we always keep these traditions and pass them on—in the words of Richard Taylor—"to our children and our children's children to the remotest generation."

Campground Tales

Julia Rebecca Duffey Thornton

From the former Rebecca Raymond Johnson Taylor and Joseph Rowan Taylor, Sr. camp.

My mother (Sara Madison Taylor Duffey) and her family had a camp near the church when she and my uncle (Joseph Rowan Taylor, Jr.) were growing up. (The camp burned while they lived away.) On "moving-in day" in 1924, Uncle Joe was four. He took off running barefoot through the camp ground as little boys will, not realizing that the leaves had been raked and burned in the valley where the lower camp shower house is now.

He ran through the leaves, and the embers burned him up to his knees. My grandmother heard him yelling, and she got Cousin Marion Thornton, who had a Model T Ford, to drive them into town, with Joe's legs hanging out the window.

Dr. Sorrelle (Alfred Harris Sorrelle, Cousin Bessie Allen Mann Sorrelle's husband) got him treated and bandaged, and much to Joe's dismay they got a baby carriage for him.

Granddaddy Taylor had a farmhand named "Head," who had a son named "Goat." Goat was around seven years old and was hired to push Joe around the campground in the buggy and keep him entertained. My uncle said he and Goat got to be good friends, but he still remembers how embarrassed he was riding around in a baby carriage at the advanced age of four!

Childhood Recollections

Libba Pittman Claiborne

Camp Meeting in the 1930's was, for me, being part of a close-knit, much smaller family than now, and holds many happy childhood memories for me.

Almost all the camps that formed the horseshoe south of the church belonged to the brothers of my mother, Ruth Thornton Pittman. Uncle Robert camped where Myra Jo and Lois do now, Uncle Richard in Bill's spot, Uncle John in Claiborne's and his sisters'. Uncle Marion's camp is now Betsy Battle's and Uncle Macon was next door in our present camp, built by Uncle Harbert. Uncle Nick had the camp which had been his mother's and is now Robert Earl's, and Uncle Harbert had moved to a new house up on the hill where Harbert Jr. now camps.

Cousin Cap had the two-story Johnson-Currie camp, and crossways at the bottom of the horseshoe was the quaint little 1 1/2 story cabin, no longer standing, of Cousin Nora Currie. Cousin Chloe Shaw camped with her. The Sharpe camp, the oldest standing, belonged to Louise's mother, Cousin Mary C. McConnico. Jack and Ruby Johnson had a little sleeping room on the site of the Johnson-Saunders camp, with a curtain hung for a front door. Right beside that was the old well, where water was drawn up in a bucket.

Sometimes when I come out in the early morning, I look across the campground, half expecting to see my uncles walking out of their cabins.

My father, Otho Pittman, came out from town when he could leave his Ford business, and my mother and I camped with Aunt Lib and Uncle Marion.

Up toward the cemetery, the Taylor, Chapman, and Coppedge camps were unknown territory to me. Sometimes we'd slip up to the little one-room schoolhouse to smoke the grapevine that grew beside it.

I was expected to attend the morning and evening services, and the rest of the time we were on our own for entertainment: checkers, Chinese checkers, Bill Thornton calling "Who, sir? Me, sir?" games, and a bag swing tied so high up in an oak tree, your heart came up in your throat as you swooped down.

The cemetery, then as now, was one of our favorite playgrounds. We loved to dance on the big flat vaults, and atop one monument was a little lamb. It rocked just enough to give a nice ride. Years later, working in the cemetery, we had it stabilized so it doesn't rock any more.

Our unofficial recreation director was Alsey Johnson, who was several years older than my crowd, and the world's undisputed greatest story-teller. He would lead us off on expeditions which were high adventures for me. One day he was entertaining us with ghost stories in the cemetery. We were near a tombstone with a rounded top and a jagged crack running all the way from top to bottom. Suddenly he called out, "The devil's coming out of that crack. Run for your lives!" And quite terrified, we did!

We went down into the woods behind Cousin Nora's house with Cousin Sambo Taylor to get honeysuckle vine. He taught us how to weave tiny honeysuckle baskets, after we sucked the sweet nectar from the blooms.

The most popular pastime was carving walking sticks from green sassafras shoots. Alsey took us to find these, over "sand hill" and into woods and thickets.

It was worth it though, as we later got out our pocket knives to cut and carefully peel off the green bark up and down the cane in all kinds of designs……spirals and checkerboards, initials and swastikas (unthreatening then). Some skilled artisans carved out hearts, clubs, diamonds and spades, then painting them with black shoe polish and red iodine. The more daring would decorate with drops of blood, as a cut finger was the time-honored Tabernacle initiation.

One afternoon toward the end of the week, we took our canes to the church to be judged. As the winners were announced, they received their coveted prizes of candy from Cousin Ethel's store down on the corner….wine balls or jaw-breakers , and coconut creams covered in pink and yellow frosting.

Going to the store after evening church to buy candy and soft drinks was another big treat.

Sometimes I'd spend the night with my cousin, Chloe Shaw Lloyd, at Cousin Nora's camp. Miss Ruth Hay and other older ladies spent the week with her and Chloe's grandmother. Hanging on nails, their corsets covered one wall where they slept.

Chloe and I would climb into the loft, on stairs that were more like a ladder, to sleep on a bed of straw covered with quilts, with a kerosene lamp for light. It's a miracle we didn't burn the house down!

Most of the camps had bunk beds, just big wooden shelves across one half of a room, filled with straw and covered with quilts, with the bed covers over that. As I grew older, friends from town would visit or board, and the walls would be covered with our dresses and voluminous skirts. We'd have to climb up on the bunk to get our dresses down, but it was fun.

At the morning service, it was pleasant to gaze out the open windows while you listened to the sermon….hearing the birds singing and little children playing and the muffled sounds from the kitchens. When my mother was a girl, she and Elizabeth Wills almost broke up church one day riding their horses across the campground.

Bill and Joe Thornton, Alsey Johnson, and Emory Weddington always had something going to keep us entertained. The Tarzan movies had just come out, and they had perfected the famous "Tarzan yell." We could hear them all over the camp, as one would call from up on the hill, and another would answer through the trees.

In 1941 my childhood ended as World War II began. All our young men went to war, and the Tarzan yells were silenced for a while. Camp Meeting was quieter and more solemn; but it endured, as it has through all wars and depressions.

A dark cloud hung over Tabernacle in 1944 when Marion Thornton Jr. was killed in a plane crash over England. He was one of my favorite cousins, always smiling and loved by all. Uncle Marion had a photograph of him in his uniform enlarged into a huge picture, and nailed it to the wall in the hallway of his camp.

Camp Meeting has gone on through good times and bad, remaining a fortress of faith, where we draw renewed dedication for the year to follow.

Recollections from the Weddington Camp

The bond between the Curries, the Johnsons and the Weddingtons was forged by three devoted sisters: Nora, Capp and Dick Mann. The youngest sister, known to her grandchildren as "Dickie" was a family character. The baby of her family, she was spoiled "rotten as dirt." In later life, she was frugal in ways that newcomers to Brownsville sometimes found a bit eccentric, and she was generous to those she loved. And then, there was her legendary driving.....

Elizabeth Weddington Boggs: My grandmother was Harriet Dick Mann. She came along very late in her parents' marriage, and she was named after both her mother — Harriet Taylor — and her father — Richard Mann.

We grandchildren called her Dickie.

Dickie married Charles Emory Weddington and they had one child, Charles Emory Weddington Junior.

Charles Emory Weddington Junior then married Inez Lipscomb, and they had four children. Amy Lee Weddington (Harris), Charles Emory Weddington III, Elizabeth Currie Weddington (Boggs), and William Allen Weddington.

Susan Thornton: What's the earliest story or memory you have about Dick and Emory?

Elizabeth: Because Dickie was born so late in her parents' marriage, she was spoiled rotten. She was a real brat.

She pretty well had her way. Once when she was five or six, she wanted to go to visit her neighbor, Lucy Pitts. And she was instructed not to go to Lucy Pitts by Grandpa Dick, Grandma Harriet and apparently everybody else in the family. And so Dickie set off walking and she was crying the whole way, "Ain't going to Lucy Pitts. Ain't going to Lucy Pitts." But she was making a beeline for Lucy Pitts. That was Dickie.

Emily Currie Huie: Rob Macon called her "little forrid gal"— which meant, of course: "that little forward girl."

Aunt Dick was my great aunt — her sister Nora was my grandmother. And I think she was 14 years younger than Granny.

Granny used to tell a story about one time when Dickie was a little girl and she was pitching a fit. For once, nobody paid any attention to her. In the middle of her crying, Dickie looked up and realized that she wasn't getting the attention she wanted. Still crying, she started to mutter: "Well, I guess I'll just walk a little further and cry a little more."

Elizabeth: After Dickie died, Will Allen found her four college annuals in her effects. She graduated from the women's college in Cleveland Tennessee, which was pretty unusual for someone of her age.

While she was at school, she was in various sororities. And in one of the annuals, she was voted "Wittiest in the School."

When I was little, I thought everybody's grandparents were as strange and funny as Dickie — she was pretty wacky — but as I got older, I realized that most people's grandmothers were not that way.

For instance, when I was about 10 or 12 years old, we got a new croquet set. We were all out there playing croquet, when Dickie — who was in her late 70s — went walking past. We said: "Dickie. Come play croquet with us."

Even though she had on her old lady dress and her Miss Minnie Walker shoes, she stepped right up and got her little croquet mallet and played with us. She was a champ. She was the greatest.

I guess the thing about her that most anybody in town would remember was that it was absolutely harrowing to ride with her. You would just close your eyes, clench your fists and pray because Dickie drove down the middle of the road. She didn't necessarily stop at stop signs or red lights. It was fun. It was interesting. But you didn't come out of it the way you were when you got into the car.

When I was in high school, Nancy Helen Thornton and I would go to a lot of dances together. One time we could not get anybody to take us. We couldn't get her parents, we couldn't get my parents, we couldn't get her older brother or my older sister. I mean there was nobody available to take us to this dance.

Finally I said "Nancy, I know you want to go to this dance as bad as I do. I hate to say this, but we do have one resort." So we called Dickie who, of course, would do anything for you at any time. She said: "Sure, I'll take you."

So I told Nancy that Dickie was going to take us, and to prepare herself.

When Dickie and I drove to Nancy Helen's house, it was only a few blocks away—it's not that far to travel. But it was night time.

I can still see the drive to the dance. Nancy and I were sitting in the backseat white-knuckled from holding onto the armrests on the sides of Dickie's old Dodge Dart. The light would turn red and Dickie would just keep on driving.

Just last night, Nancy Helen reminded me that she remembered Dickie saying: "Hmm. I don't know why all those people are blowing their horns at me. They can drive on past me on either side."

She drove was down the middle of the road, but I don't think she ever had a wreck. Never a major one, certainly. Of course, the columns on her garage were 360 degrees turned around where she would bump them. But that was it.

Emily: One reason Aunt Dick was close to our family was that she brought us milk every day — maybe not every day but every other.

She was a career woman. She ran a dairy. She had cows and she delivered milk and cream and buttermilk and whatever you wanted and she churned the milk and the cream. This tall black woman named Zula worked for her.

Aunt Dick would come switching up to your house and put the milk bottles on your porch. And if you hadn't taken in those bottles of milk by the time she finished her deliveries and came back down the street, you were in big trouble. And if you didn't get those milk bottles clean before you gave them back, she'd let you know about it.

Elizabeth: Amy helped her deliver the milk, and when she delivered the milk in the summer, she'd also deliver a little bouquet of flowers. They were wonderful flowers. She was a marvelous gardener.

Emily: She had Jackson vine growing across her porch and everybody used it for weddings.

Elizabeth: She knew that nobody was going to be able to take care of her roses after she died, so before she died she gave them to Aunt Dorothy [Dorothy Campbell Currie]. Aunt Dorothy put them in her rose bed. The one we all remember was a little sweetheart rose.

Emily: She was one of my all-time favorite people. She had so much personality and she had a wonderful sense of humor. All my life, I felt she was totally supportive of me. And she was frugal and absolutely pragmatic. She didn't fool around with anything.

Daddy [her nephew Tom Currie] always quoted her as saying: "Well, all you can do is live till you die."

And Cousin Louise Sharpe remembers Aunt Dick saying, "Well, I declare. I seem to have taken leave of my proclivities." I never heard anybody use that word "proclivities" except Aunt Dick.

Daddy carried her insurance and so we talked a lot about her driving. When I would come to Brownsville with my children, Aunt Dick would call me and say: "Well, I'm coming to get Mary Ann and take her for a ride."

This used to scare me to death, because for years I kept hearing Daddy say: "Well, one of these days Aunt Dick is going to have a really bad wreck and kill someone…." I didn't want my little children in her car at all.

But she was really cute. And one thing that made her even more precious was that when she was 65 she had a massive coronary and she almost died. Everybody went to donate blood.

Aunt Dick hung by a thread. Later, she told us that she was lying there and she knew she was dying, when she looked up and saw Uncle Emory sitting by the bed. She said to God: "I can't die and leave poor Emory. You going to have to let me live because I've got to take care of Emory."

She had the same practical approach to death that she took to everything else. For instance, one time she and my Aunt Elizabeth [Currie Muntzel] came down to Atlanta to visit. I went with them to Douglasville to visit Cousin Emory's relatives, the Kellys.

Anyway, we made our visit and then we came back to Atlanta. The next morning Aunt came downstairs, and said that Aunt Dick had had a "spell" in the night, which meant she had had an angina attack.

While she was having the spell, Aunt Dick didn't call anybody. She just lay there having these bad chest pains, and thinking to herself: "Why in the world have I come down here? Now I'm going to die and how are they going to get me home?"

All night long she was lying in bed trying to figure out the logistics of getting herself home after she was dead….

In fact, on at least three occasions, Cousin John [Thornton], who was her doctor, told her when she revived that she had been just on this side of death. When she actually did die, it was a shock because she had been so close to death so many times.

She was a really tough little lady.

Susan: Did she have any other quirks?

Emily: Well, she would ask everybody what everything costs.

Elizabeth: She left the price tags on all gifts so that you would know their value ….

Emily: …And nobody knew quite how to respond to that. Nobody wanted to tell her, but they were afraid not to. And then, after Emory married Inez, whenever Aunt Dick asked Inez how much something cost, Inez would just reply, very calmly, "It cost 999 dollars…." and leave it at that.

Elizabeth: One time I asked my mother about Dickie. I said: "Mama. It must have been really hard for you when you married Daddy because because Dickie lived right behind your house. She had breakfast and lunch with you every single day. Your mother-in-law was just breathing down your throat. Wasn't it tough?"

And she said: "No. I'm probably the luckiest person in the world. Dickie was just wonderful."

Whenever she would go out or she would come back from wherever she'd been, she'd always make a little toot on the horn as she went from her little house — which was behind our house — and back again.

She'd do her little toot to let us know: "I'm back home. I'm okay." That was her way of saying 'I'm fine and you don't have to worry about me.' It was very reassuring for us because whatever you were doing, you'd know that Dickie was back.

Emily: They really were devoted to each other. And I think she would have been tough as a mother-in-law because she told you exactly what she thought.

Sue Johnson: She'd tell you in a minute what to do. But if you didn't do it, it didn't offend her.

For example, one year my daughter Jane [Sevier] brought her friend Ann Short to Camp Meeting. The two of them were going to freshen up our camp by painting some of our white chairs. Jane warned Ann that Aunt Dick would tell them exactly how to do the painting.

Jane told Ann: "Aunt Richard is going to tell you exactly how to paint the chairs, and she'll tell you which way to turn each chair and this, that and the other.

Ann thought Jane was crazy.

Honey, Aunt Dick sat over there and quoted verbatim what Jane said she would say. Ann would be trying to paint a chair, and Aunt Dick would say: "You're not doing that right. You need to turn it around …."

She'd say: "I believe I'll turn wrong-side out if you don't do this and such…."

Elizabeth: Another thing Dickie would do is that if she was talking on the phone and got tired, she'd just hang up. She didn't say good-bye or anything. You could be in the middle of a sentence and you'd hear a click and she'd be gone.

Emily: Aunt Dick knew that my aunt listened to the radio in the morning, so she called her every single morning at 7:00 a.m. to find out about the weather.

Sue: One time I was bathing all three of my children. They were in the bathtub and it took me more than 15 seconds to answer the telephone. When I picked up the receiver, Aunt Richard said: "Well! What were you doing?"

I said: "Bathing your nieces and your nephew."

She said: "Bathing them? Can't they bathe themselves?"

At this point they were hardly big enough to sit up.

Elizabeth: She was profoundly critical.

Sue: You know she would tell me, you have to do so and so and so and so. And I'd say "Yes, mam. I sure will, Aunt Dick." But she didn't care if you didn't do what she said. She just wanted to get her two cents in and tell you what you ought to do.

It wasn't like her sister, Granny Currie, who really expected you to do what she said.

Emily: Granny was an enforcer.

Sue: After we moved to Shelbyville, Aunt Dick used to go home with us and stay for a week or two. She would ride up to Shelbyville with Miss Elizabeth Moses, who would go on to Tullahoma. I don't know if the people on the highway knew how dangerous the driving conditions actually were.

Anyway, Aunt Richard would come and my children adored her. We had a black cat and that cat would come upstairs and if you were sitting in the bathtub, that cat would walk the length of the tub, back and forth, back and forth. The children called that cat Dickie because she was so inquisitive. Aunt Dick was like that. She wanted to know how much everything cost and she wanted to know why you were doing so and so.

Emily: She was a meticulous housekeeper. There was a tale that when Uncle Emory was gored by the bull, he came into the house bleeding profusely. And all the time Aunt Dick was saying: "Don't bleed on the rug …"

And one time, when we were about nine years old, my friend Frances Duckworth and I were going on a hike. We had our lunch in a paper bag and a bottle of coke. And just as we got near to Aunt Dick's house the coke bottle fell out of Frances's paper bag and the broken glass flew up and hit this artery in the back of her heel. We went to Aunt Dick's house for help. She was out, but Zula was there. And the first thing Zula said to us was: "Don't bleed on Miss Dick's rug!"

Sue: She had her own way of doing things and when I first came to Brownsville, I didn't always understand them. I'd ask Alsey: "Why does Aunt Dick have that potted plant in the bathtub?"

And Alsey would say, "Well the faucet leaks…"

Elizabeth: That's how she watered her plants. Anywhere she had a leak, that's where you'd find a plant.

Sometimes it used to kind of bug us that Dickie was the way she was, but Daddy would say: "Well, if you think about it. She's not stingy or greedy or selfish or anything like that…she's just frugal, which is entirely different. She makes use of whatever there is." And it wasn't just because of the Depression. It was the way she was.

She was such a generous person. She'd get up in the middle of the night and go take us to a dance. And every Sunday afternoon she would take all her old lady friends out for a drive…Cud'n Mildora loved her dearly because Aunt Dick was the only one left who still drove.

Sue: She probably would have been better off had she not ridden with her. But she lived through it.

Elizabeth: She never had a bad wreck.

Sue: Because everybody got out of her way.

When Alsey and I first came home from Europe, of course I didn't know Aunt Dick as well as I did in later years when I adored her and we were great friends.

But when we first came home from Europe my hair needed cutting and Aunt Dick said: "Well, you get Marie to do it and I'll take you out there."

We rode all the way to Bell Eagle. Sometimes we rode on the right side of the road and sometimes we rode on the left side. And Aunt Dick would say: "Do you see what that is planted over there?" And she'd turn clean around in the driver's seat.

I promised the Lord, "If I ever get home I am going to find some way to make it up to You." From that point on, I'd say, "I'll pick you up, Aunt Richard."

Susan: Maybe we should talk a little bit about her life off the road. At Camp Meeting, did she run the camp or did your mom?

Elizabeth: Dickie did at first, but then when we came along, Mother ran it. Dickie would help Mother in any way she needed help. She was amazing for being able to stay out of your business. She never interfered in Mother and Daddy's life in any way. She was there if you needed her but she never interfered in any way at all.

Sue: She adored her grandchildren.

Emily: She really did.

Susan: Was Emory an only child?

Elizabeth: Yes. Papa would not let her adopt. And it was too dangerous for her to have another baby, so Daddy was an only child. Daddy always grew up wanting lots of brothers and sisters.

I think one reason that the three sisters' families are so close is that Dickie was the baby of the family, and then my dad was an only child. When Daddy was growing up, his first cousins Uncle Tom (Currie) and Uncle Jack (Johnson) and Alsey (Johnson) were his best friends.

Emily: One thing she did that I thought was really neat was that when she and Uncle Emory got married it was during the time when people gave a lot of cut glass for wedding presents. From then on, whenever the children or grandchildren of those people got married, Aunt Dick would send them the same pieces of cut glass that their parents had given her on her wedding day.

Elizabeth: My mother was not very pleased about that. There went our inheritance.

Emily: Well, now that you mention it, she had let my mother use some pieces of that cut glass. And then she came and got them back so she could send them to the grandchildren who were getting married.

There was one bowl that my mother really hated to give up. But Aunt Dick called her and said: "Well. So and so is getting married. I'm coming to get the bowl."

She had a wonderful way of doing it. She didn't beat around the bush.

Sue: When I came to Brownsville for the first time , Alsey said you have to meet my mother's sisters. And Granny Currie [Nora Mann Currie] was living down there in that house on College Street, across from the house where Amy Harris lives now.

Elizabeth [Weddington Boggs] was a little bitty girl about three years old. I believe she was keeping you. And he took me there and I felt that I was on review. And I went there. I remember having a chat with Granny Currie, who was really the matriarch of the family.

Emily: Well, those three sisters used to sit over there in that dog trot [of the Currie-Johnson Camp]. Granny's hair wasn't marcelled but Aunt Dick's was, and so was Aunt Capp's. Aunt Dick's hair was dark purply and Aunt Capp's was white. Alsey used to fix their hair a lot of the time with clips so it would have those ridges.

Those sisters were really close.

Sue: They were devoted to each other.

Elizabeth: Granny Currie lived with Dickie until she couldn't take care of herself. Then, after I graduated from highschool, I lived with Dickie for a year and I got Granny's room and Granny's bed. You'd feel so loved by Dickie. She was very inclusive. No matter what she would ask anybody to do anything with her.

I guess the biggest thing she did for us when we were little — and Daddy followed up on it coming down through the generations— she would read to us every night. She always read the Bible and The Upper Room every night before she went to sleep.

For supper, she would have fruit or popcorn. I personally liked popcorn. And she'd sit in that rocking chair, which we later found out belonged to Elizabeth Moses. They were great friends.

Emily: She would do anything for her friends. My mother, Mary Neil Currie, used to tell this story about Aunt Dick's generosity. Once, when one of her country relatives died, Aunt Dick let the family put the body in her dining room before the funeral. Zula was absolutely terrified that there was a body in the dining room. But the worst thing was that the casket had to be placed in front of the sideboard so they couldn't get to the silver to serve. And Aunt Dick was just undone about that.

Susan: Did she ever tell any stories about camping or Camp Meeting when she was a child?

Elizabeth: She did say that when she was a child, they camped in tents. Then Grandpa Dick, who had a lumber mill, decided he'd just build himself a house so they wouldn't have to worry about tents anymore. They built the house towards the middle of the Campground. Today the wood on the interior walls of our camp is from that house, which was the very first house on the Campground.

Here at Camp Meeting, there were four of us children and there were only three rooms. Amy and I stayed in one room, the boys in the other. And then when I was 13 Amy and I were having so much company, that Daddy built the cabin behind the camp. He built one room for me, which was part of the old cook's room, and then Dickie got the other side.

I know we kept her awake many anight but she never, ever said a word about it. When I think about it now I'm rather ashamed of all the racket we made. We must have deprived her of sleep but she just lay there through it. She was just a wonderful person.

Recollections from the Sharpe & Currie Camps

During Camp Meeting in 1998, Susan Thornton interviewed members of the Sharpe, Tom Currie and Dick Currie Camps. The conversation soon developed two main themes. The first was Cousin Louise McConnico Sharpe's recollections of life on the campground and in Brownsville. The second was stories about family characters, most notably Granny — Cousin Nora Mann Currie — who ruled over the Currie Camp until her death in 1960.

(Present during this conversation were Susan Sharpe and Louise McConnico Sharpe; Corrinne Currie Lane and Rick Currie; Elizabeth Weddington Boggs; Emily Currie Huie and Mary Ann Williams.)

Rick Currie: I don't know much about the history, but the Currie name of course came into the family when Granny—Nora Mann—married Will Currie.

Susan Thornton: And Nora Currie was the sister of Capp Mann Johnson and Aunt Dick (Mann Weddington). They also had a brother who died.

Louise McConnico Sharpe: Mother said she could remember that her mother said: "Mary come home and after school today don't play because Dick's going to marry tonight." She and Emory Weddington were going to marry in her living room.

Corrine Currie Lane: As far as the history is concerned, I know that Granny's (Nora Mann Currie's) house was the first house built on the Campground.

Susan: Before people had houses, they camped in tents. Cousin Louise, where did the tents come from that we used for camp houses and what did they do with the tents when we weren't camping in them?

Louise: They rented them. That's how they started building houses. Most people had lumber on their farms and had more wood to build a house than they had money to rent a tent.

Corrine: That's what I always heard—that Grandpa Dick had lumber and he built this first house, cause he said he had more wood than he had money to rent a tent. Eventually that house was torn down and the lumber was used to build a house for his daughter, Dick Mann Weddington.

Susan: What's your earliest Camp Meeting memory, Cousin Louise?

Louise: We used to move out here. Tall wagons brought our mattresses and things in from town. We slept in bunks in one big room. My Aunt Nancy—who was my mother's sister—and her family stayed on one side and we stayed with my mother on the other side. Those shelves around the front of our porch were full of coal oil lamps.

When we had to move one of our rooms, we pulled it over those trees and they were so little that they just bounced back.

Susan: Was the meeting a full week when you were a child?

Louise: It was a week and we used to wonder why we didn't stay longer, because when you start running a camp you don't know how you could stop ....

We used to hire a wagon to bring things for the kitchen. On the back of the wagon was a coop full of chickens. And this was the last camp for a thousand years—all that was woods. And they'd take the chickens way down there and kill'em and dress them when we were going to have fried chicken.

And there was a big wooden box—I guess it was lined with sawdust—where they put the ice. Once the meeting got started, the only wagon we let in was the ice wagon.

Susan: What was going to church out here like when you were a little girl?

Louise: Of course, there was a little white frame building up there but we went to church in this big tent with coal oil lamps hanging all around.

One of the first preachers I heard in that tent told this story. He said: "You know, I got on the train in Memphis and two men got on behind me. I sat down in the car and they sat down behind me. And I got off at Allen Station" —that was the closest place where the train stopped— "and these same two men got off. And when I walked up to the church and these same two men followed me up to the church."

By this time, everbody in the tent started looking around, trying to figure out just who these two men could be. That was the preacher's whole sermon, he went on about these two men. Then finally he said: "And surely, Goodness and Mercy are going to follow me all the days of my life…." He had made his sermon into a ghost story.

Mary Ann Williams: When did they quit using the tent?

Louise: When they added on to the church and air-conditioned it. It was so much more pleasant.

Rick: I remember when they got the air conditioning. It happened because of that preacher that Aunt Elizabeth lined up to come from some big church.

Louise: He was named something Lewis. He was good. That was the year our boys had a jeep and he'd ride with them and go swimming with somebody every afternoon. He was a young fellow and he said: "It's a shame sitting out here as hot as we all are." One night he raised enough money to air-condition the church.

Corrine: I love the air-conditioning but it was so nice when the windows were open and you could hear the singing from down the campground.

Emily Currie Huie: And we had all those hand fans with pictures of the Upper Room on them and portraits of Jesus.

Louise: Every year some undertaker would give us some of those fans. I had one or two in the attic.

Another sermon I remember also happened about a thousand years ago, when they had the bishop out here. He was as wide as that swing, not very tall, and he came back when people didn't fly off to the Holy Land at the snapping of their thumbs. But he had been to the Holy Land.

One night during services he decided to take us over and he talked for two hours and a half… . People finally started crawling out the back window. When he stepped on the ground outside, Robert Thornton said: "Whew. I was so afraid he was going to bring us home I couldn't enjoy the scenery."

Corrinne Currie Lane: Well, one of the first things I can remember about Camp Meeting was Granny sitting at the end of the table in our camp house over there. There was a wooden platform that somebody had built and they put a chair up on top of the platform and she sat on the end of the table. As a child I really thought she was like a queen.

Rick and Emily: She WAS a queen.

Emily: Daddy (Tom Currie) used to say that he and Granny would start out for Camp Meeting and they would stop along the way to get Aunt Lena, who was the cook. Of course, they hadn't talked to her ahead of time or anything. They were just going to Camp Meeting and dropped by to pick up the cook.

Granny would go into Aunt Lena's cabin and say: "Come on, Lena, we're going to Camp Meeting."

And Lena would say something like: "Miz Currie, I can't go this year."

And Granny would say: "Well, of course you can go. Get on the wagon."

Corrine: She did pretty much just tell you what you were going to do.

Emily: Granny just sat in that one chair all through Camp Meeting and directed it. She never did get up. She never did seem to be thrashing around like I am. She sat there like Queen Bess and did it.

Corrine: I know it. I keep wondering how she kept from putting her head in the refrigerator to see what the leftovers looked like.

Emily: I don't think she ever saw the inside of that kitchen, cause she ran the camp from out front.

One time we children had a lot of company and our camp ran out of fried chicken during dinner. And Granny said: "Well, of course, we had plenty of food. They just ate too much." It wasn't that she hadn't planned for enough food—the children just ate too much. And that was the end of that.

Corrine: We really did have a good time, because Emily would have her friends from Brownsville and I'd occasionally have girls from Covington and we stayed up in that upstairs and sleep on bales of straw, covered with feather tickings. How we stood the heat I don't know, but we'd sleep as many as ten girls up there. And we did a lot of giggling.

One year, there was a helper named Lula Mae. Emily would say to Lula Mae: "Come and comb my hair."

Emily had a permanent in her hair—it was cut and she had a permanent— and Lula Mae would roll those little rolls around her fingers. But my mother made me still have pigtails, and Lula Mae couldn't do anything but comb the end of my pigtails. Oh, I was so jealous. I thought if I could just have curls for Lula Mae to comb....

Rick: I remember that when we were sitting down to a meal, Granny would often say "I can't eat this here, you take it Rick." She would want me to eat stuff off her plate and it would drive me nuts. But of course now I eat stuff of my children's plates to keep it from going to waste.

The other thing I remember about her is that she wanted me to be a preacher.

Corrine: She wanted me to marry one. That man who was a Baptist minister from Texas....

Emily: She wanted us both to marry him.

Mary Ann: How did she set you up?

Corrine: He came to visit Camp Meeting from time to time. He was next in line after Cousin Howell Taylor to be the minister, but he declined. However, he would come out here to visit a cousin every now and then and whenever he did Granny would make him come over and introduce him to us. We met him a lot.

We never got any further than "Hello. How are you?" But she made sure that we did that.

Rick: Granny made quilts a lot, didn't she? It was the main thing she did, other than give directions.

Elizabeth Weddington Boggs: Dickie made comforters for us. I've got some still that they made.

Corrine: They got the wool off the sheep in Haywood County and washed it and carded it and put it between the most gosh awful material they could find in Felsenthal's basement. I have a pair at home that are bright orangey yellow with red flowers.

Elizabeth Weddington Boggs: Mine was yellow and it said Kit Carson because I was a child who loved Westerns and stuff like that. I wanted to be a cowboy….

Susan: Did Nora have specific rules?

Emily: Whatever she said to do.

Corrine: It never occurred to us to even ask if there were rules. But the answer is yes. One of the main rules was that you did not leave the Campground. You did not go to town. You did not go to Bells to the Okra Festival.

Emily: There were things you knew growing up. Like you never did anything on Sunday because that was the day of rest. You didn't go fishing. And you never would do something like play cards. When we were teenagers, if we went to the picture show on Sunday night, the message was: Don't let Granny know about that.

She was very spiritual and she talked about God a lot. She didn't give orders in a commanding kind of way. She was just imperious and it came across that what she said was the way it was going to be. It wasn't that she needed to keep reiterating something.

Corrine: It just seemed to be well-considered and probably coming from God if she said it.

There was one thing that she and my Aunt Elizabeth—her older daughter, who never had any children—loved to do and that was to tell people what to name their children. She was very emphatic about what you named your children and somehow we didn't argue with her.

Like Sue Johnson was remembering this morning that they had talked about what to name John (Johnson) and that they were coming up with all these things and Granny said: "You name him John for his granddaddy." Sue said, "Fine. And we can call him Jack." And Granny said: "No. You're not going to call him Jack." And that was the way it was.

Emily: My mother didn't want to name me Emily. She wanted to name me for her grandmother, Mary Priscilla. Granny said; "Well. Of course you're going to name her for your mother. Her name is Emily."

Corrine: Back to the Camp Meeting rules. The other rule was that we all went to church and all the young people sang in the choir.

Susan: Do you call that singing or do you call that displaying?

Corrine: Well, all of the above because we had on seven petticoats. But the point was that young people were in sight and you sat and you participated in the service.

Louise: You know just after my mother died, I came home one day after substituting in high school and Cousin Nora was stretched out on the sofa.

She said: "Louise, your mother's room is vacant and I've decided I'm just going to move up here with you and Ben."

I said, "Well, that's just fine."

And she said, "You don't answer me until you talk it over with Ben. And if he doesn't want me don't mind telling me."

I asked Ben and he said, "Well certainly she can live with us."

When I told Granny she could come, she replied: "Well, then I'll pay you." But I said, "No. You won't pay us. The room's there."

When he heard that Granny had asked if she could live with us, Cousin Tom Currie (who was Granny's son) came up to our house and begged his mother to come and live with his family. He said: "Now mother, Louise has nursed her mother for the past two years. She can't fool with you. Please don't stay up here."

Cousin Nora said: "If Ben says I can stay, I'm going to stay. There's a room for me and I'm going to stay in it."

Then Tom said: "Well, if you stay with them, please don't tell them how to spend their money and how to rear their children."

"What do you think I came for?" Granny replied.

Susan Sharpe: Mother, did you tell them about the time she told me I was going to get a new baby sister?

Louise: Well, we were going to Washington to visit Elizabeth and Jim Muntzel, and Cousin Nora discussed the trip with Susan, who was little at the time. She said: "Oh, there are a lot of children in Washington that nobody wants. They'll bring you a little sister home."

Susan Sharpe: We got ready to leave Washington and I started crying. And Ben said, "Why are you crying?" And I said because we hadn't gotten my little sister yet. And that was the first they knew of it. It was a sad trip for me because we didn't get my little sister.

Emily: My vision of Granny as a child was of this lady sitting with a Bible on her lap. She read the Bible a lot and she talked about how wonderful it was going to be to go to heaven. She just couldn't wait to die. And I thought that was just incredible that she was so looking forward to it.

Corrine: Granny used to say, "Y'all can just carry on when I die. You can just carry on all you want to. I'm not going to be there. I'm going to be singing around the throne."

She thought it was better to be singing around the throne than to be here in some limited space.

My daddy told me that when he was a little boy he would go off to school, come home in the afternoon and the doctor's buggy would be in front of the house and he would think, "Oh Lord. I reckon Mama died."

She was talking about dying and thinking about dying all the time. Even when he was a little boy, he would think: "Oh, I hope Mama didn't die when I was at school today."

Emily: Aunt (Elizabeth Currie Muntzel) said she talked so much about the stepmother they were going to have that they were really looking forward to it. And they never got her because Granny outlived Pa by many years.

My mother (Mary Neil Currie) used to tell this story. Around the time, Pa (Will Currie) who was Granny's husband, died, Mother and Daddy and my brother Thomas, who was a baby, were living with her.

My mother and father realized that Pa was dying and they were waiting for Uncle Dick, who was going to come in his car and take Thomas up to my other grandmother's house. Granny was upstairs with Pa.

She came walking slowly down the stairs and said to mother, "Well. The Chariot has come."

"Granny, I'm not quite ready," said Mother. "Wait a minute while I get my things."

But what Granny meant was that the chariot had come to take Pa to heaven—he had died—not that Uncle Dick was there.

Corrine: And when Granny's sister, Aunt Capp, died suddenly in an automobile accident during Camp Meeting, everybody was a little nervous about telling Granny about it because, by that time, she was getting to be an old lady. When somebody finally told Granny, all she said was: "Won't Mother be glad to see her."

Louise: Once she went for an operation in the hospital. Her children, Tom and Elizabeth tried to talk her out of it. They said: "You can't be operated on. You're too old. You'll die."

Granny said: "Who cares?"

She survived the operation and when she woke up, the doctor came in to see her. He said: "Well, how are you feeling today?"

"Well, you've really let me down," said Granny. "I thought I'd be singing around the throne."

Corrine: Apparently Rob Macon told a story to Bill Thornton about when Granny's father, Grandpa Dick, was dying. Apparently, the doctor came in the buggy out here to Bell Eagle to see him. Then he told Granny and the rest of the family, "He's going to die but he doesn't have to die any time soon. Just keep his head elevated and he'll be okay."

Rob Macon said that as soon as the doctor's buggy got out of the driveway, Granny went and snatched the pillow out from under Grandpa Dick's head. And he just laid back and took a couple of gurgles and died.

Because of this, Tom Thornton tells me that any time someone is at the far end of his or her life and is having a terrible time living, they say: "Somebody needs to snatch the pillow."

Mary Ann: Cousin Louise, who was the biggest character on the Campground when you were a young girl?

Louise: Oh, Aunt Molly was one. And her son, you know, Rob Macon.

Corrine: Mother (Dorothy Campbell Currie) used to tell a story about when she came to Camp Meeting for the first time, as a bride.

After Mother and Daddy married in June, they went on a little honeymoon to the Smoky Mountains. Then they came back and set up housekeeping in Savannah, Tennessee. When the meeting happened later that summer, the family put Mother and Daddy in a little old one-room house with three old women. I think Aunt Molly and Aunt Lela were two of them. The third may have been Cousin Chloe.

At night those old women would pull out the chamber pots and use them. The cabin had a dirt floor and one night it rained so bad that Mother said that her fine new shoes—which were part of her trousseau—floated off to the far ends of the cabin.

Mary Ann: What did Aunt Molly look like?

Louise: Well, she was kind of low and she was plump and very pleasant.

Emily: Daddy said she got a telephone. It was one of the first telephones he saw and he was at her house and the phone rang and she didn't answer it. And he finally said: "Aunt Molly, are you going to answer the telephone?" And she said, "No. I had it put in for my own convenience."

Louise: And one time she picked up the phone and she said: "Speak fast and plenty of it cause I'm busy today." In other words, just say what you got to say because I'm busy.

Emily: None of them had a lot of telephone etiquette. When Granny called us, you'd pick up the phone and her voice would say: "I'm ready to go to Dick's." Or "I've forgotten my pocketbook. Bring it."

Mary Ann: Cousin Louise, tell the story about your nightgown.

Louise: Well, when my son Ben was born, his daddy Ben Senior was tickled because he was a boy. Ben Senior's brother and sister had both had babies, but they were girls. So having a boy meant a lot to Ben. He was so tickled that he went to Meady's in Memphis, which was on Main Street and bought me the fanciest nightgown I've had before or since. It was satin underneath and had chiffon kind of overskirt with ribbons running through it. Oh, it was fancy.

Cousin Chloe was visiting me in the hospital room when I unwrapped the package that had the nightgown in it.

"Have Mercy!" she said. "That's fancy. He could buy you two or three cotton gowns for the money that gown cost. Take it back tomorrow!"

I said, "Cousin Chloe, Ben doesn't want me to have cotton nightgowns."

Corrine: Oh, and tell about Cousin Chloe and the flashlight.

Louise: Well, during the meeting Cousin Chloe would go around with a flashlight trying to get people to go back to their cabins every night. One of our cousins was a lawyer and he didn't like that. He told her: "If you keep going around with that flashlight, they're going to sue you for not having a hunting license."

Of course, Cousin Molly and Cousin Chloe and Cousin Dick and Cousin Nora and them were just like Mother's sisters. They all kept an eye out for us.

When my daddy died I was eleven months old. He left mother with three small children. She moved back to Brownsville to live with her unmarried brother and sister in that house that we're living in now, which was only one story then.

Mother kept looking around for a place to build because she wanted to be where her brother and sister were. Finally they said: "Just put it on top of this one and move in with us." And she did. And neither one of them ever married. Buddy went with one woman nearly 12 years and didn't marry her cause he was helping Mary rear the children.

When we were young, he'd go up town and hear something about a dance that was rough or somebody got drunk or something. He'd come home at lunch and call Epps and myself back and say: "Where were y'all last night?" And if we were out of town or we had dates, he'd say: "And you didn't go to the dance?"

If we hadn't gone to the dance, he'd say, "Well, if ya'll weren't there I guess I'd better go up town and see what people say about it."

You know one time, back when we were in high school, we were going to Ripley to a ball game and somebody in the car—I don't know who it was—wanted to smoke. So we stopped at Nutbush and they bought some cigarettes. When we got home, Buddy called me in the back room and said: "I hear you stopped at Nutbush and bought some cigarrettes. Are you smoking?"

"Not I," I said.

They looked after us and they kept us straight.

A Camp Meeting Memoir

Mary Ann Williams

Alice passed through the looking glass. The children in The Lion, the Witch and The Wardrobe stepped through a wardrobe into the land of Narnia. I cross a bridge two planks wide that covers a ditch, and somehow the rest of my life melts away. I'm Tom Currie's granddaughter, Emily Huie's daughter, one of the Williamses from Atlanta. The one who got married and moved to Ireland.

When people ask me what Camp Meeting is like, I tell them, it's like a cross between Brigadoon and Faulkner. It's a village of relatives that comes to life once a year.

It embodies the best of Southern culture: good food, singing, spiritual contemplation, ancestor worship, and most of all, conversation. When you step onto the Campground you will be hugged by people who have loved you all your life, even though they mainly see you one week at a time, year by year. "Hey," they'll say, giving you a huge hug. "How was your year?"

If you're a spouse that has married into the family, the welcome can reach epic proportions. The first year my husband Michael Ryan came to Camp Meeting, he had never been so hugged and kissed and fussed over. He couldn't walk to the bathhouse without someone stepping out from behind a tree to grab him and shake his hand and say: "Hello Michael. I'm just so glad you're here."

So far I've only missed one Camp Meeting, which was in 1960. I was a month old and at that time you didn't take your tender new little baby out to the heat and the sawdust, especially not if you had to make what was then a nine hour drive from Atlanta to get there. By the time my brothers were born in 1962 and 1971, that rule no longer applied. They were plunged as infants straight onto the Campground and let sizzle.

One reason we couldn't imagine missing the Meeting is the influence of my grandfather, Tom Currie. For Pop, Camp Meeting was the pinnacle of the year, something better than Christmas, Thanksgiving and the Field Trials all rolled into one. He was born on May 15, 1904, in the Currie house that was on the road that led from Brownsville to Tabernacle. His mother, Nora Mann Currie, was the connection to the Taylors.

For years he would sit and whittle outside our camp, shaping pieces of cedar into swords or guns, for all the little boys, and most of the little girls on the Campground. The whole time he would keep an eye on the people passing by, making note of who'd gotten married, who had a new baby, who was at the Meeting and who wasn't there.

I loved to sit next to him in church because he sang as if his life depended on it. After I was grown, I used to call him on the phone sometimes and he'd always say: "Well, we're going to have a Meeting here. I don't suppose you're going to come."

"I'm coming, Pop. I wouldn't miss it," I'd reply.

"Well, then I'll guess we'll raise our Ebenezer," he'd respond.

My first memory of Camp Meeting is of playing in the sawdust. There was a Coca Cola machine that produced ice cold drinks, in bottles, up by the telephone. Tiny children in the early 60s had three main occupations. First was pouring sawdust in and out of coke bottles. The second was being pulled around the Campground in red Radio Flyer wagons. Finally, at night we shined our flashlights everywhere we could, and inevitably shone them into the grownups' eyes.

For little girls in the early 1960s, Camp Meeting was a chance to adore glamourous older girls. And one of the first Camp Meeting cousins that Dorothy Lane (McClure) we both adored was Lynn Thornton. She had long smooth hair and big brown eyes and she looked like one of the girls in the Sandpipers, who wore pastel A-line dresses and had butterfly eye makeup. To a stocky five-year-old like me, Lynn was a goddess. Her mother, Cousin Lorraine, was also one of my favorite ladies. She was — and still is— the epitome of an elegant Southern lady, who glided around the Campground, exquisitely dressed, whatever the weather, and who sometimes wore a very interesting ring set with a huge square smoky topaz.

One time Cousin Lorraine told me that Lynn had had her wisdom teeth out and wasn't feeling very well, so she was resting rather than coming out to the Campground where I could adore her. To make Lynn feel better, Dorothy and I rounded up all the used little pressed white paper cups from Cousin Ben Sharpe's Camp and cut frills around the edges. I'm not sure why the gift of cut up paper cups was supposed to help Lynn, but, when she saw them, Cousin Lorraine convinced us that they were the very thing.

About the same time, I remember being in our camp house, which no longer exists. It was back near the road and divided into two rooms. Aunt Corrine Currie Lane had one side of the cabin, which she shared with her children Dorothy and Jim and baby Martin. Ralph and my mother and I shared the other side.

At night my mother would put us to bed, and then she and Aunt Corrine would drink coffee and talk. Ralph and I would lie in our beds. One night my mother had put Ralph and me to bed and had gone off to drink coffee and talk to Aunt Corrine. We kept hearing scary noises. Moths flitted in under the roof into our camp house and battered themselves against the bare yellow light bulb. Then, the biggest bug we had ever seen entered one corner of our cabin and began to zoom like a spitfire plane right toward our beds.

I was five, Ralph was about three and to us this walnut-sized beetle was like a buzzing cannonball headed to scratch us with its creepy itchy legs and bite us with its pincers. We stood up in our beds and screamed so loud that the light bulb began to swing back and forth, and send scary shadows all around our cabin. I'm sure our mother thought we were being murdered.

When I was little, my grandmother, Grandmary (Mary Neil Currie), and her sister-in-law, my Aunt Dorothy (Dorothy Campbell Currie) ran the kitchen at our camp. They supervised our three cooks, Josie, Annie and Louise, with the fierce economy of ladies who had begun housekeeping during in the Depression. For example, one year we had a meat for dinner that looked like pot roast. It had a beautiful brown gravy. But it had absolutely no taste at all.

We were talking about this as we sat under the awning after dinner, when Aunt Dorothy said: "Oh. Well maybe that was that pot roast from last year. When we didn't eat it, I just took it home and put it in the deep freeze, so I could bring it back this year...."

My mother and Aunt Corrinne used to bring what seemed like hundreds of cakes during those years. They'd bake in the summer and freeze the cakes, then bring them to thaw out at Camp Meeting for our dessert platter. I always thought the cakes were fine, but my brother Ralph and I would watch Uncle Dick (Dick Currie) whenever we had dessert, because whenever he had a slice of cake he considered too dry, he'd mutter: "Oh. THAT's a chok-ah!" (choker).

Despite an occasional chok-ah, I always felt that something wonderful happened during the week when the world was reduced to the seven days of Camp Meeting. Twice a day we went to church, and in front of the altar stood Wilson Mount, who led the singing. Three times a day, we sat down to eat and at the head of that table sat Pop. In church, the collection plate passed from hand to hand and people dropped in coins. At our camp, a napkin-covered basket passed from hand to hand and people took out biscuits. The world was in perfect balance and at peace.

Our camp has always had certain annual events. When Cousin Alsey Mann Johnson, was alive, each Camp Meeting had an evening during which he would imitate one of his former students reciting the poem Evangeline. The student had had a speech impediment, the poem is just a little overblown, and Cousin Alsey was probably the funniest man alive. During his performances, my mother and Aunt Corrine would almost roll around in the sawdust in hysterics.

Then there is the Blood Pressure Party, which is conducted by Dr. Sue Johnson. For as long as I can remember, there has been a slow afternoon—usually Tuesday or Wednesday, when Cousin Sue will get out her blood pressure cuff and take everyone's blood pressure and give an opinion on just how well they're doing, blood-pressure wise. At one of these parties, Skip Cavena took a wonderful picture of my extremely beautiful grandmother, Mary Neil Currie, with her head thrown back and one arm imprisoned in a blood pressure cuff.

Also, about once a year Richard Carlton puts on the bell bottoms that his mother sewed for him sometime in the late 60s out of stretchy fabric emblazoned with the Coca-Cola logo. Even Elvis arriving in Las Vegas never caused the demented glee that Richard does when he arrives at our Camp wearing these pants. They are a sensation.

When we were young, we played with coke bottles in the sawdust and learned to whittle. Around 12 or 13, Camp Meeting meant hot, slow, lazy afternoons. I'd take whatever book I was reading and walk up to the cemetery, where I would lie down on my favorite tombstone—Johnson. I'd lie there under the maple leaves and read, enjoying the cool of the granite along my back.

When we were teenagers, our thoughts turned to romance. Jane and Julie Johnson and I spent hours and hours discussing boys. At night, Julie and I walked the great circle around the Camp Ground, talking, talking, talking.

In those years, it was as if both our Camps were infected by the virus of romance. On the first night of the meeting, as I stumbled toward my room with an armful of clothes, I'd run into Cousin Alsey, who would say, calmly, "How are you, darling. Are you in love?"

What could you say but: "Just let me put down this stuff, Cousin Alsey, and I'll tell you all about it."

Even the most innocuous comment would veer wildly toward romance. "Is that lamb?" my mother asked Aunt Dorothy during one of our Sunday dinners, as plates of meat were being passed around the table.

"No," Aunt Dorothy replied firmly. "That's Bland Cannon's son." (The young man in question just happened to be walking by our camp.)

Another time Dorothy Lane (McClure) brought her then-beau, James, for dinner at our camp. This was during the shaggy 70s, when no one's haircut met the satisfaction of their parents or grandparents (even now, John McClure has started a rumor that his mother-in-law, Aunt Corrine, wants her tombstone to read: "Fix your hair.")

Anyway James was seated next to Dorothy's grandfather, Dick Currie, at the dinner table. Finally, Uncle Dick turned to him and, staring at his hair, said: "Son, do you have a comb?"

"No sir, I don't," replied James, very politely.

"Well, I guess it wouldn't make any difference anyway," murmured Uncle Dick, returning to his dinner.

Time rolls on. We've gotten older and now our children are the ones shining flashlights into people's eyes, while we're trying to make sure that the cooks have everything they need to get dinner to the table on time.

The first of our elders to die was Uncle Dick. He died in the fall, when the fields were edged with goldenrod and asters. A state trooper stood at every crossroads between the funeral home and the cemetery, with his hat over his heart, and stopped traffic so that the funeral procession could pass. In the cemetery, the maple leaves had just begun to blaze.

"I don't want to die yet," said Aunt Corrine when I asked her about the funeral. "But I am just so excited about being buried at Camp Meeting."

And what could be nicer than to be buried where children will chase each other around your tombstone once a year. Where budding family historians will squint at your birth and death dates and try to figure out your piece in our ever-expanding puzzle. It's a privilege to be buried where people will tell stories about you "til we meet at Jesus's feet."

In 1999, I had the privilege of bringing a new baby, Emily Ryan, to be baptized at Camp Meeting, and just two years ago, I got to bring her brother, Patrick Ryan, too. Thanks to early exposure at Camp Meeting, my children eat more fried chicken than any other children in Ireland. In a land of potatoes and cabbage, Emily asks for popsicles and watermelon.

When Emily was 18 months old, we took her to church for the first service of the meeting. She stood in the pew gazing at the other cute babies until the music started up, and her eyes went wide. Before we knew what had happened, she was running up and down the aisles and waving her arms with absolute happiness.

A few months later I was driving through Dublin with Emily in her car seat. And suddenly, I heard a little voice begin to sing: "Alle-lu Alle-lu Alle-lu Alle-lu Ya. Craze Ye Galore!"

Craze ye galore, indeed.

Recollections Of Kinfolks Meeting

Zaidee Taylor Blackwell (11/27/1878–12/01/62)
Daughter of Will A. and Hattie Taylor
Written in 1957

My memory goes back to the building of our first cabin in 1892. There were twelve or thirteen camps already on the ground, and we, members of the younger generation, thought we were missing everything by not camping like many others. Mother too, missed the fellowship with friends and relatives, and found it very difficult to entertain guests at home, attend five church services a day and to serve basket dinner at the church, although living in walking distance. Hence the need for a camp house grew out of the above situation.

As we think further of the happenings of this year, we recall an amusing incident which occurred. One morning just before the preaching hour, Cousin "Tissie" Taylor rushed into camp where half a dozen of us were primping before one small mirror, and said "Girls, see what is the matter with my bustle, it doesn't seem just right". My sister Annie offered to help her, and discovered her paper bustle was on top of her petticoat under a very thin voile dress, and one could read the newsprint. With the necessary adjustment Cousin "Tissie" went on her way rejoicing.

In about five years we had outgrown our first cabin and my father began to make plans for a new house farther up the hill to the east. When this house was finished it consisted of two rooms, a front shed, dining room and kitchen. Cousin Maude Williams began camping with us this year, and did so as long as she was physically able to come. She was an interesting personality and her quaintness was sometimes amusing. One saying of hers was that she "wanted to perpetuate the Peete particularity." With her ideas, it was sometimes hard for her to adjust herself to the crudeness of camp life, the antics of the children and the late hours of our young people.

No camp was complete without a good cook, and our faithful Nora Taylor filled this place until her death. Of this my father writes in his diary of October 6th, l897, "Hattie, the children and I went over to the burial of Nora. I feel we have lost a friend and I believe she was a sincere Christian". The next year her sister Tamar took up where she left off and cooked for us at the camp for thirty-five years. Mother always said she could not camp without Tamar, and in the dispensation of providence they both passed away the same year.

As we count the years, we have been camping sixty-three years with only one exception, and that was the year we had two births in the family. Edmond Taylor in July, and Ellen Blackwell in August. Franc and I were living at Aunt Harriett Taylor's at the time, and when the other members of the family moved to Camp Meeting I was left behind with a three-day-old baby in the care of Old Aunt Kitty. Edmond was a few weeks old and mother could not camp.

The time came when this house was not sufficient because of age and our need for more room, and in the year 1952 we erected the present commodious building. This house was dedicated August 18, 1952. The service of dedication was conducted by Rev. Roy D. Williams, the guest preacher for the meeting.

Recollections Of Kinfolks Meeting

Nora Mann Currie (8/13/1875–8/23/1960)
Transcribed from a tape recorded in 1957

I was very small when I first remember, but it wasn't called Camp Meeting it was Kinfolks Meeting and we went for two days, Saturday and Sunday. The ones who lived far would come and stay with family who lived near and we called it The Kinfolks Meeting. We took dinner to the church both days and later the camping started…Let's see, it was in the year 1890…for I was fifteen years old. Then…..it was the year that Dick was born that we had the first camp on the grounds. The family first started camping with cloth tents. They got tired of going and coming so they stayed the two nights there, no three nights, Friday night, Saturday night and Sunday night. After that they decided to build little shacks. My father built the first one. He said to my mother, my mother was Harriett Taylor Mann, "I'm not going to fool with the old cloth tent any more. I will get some logs sawed and build a shack."

We lived down at Rudolph and that was about five miles, quite a distance then but just a step now. But we camped and that is the first memory I have of it. After that we camped every year and the camps grew. Someone built a camp every year and it got to be called Camp Meeting, but it shouldn't be. It ought to still be called Kinfolks Meeting…..they ought to hold on to that KINFOLKS. They "sorta" tried to push that back so other folks could come but that isn't going to keep it from being Kinfolks and Kinfolks used to come from all other places; Ripley, Taylor's Chapel, and from many other places they'd come.

Sure, I remember the Love Feast, back in the days when they would lock the doors because they didn't want the speakers to be disturbed. One Love Feast Cousin Nan Taylor got there late and when she couldn't get in the church, she went to a camp and got a chair and stuck her head in the window saying, "You can lock me out of the church but you can't lock me out of Heaven," and gave her experience through the window. Nan never married. She was the most buoyantly happy person and did most good that was ever done for charity. She was Nancy Alexander Taylor, the daughter of Harriett (We called her Aunt Dump) and Robert Howell Taylor, and she never married. She had a horse and a buggy, and she went around seeing about her poor folks. She was a rich woman with that horse and buggy! Her father sent her to a Catholic School in…..Bardstown, Ky. And that's where she got all this prayer and devotion from. She came back from school confirmed and wanted to be a nun but of course, they didn't let her be. Laymen used to hold Love Feast, just as they do now. I remember so many Love Feasts….There was one member of the family named Wright….can't think of his other name….and he was a good hand at it. Yes, he married Venie and they had two children and they both died.

Uncle John Y. had two children, both girls, one was named Elizabeth and one was named Susan Young. Susan married Dr. Barbee and Elizabeth married Alex Claiborne…He had a son named John. That is all on the tree. Oh, yes, and Roena married Alexander. They said that when they were getting up the money to build the new church, Uncle John said, "If you'll come on and let's eat dinner, I'll pay the rest."

My grandfather Richard had three wives. He had five sons so he couldn't get along without a wife, so he married Mrs. Longley, and she had quite a number of children of her own; I remember them well. And they had a daughter…the only daughter Grandpa had. The daughter Ann Eliza married a…..Green, Joe Green. And when this wife died, Grandpa married Mrs. Harvey and she had one son of her own…a Harvey child. They lived in that very house where Edmond lives now.

Soon after Grandpa Dick and Grandma married, three of the boys had grown up and two of them married and brought their wives there. All of the boys, their brides, and the little children….and my grandmother was one of the brides, and she was Joseph Richard's wife….her name was Mary Claiborne, an excellent woman….I knew her well. She loved to live there. She said when she got there she thought Annie (that was the baby) was the worst spoiled child she had ever seen and Ed was the friskiest thing dancing around with a pocket full of marbles. Well, they all lived there somehow and Grandma must have been the most remarkable woman that ever lived…Her name was Nancy Jett…She was a Mrs. Harvey, but she was a Miss Jett. And she did everything just right. She had flowers in the house in the winter time, and she set the most beautiful table, looked after all the hundred negroes, and all that multitude of children, and brides…mind you, two brides! Grandpa Dick told the brides he was going to make them a bed each "Come down and select your posts." They went down and my grandmother took round posts and Nan (Ann) took pointed posts, and they put the coils in…and they had to get up the feather beds and the quilts and everything themselves. Grandmother was mighty smart so she put ruffles on her pillow cases and got them all done up and her bed was the prettiest thing you ever saw. In the morning, long before day, the horn would blow…toot…toot…toot…for prayers, and they would have to run down. Grandma said she was crying because she couldn't get her head as slick as a ribbon, but Nan would just brush her hair over and go flying on down. But after a year or more they had to go off to housekeeping.

My grandfather was Joseph Richard Taylor and Mary Claiborne was his wife and she had a great deal of energy and when she got to her cabin, it was just a log cabin as they all had in those days, but she didn't want hers not to be pretty…They had punch-in floors but she made the negroes split them (they were made of quarter sawed oak) so she had her floors slick as a ribbon, waxed with bee's wax, and then she wanted a rug so she got on the loom and made one out of wool off the sheep…She wove it herself.

I'm telling about the baby now; the first baby was Georgeanna, named after her mother and father. Her mother was named Anna and her father was named George. And she was the prettiest white baby and she laid on the floor and caught the ruffles and Grandfather would come in and say, "Mary, this is Paradise."

And then after years, after their fourth child, they built another fine house, up a little further on the hill. It's right off of Rudolph and Nick Thornton owns it now. But they all grew up there….all my grandmother's daughters, and they were mighty smart. Yes, all the furniture was made, but she wanted a real piece of furniture…So she worked and sold her butter, and eggs, chickens, and turkeys; and she saved up a sum of money. And when her brother-in-law Yate Longley, went to New Orleans to buy goods, she gave him this money and told him she wanted a piece of furniture, and it had to be a piece that would serve a variety of purposes…It had to have drawers to put the children's clothes in, it had to have small drawers to put the papers in, and it had to have shelves above with glass doors to put the dishes in. So when he came back he brought this piece of furniture which is not in existence in Bill Thornton's house. Grandma said Richard was the child that was named for Grandpa and he ought to have something so she gave him that…She didn't have any right to give it to him, but she did. And now Bill fell heir to it somehow…to me Joe's the one who ought to have it, because he's got the name…it looks like.

I was ten years old when Grandpa died and I remember him clearly. Of course, I don't know his characteristics very much. Well, Joseph Richard was like many of the Taylors, a merry and very sweet tempered person, and he had a great deal of energy and a great many children. No man has ever been so much loved as he was by all those thirteen children….Some of them died but all of them loved him before they died! Well, they just loved Pa, and I never did like it much because they loved Pa better than they did Ma. I was crazy about Ma. He died long before she did. She lived with the younger son, John Edward, then came over and lived with us, my mother, Harriett and Richard Mann. And she was a wonderful person, she wanted everything done up brown…but I'm on the Claibornes now instead of the Taylors. Well, my Grandfather was taken sick with pneumonia. There was a doctor in the neighborhood but he said, "Naw, send for Dr. Bob Green (he was his first cousin), because he owed me some money and if you send for him he can pay his debt that way." And he had pneumonia and he immediately died. My father, Dick Mann and Clarence Shaw, his sons-in-law were sitting up with him and they gave him a stick of candy (I don't know why but they did) and then they took him up and set him in a chair when he was very sick with pneumonia…and when they put him back in the bed he was dead. So that was the end of Grandpa Joe. It was Christmas night and I don't remember the year….but it's on the tombstone. And ghastly was the wail.

In the Reverend Howell's old age he wanted a wife and there was an old lady over in Virginia named Becky. I don't know what her other name was…what was her name, Rebecca…..Rebecca, and they got there after much toiling along on a horse and immediately were married. And they sat around for a while (it was night by that time), and he said, "Well, Becky, let's go to bed." The old man was worn out with waiting…I reckon he had been looking, I reckon he had been looking out the window all day.

We have had lots of big meetings, but we had A REALLY OUTSTANDING MEETING. There was a Circuit preacher named Terry….Howsen B. Terry….and he had a man named Warren to help him; and there never was such a meeting in the world. It started at Zion and just went all around and EVERYBODY was converted, and it was the biggest thing! Ben Currie was converted and he became a minister. He's one of the few we have sent out. He's my husband's brother....Ben Currie. After he was converted (he was a boy) and went to school and became a minister but he joined the Kentucky Conference. He's dead now. And it was the biggest meeting. Everybody was just talking and it was a remarkable outpouring of the Spirit, but I don't remember the year. I made them have Ben, we called him Bud, and another time I made them have Fred Hamner. I said, "They went out from here and we gotta have them". I'm in favor of Robert Hamner doing it next year, I don't care if he is a Baptist. He certainly is nice.

What It Means To The Kinfolks To Come Back To Tabernacle Meeting

Rev. Robert M. Hamner (7/25/1927–_____), written in 1957

My first visit to the Tabernacle grounds was in the spring of 1950. The grounds were deserted, and I noticed that a wagon was stored under the shelter provided by one of the cabins. I had intended to stop for only a moment, and that more out of respect for my father's wishes than my own desire. Dad (John Taylor Hamner) had told me of Tabernacle and what Camp Meeting had meant to the family over the years. I had heard him speak of "cousin So and So", but I would not have known any of them if I had met them that day. As a boy out in Texas, I did not see too much importance in knowing my father's Tennessee kinfolks. That first visit to Tabernacle changed my mind.

I had completed my second year in the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Kentucky and was on my way home to San Antonio, Texas. But I asked the way to the campground. I have never been impressed by a place so strongly as Tabernacle impressed me. The simple and deep Christian faith revealed on the markers in the cemetery, and the atmosphere in the church hallowed by the spiritual experiences of generations of my forefathers was a blessing to me. For the first time, I really grasped the meaning of the words in Isaiah 51:1-3.

That afternoon in May 1950, as the sunset colored the western sky, I knelt in the church at Tabernacle and thanked God for my heritage.

It was a year later that I attended my first Camp Meeting. I started meeting kinfolks, dozens of them. After five years, there are still branches on the family tree that I am hazy about. But I have gotten to know the wonderful people who had been just names before. We have talked, and eaten, and worshipped, and prayed together. In the few years that I have been coming to Tabernacle, there have been those of our number who have entered into the rest that remaineth to the people of God. I have seen the children brought to the house of God where their fathers and their grandfathers before them have worshipped. The sight of the choir full of vivacious young people has always thrilled me. Greeting the new day in the early morning at prayer service, sharing our Christian experiences with others in the Love Feast, worshipping each morning and evening, singing as only at Tabernacle—all of these things have nourished my soul. Breaking bread with difference people, enjoying every moment of Christian fellowship with the kinfolks and their friends—these things have been the source of abiding joy.

May we who come back to Tabernacle join hands with those who remain at Tabernacle, and together, with gratitude and steadfastness, glorify our God who has given it to us, "THE LORD WATCH BETWEEN ME AND THEE WHEN WE ARE ABSENT ONE FROM ANOTHER.'

Tabernacle Is Different

This article was written in 1957 by Fred Hamner, a Methodist Minister of the Texas Conference and son of a Methodist Minister, Dr. W. F. Hamner, who married Emma Lee Taylor, of Tabernacle.

Back across the centuries nearly two thousand years ago, Jesus Christ commanded His followers to go into all the world, teaching, preaching, healing, baptizing in His name, telling the good story (the Gospel) to all man-kind.

Tabernacle Church situated amidst a beautiful grove of stately trees covering an area of about fifteen acres, six miles north of Brownsville, Tennessee, rejoices that it shares in common with all others the glorious heritage of the Christian tradition mentioned above. Its claim for being different is unique. It makes no claim of Christian virtues above others. It claims no uncommon Christian experiences. While rejoicing in the heritage of saintly souls who have worshipped here, it makes no claim to sainthood different from any others. It has been and continues to be satisfied with its role as one of four churches on the Brownsville Circuit, of the Memphis Conference, of the Methodist church. Each phase that makes it different may be found in many other churches, but seldom can a church be found today that combines in itself so many of these differences. Let us list a number of them.

FIRST, because it maintains an annual Camp-Meeting. Tabernacle Camp Meeting today is the result of a family reunion of pious people reaching back more than a century. An annual reunion of the Rev. Howell Taylor family changed its meeting time to the same as the "summer revival", and almost immediately the gathering became known as "Kinfolks Meeting". The same name still clings, although gradually giving way to the name of "Tabernacle Camp Meeting". It is held each year the latter part of August.

Each family camping carries on as their ancestors did before them, living for the most part through the week in rough, unpainted cabins. Formerly many ate at long tables out of doors, but now all are under cover. Meals are prepared and served by colored help as of old, except there is missing today much of the devotion felt in other days for such personalities as "Aunt" Tamar and "Uncle" Tom. Precious souls were these, dear to the hearts of their 'White Folks".

The Taylor family has had the reputation for a long, long time of being noted for "peas, prayers and potatoes," a wholesome mixture of genuine piety and Christian fellowship.

The SECOND reason for being different is that Tabernacle still exerts a "drawing influence" on many people who have moved away. Although scattered far and wide through many states, every year usually finds many coming back to the Camp Meeting. As one of the older generations described it, "it is like a salt lick to which animals return for that which is so essential for life". To this statement one who has remained there all his life replied, "then it is up to us who live here to see that the spiritual salt is always provided to keep those who are away eager to return." Thus it is done.

THIRD: At Tabernacle Camp Meeting is found the continuation of the old fashioned Love Feast. Outside of here the writer has no knowledge of any church that conducts such a service today. The passing of bread and water had been discontinued, but the testimonies are given as of old. These testimonies usually deal with one's personal experiences, his needs, his sorrows, joys, thankfulness, etc.

Then FOURTH, an annual Memorial Service is held on Sunday afternoon of the Camp Meeting. The names of all in any way connected with Tabernacle who have died during the year are called, whether the bodies were buried in the Tabernacle Cemetery or elsewhere. An appropriate sermon is delivered at this service. (Funds are voluntarily contributed for the upkeep of the cemetery.)

FIFTH: Tabernacle has an organization known as the Kinfolks Association. The president is the oldest preacher in the family. The association meets annually during the Camp Meeting and transacts such business as is necessary, looking after the family cemetery, ground care, water and lights, sanitation and all such matters. The preacher for the next Camp Meeting is selected or referred to the Executive Committee, subject to the approval of the pastor.

SIXTH: One cannot write about the differences of Tabernacle without reference to a custom rooting back into days of old, in that the sacred spot known as the cemetery is also referred to as the "courtin' ground". Young people in the joy and freshness of youth are to be found there walking in the cool shade of the many beautiful trees that line the driveways or sitting on some of the stones marking the resting places of those "gone before", who themselves were familiar with the custom when they were young.

Along with other churches of today, Tabernacle is progressive. Its greatest virtues are not in the past or under ground. Tabernacle in spirit is young, "and her greatest songs are still unsung". The present congregation is composed of stalwart citizens who are occupying places of high responsibility and honor in various professions and lines of business.

The gay laughter and prattle of the children about the grounds give evidence of the continuation of the Tabernacle spirit through the future. Those carrying responsibility now remember when they, too, were young and are determined that the present "small fry" shall be endued as they were themselves with the Christian life and love for the old Camp Meeting place, the ANNUAL KINFOLKS CAMP MEETING AT TABERNACLE CHURCH.

When The Camping Started

As Remembered By Bessie Bradford Sorrelle (3/21/1882–5/23/1960)
Quoted from a tape recording made in 1957

Mr. Henrie Bradford had the first camp that was ever out there. She was sick and not able to attend services so she took a cloth tent and an old negro cook, Torie Taylor and lived with us all these years, and she'd smother chickens, and they'd have fried chicken and other things we have now at Camp Meeting, and they'd cook them on the open fire place. Did you ever hear of cooking on the open fire in the hot summer? Well, we had tents and they stayed in the tents and just ate outdoors.

EVERYBODY CAME AND YOU NEVER SAW SUCH FOOD. I remember as a child, there never were as many chicken pies and corn puddings, they'd bring three or four of each, they'd bring wagons of food…cakes and hams and lamb! It used to be that people took their dinner on Sunday. The family would all come, they'd come from "over the river" and they'd stay down our house and we'd have the biggest dinners in all the world. I remember one of the women had a hat, a leghorn hat, I'll never forget it with poppy leaves on it and while they were eating dinner I tried it on!

All the Kinfolks would come and they'd have Love Feasts, they have Love Feast now; and Aunt Nan stuck her head in the church window, they had closed the doors, and she said, "You can shut me out of here but you can't shut me out of heaven." Aunt Nan had been to a Catholic school and she wanted to be a nun but Grandpa wouldn't let her. She used to make me dolls and dress them like nuns. They were very religious people, almost to the point of fanaticism, I think. Mama wasn't too active, she had religion but she didn't shout and pray in public. Berta prayed out and testified. Berta was secretary of the conference…the whole conference or the Memphis conference…I don't know which. I went with her to conference and heard her make a speech.

The church was always so full they couldn't get standing room. There wasn't room in the church those days so they'd have an extra service out doors or under a bush arbor. Cousin Soule Taylor preached down in the woods. One time he preached on Daniel in the Lion's Den and laid right down in the pulpit acting like him, it's the truth. Cousin Soule was a sweet spirited person and Cousin Fannie was just as good as she could be.

They used to have big preachers out there. Bishop Galloway came one year, they used to have big preachers like Dr. Hamner. Dr. Hamner held Camp Meeting, he was a very fluent and very fine preacher, one of the best they have ever had out there. I think he was the best. Some of his children come now and his grandson is a Baptist preacher. I think it looks funny for him to be a Baptist. Dr. Hamner married cousin Emma Lee Taylor, Uncle Jack's daughter. All that family was lovely, they were the sweetest, the best, the most unusual family. Uncle Jack's family were very saintly, very highly religious people, and they were highly educated, there was cousin Bobby Taylor, cousin Willie Taylor, and cousin Soule Taylor, and Cousin Adelaide, Cousin Octavia, and Cousin Emma Lee.

They sang those old fashioned good songs. They sang "On Jordan's Stormy Bank I Stand", "Amazing Grace", and "Jesus Lover of My Soul", they sang all those old songs; they didn't have all that mess they have now but I guess I oughtn't to put that in ….huh….Mama, Mrs. Henrie Bradford played the organ and Cousin Hattie Taylor led the choir and Cousin Hattie had a voice that bellowed like a ……huh?

My folks shouted. I'll tell you who shouted was cousin Adelaide

Claiborne, I remember just as well. The windows were broad so they could push them in when they were sick, now that's the truth. Cousin Adelaide Claiborne came every year and one year she was sick and they brought her on a cot, and brought her in the church and lay her before the pulpit and she shouted and clapped her hands and praised the Lord. That's what they told me in Virginia is the reason they put wide windows in the church there. They say out there at Tabernacle….that's the cutest place, I went to the church near Boydton , Va. that this church is named for. It's a pretty white church, just a plain little clapboard church, I don't think it has a steeple on it, but it's very neat and kept up mighty well. The Taylors are buried in the cemetery right there at the church ,the cemetery is back of the church. It's where the family used to live but there are not many of them there now. I never did get around to all the places I wanted to go up there.

My grandfather Howell Taylor, was born up there and died up there and they may have had a funeral for him in the Virginia Tabernacle church for they buried him so many times. After Howell Taylor's wife (Mary Venable) died he went back to Virginia on a visit and died there and they were so anxious to bring him back here that they buried him three or four times on the way. They couldn't embalm him, they had no embalming, so they'd stop and bury him and let him stay awhile and then go back and get him. They buried him in Chattanooga one time. They did that four times and they finally buried him here. That's just how much sentiment they had about this place. They wanted all the family to be buried here but Susannah Young is not. I met a Mr. Young in the Virginia Courthouse. Captain Howell Taylor was the father of my grandma Harriett Taylor, Henry Taylor and Dr. Edmund Taylor. Henry Taylor is Judge Billy Bond's grandfather; and Dr. Edmund Taylor was the father of Cousin Sarah Johnson, Cousin Emma Wilder and Cousin Hattie Taylor, all that big family; (we called him "Uncle Ed", and he was a fine doctor). The daughter of Howell was Harriett and she married Robert Taylor the son of Richard Taylor. My grandpa Robert H. Taylor got up the family tree and paid a woman in Memphis a hundred dollars to make it for him, which was a sum of money for that day but he was a wealthy man and had the finest horses he could buy and a deer park on his own place.

I can remember Kinfolk Meeting all my life. I can remember when all the kinfolks came; when they had big dinners; and they'd have those big preachers and big meetings; they'd have big Class Meetings and a regular revival. I MEAN SURE ENOUGH RELIGION, like they don't have much this day.

What It Means To Tabernacle For The Kin To Return For The Meeting

By Nicholas Perkins Thornton II (4/29/1896–12/25/1964)
Supt Tabernacle Sunday School
Written in 1957

The kinfolks who remain in the community of Tabernacle Church all look forward with much anticipation to the kin from afar returning for this annual occasion.

On the third day, which is Sunday, the kin gather into the church to celebrate the feast of love—love for God and love for one another. This service has done more to perpetuate the fellowship and friendship than any other thing.

It is simply wonderful to see all the people from so many different states and countries, regardless of religious affiliation, meet for prayers, songs, and religious experiences. This service is attended by different age groups.

To hear those who have many years ago professed faith in God, some have gone a long way, return giving such glowing praise to the meeting and the church, causes those who have remained to take great pride in carrying forward so great an inheritance, the value of which cannot be expressed in words.

We might compare this Kinfolks Meeting to the olden days when there was free range as free pasture for the livestock, and each one who had livestock provided a salt log as "a lick log" where his stock would return for the food, which is necessary for their growth. To those who remain here their greatest and most important task is seeing that the salt is kept on this log, and when these kin return they find the same loving Christian fellowship abiding in the hearts and lives as in the past.

And when these who have for so long enjoyed their Christian living bring to us the proof of the joy in Christ, it is an inspiration for us to maintain this church and cemetery and to grow in the grace and knowledge of our Lord and to love each other.

For the Lord is good and his love endures forever; His faithfulness continues through all generations.

Personalities

"She warmed my heart with the radiance of her presence and my character with the example of hers."

I Remember Dickie

Amy Weddington Harris

I don't remember these first things, I just know them and think they are important enough to relate to you. On Jan. 1, 1890 a baby girl was born to Harriett and Richard (Dick) Mann, the last of six children. Welcomed into the world by her older sisters Capp and Nora and brother Buddy, she was named for both her father and her mother. "Harriett Dick Mann" was called Dick by most who knew her. One of her schoolmasters could not bear the injustice of the masculine name for such a feminine little girl, and he insisted upon calling her "Richardia." Because she was so much younger than her three older siblings who lived past infancy, she was rather spoiled. In fact, there was an occasion upon which she did not get her way and was heard to say, "Well, I'll just walk a little farther and cry a little louder." I never heard whether or not it helped. There was an eccentric cousin, Rob Macon, who had nicknames for everyone in the family. Hers was "Forrd (forward) and Sassy." She lived in northern Haywood County Tennessee with her family in the rural community known as Brooklyn. It no longer exists but was big enough then to have a Post Office. The house in which she was born still stands on Rudolph Road and is now occupied by a great, great-niece, Phoebe Parker, granddaughter of Austin Mann, son of Buddy. It is still standing because it is made entirely of brick that was made there on the home place. During the terror and confusion of the burning of one of the two previous Mann houses, Dick's mother Harriett placed all the sterling silver on a table cloth and told a servant to throw it out the window. The servant dutifully dumped the silver on the floor and threw the table cloth out the window. The silver was replaced and is now owned by a great-nephew, John O. Johnson, grandson of Capp Irene Mann Johnson. After this incident, Dick's father declared that he would build a house that would not burn, and that he did.

When Dick was but a year old, her Father decided he had had enough of the tent camping at the annual Taylor's of Tabernacle Camp Meeting. Not wanting to give up Camp Meeting, he completely broke with tradition and built a crude, two story house because he had plenty of wood from his saw mill. This open air house was the first one to be built on Tabernacle Camp Ground. It was torn down in 1954, and the wood from it was used to build a small camp for Dick and her son Emory's family. In 1987, this structure was dismantled, and the same wood from Dick Mann's saw mill was used to build an eight-bedroom house for Dick's grandchildren and great-grandchildren. The old wood is distinguished by the unusually wide planks and the rough, and curved marks of the saw. As Dick grew up, she was schooled in town and then went to Centenary Female College in Cleveland, TN. While there, she received such dubious honors as Most Mischievous and Wittiest. She was president of her class in 1906 and '07, President of the Tennessee Club, President of the Johnstonian Literary Society in 1909, Secretary (for the first quarter) and Treasurer (for the second quarter) of the Literary Society. She was a member of the Kappa chapter of Phi Mu Gamma sorority and of an informal club called Paradise Alley Ikes, whose motto was: "Dance, for tomorrow you are caught." Next to her picture in her senior yearbook, Puffs and Patches, was written, "Rare compound of oddity, frolic and fun! Who relished a joke and rejoiced in pun." She received a Masters of English Literature degree in 1910.

Two years later, Dick became Mrs. Charles Emory Weddington on July 15,1912. Charles Emory Weddington Jr. was born to them June 6, 1916 in their residence at 811 East College, Brownsville, TN. Because of a difficult labor and delivery, Dick was unable to have more children. Dick was an impeccable housekeeper and an extraordinary artisan in hand work. She tatted so much lace embellishing the infant's clothing that the family began to affectionately call him "Tat." Fortunately the name didn't stick. Living across a side street, Bond Ave., from the Weddingtons was the family of the William Thomas Curries. Mrs. Currie was Dick's sister, Nora. Nora had three children, Tom, Elizabeth, and Dick, who grew up as surrogate brothers and sister of Emory Jr. So close were they that Emory called Nora "Mama" and his own mother "Dickie" just like his cousins.

In March of 1948, Emory married Inez Lipscomb, and that's where I come into this picture. I, Amy Weddington Harris, was born in May of 1949. Mama and Daddy had three more children, Charlie 1951, Elizabeth 1952, and Will Allen 1956. I became the instant focal point of Dick and her widowed sister, Nora whom I called Granny.

I was the little girl that Dickie never had. We were soul mates from the beginning. I was with her from my earliest memories. She had a small dairy and made milk deliveries every morning. I would stand on the front seat of her car and keep her company as she made her daily rounds. If one of her patrons was having a birthday, she left flowers from her extensive gardens with the milk. I remember the smell of milk as it "turned" and became ready for churning. She would let me plunge the dasher up and down in the churn. Of course I tired before the job was done, but she was ever patient. Then she would skim the butter off the churned milk with what looked like a piece of screen and place it in a bowl. Next, she would work the water out of the butter with a dark wooden butter paddle. I would be allowed to try this, too, but I lacked the diligence to finish this step as well. Once the water was worked out of the creamy yellow butter, it was pressed into a one-pound wooden mold where it received its rectangular shape. This was a treasured commodity by the adults of our epicurean family. We children preferred the milder taste of modern oleo margarine.

Many were the nights I slept in the same bed with my precious grandmother, Dickie. The big walnut bed with the high head board adorned with carved fruit had come by wagon from Virginia for her grandmother, Mary Claiborne Taylor, wife of Joseph Richard Taylor. As a widow, she had lived with Dickie and her family until her death in 1906. I especially remember nights when my feet were cold. Dickie would say, "Put your feet next to my legs, and I will warm them." She warmed more than my feet. She warmed my heart with the radiance of her presence and my character with the example of hers. Each night that I spent with her, the routine was the same. After eating a piece of fruit or some nuts, we would play with ABC blocks, golden books, a little wagon full of different colored and shaped building blocks or dominoes. Then we would go into the bedroom where I would point to a large oval portrait of a "cotton top" lad of three or four years and say, "There's 'Little Daddy'." We would turn off the ceiling light, turn on the bedside lamp and crawl into the bed she had warmed already with an electric blanket, a most marvelous thing. Then she would read to me. Every night she read the Upper Room, the Scripture, a child's Bible story, and one chapter from a Thornton W. Burgess nature lore book. Every night she would patiently let me look at the picture in her Bible of "Baby Moses in the Bulrushes." More often than not, the Bible story she read to me was the oft requested "Joseph and His Coat of Many Colors." She never tired of reading the same stories to me as often as I asked, but never would she read more than one chapter of the Thornton W. Burgess books. This gave me a great love of reading as well as a great love of God's Word. I will be fifty-one years old in a fortnight, and I can no more go to sleep without reading from God's Word than I can voluntarily stop breathing. Dickie set this habit firmly into my being at a very young age by her example.

Dickie also set many other Godly examples. She worshiped in church whenever there was a service unless she was debilitated by one of her not infrequent "spells" with her heart. She had chronic angina after surviving a very serious coronary heart attack in 1948. She was very proud of the fact that she used twenty-one of those large green tanks of oxygen, more than anyone else in the history of Haywood County Hospital at that time. That was, of course, before the days when oxygen was piped directly to one's room. I like to think the Lord knew how much I would need her and love being trained and loved by her. She would take me to whatever service she was attending. I would behave very well through the praise and worship, but I would begin to squirm when the sermon was given. First she let me quietly flip through the pages of a Cokesbury hymnal, my favorite. Then she might give me a Lifesaver. Red was my favorite flavor and color, but I gratefully accepted whatever was proffered. Sometimes she would give me a tiny little pad upon which I might write with a tiny, jeweled pen. My favorite distraction, next to the Lifesavers, was her diamond engagement ring that she said would be mine one day. It looked like a volcano made of platinum with a very small diamond on each of four sides and a large solitaire in the mouth of the volcano. She patiently taught me to love worshiping with other believers in God's house. As a child, I wondered why there were TV programs on Sunday because I knew there couldn't be that many people home sick. On Sunday, we went to church at First Methodist Church in Brownsville and sat on the right end of the second row in the middle. So sat her siblings and nieces and nephews and their children who lived in Brownsville. By the time I came along, the group had declined to the Weddingtons and the Tom Curries. Now there are none of us there. The family members have died, moved away, or are now worshiping with another denomination. We do worship, because we were "trained up in the way we should go," and her actions have spoken so much louder than any words.

Along with intelligence, wit, industry, and organization, Dickie was endowed by her Creator with a great compassion for those who had not the blessings of good health or fortune. She had numerous friends and cousins who were "shut-ins" for various reasons such as stroke, high blood pressure, arthritis, illness, or a body ravaged by the disease of time. Each person had a particular day and a particular time on that day when they might expect her to visit them. I was very often with her on these visits and frankly preferred the company of Dickie and these older saints to that of my younger peers. Mama's answer to that was kindergarten so I could be around children my age. I lasted until Christmas at which time I got to be a kindergarten drop-out and resume my daily routines with Dickie. I remember particularly going to see Cousin Floy Bruce, a silenced victim of a stroke, at the nursing home. Because she couldn't talk, I always went with Dickie. That way, Dickie said, we could talk about things in which she was interested, and she could enjoy the fellowship even though she could not speak.

Whether Dickie was delivering Christmas baskets to the needy, needle pointing seats for the dining room chairs of a friend, riding across the backyard in her grandson's go-cart at the age of eighty, producing a wedding for the daughter of an invalid widow or playing canasta with her friends, she did so with a joie de vive that was eclipsed only by her love of God and her fellow man. On June 18, 1974, she departed this life leaving her grandmother's bed to her first granddaughter. Now, I tell my granddaughters, "Put your feet next to my legs, and I will warm them." The baton is passed. Would that I might also pass to them the Godliness that she passed to me.

Ruth Thornton Pittman

Libba Pitman Claiborne

My mother, Ruth Thornton Pittman, was the youngest child and the only daughter of Ruth Taylor and Nicholas Perkins Thornton. After seven sons, the arrival of a baby girl on January 28, 1903, was considered newsworthy by the local press, which ran the following birth announcement:

"Nick Thornton, the only original character in Haywood County, has within the last 21 years been blessed with seven healthy, strong-limbed and strong-minded boys. The addition last week, however, was a beautiful girl. Mr. Thornton, on being appraised of the sex of the child, expressed surprise and exclaimed that a mistake had been made and the wrong package delivered."

At the time, baby Ruth's oldest brother, Richard, was 20 years old, and the youngest, Robert, was 5.

Her earliest recollections were of lying in bed with her mother while waiting for the room to warm up after her father, "Pap," started the fire in the bedroom fireplace. Then he would go into the kitchen to grind the coffee for breakfast, rousing the household with his favorite wake-up call:

> "The lark is up to greet the sun,
> The bee is on the wing:
> The ant, its labor has begun,
> The woods with music ring."

Nicholas Thornton met Ruth Taylor when he visited in the country to escape the yellow fever, as so many others from Brownsville did. When they married, Ruth Taylor was 17 and Nicholas 23. She always addressed him as "Mr. Thornton," as was the custom then.

It's not hard to imagine how their only daughter and youngest child, "little Ruth," was babied and spoiled by her older brothers, sometimes teased and tormented, but always loved.

As a little girl, she loved to sit on the edge of the front porch swinging her feet. But her brothers spoiled that for her, telling her that mad dogs would come through the yard and bite her toes. Forever after she was afraid to dangle her feet off the porch.

When the pond froze over and the boys went ice-skating, she was bundled up and tied in a rocking chair. What a thrill to have her brothers slide her over the ice in her homemade sled.

Once she tagged along with brother, Richard, when he was setting out sweet potato slips in a field near the woods.

Childlike, she asked, "Suppose a big TIGER came out of the woods?"

"No tigers in the woods," he answered.

"S'pose a big LION came out of the woods?"

"No lions in the woods."

"S'pose a big BEAR came out of the woods?"

By then he was tired of this game, so he said, "Stop S'POSING, unless you want to go back to the house!"

So, for all her childhood, she thought it was somehow wrong to "suppose," and was careful never to do any "s'posing" again.

After Richard married Hattie Womack, little Ruth came into the room where the newlywed Hattie was sitting on Richard's lap. Ruth began to cry and wail, "Sister Hattie's got my lap!"

Pap gave each boy a horse and buggy as they grew up, so brother, Nick, got one before Robert did. Somehow, Robert begged the use of Nick's buggy, with the stern warning from his father not to drive the horse too fast. He took Ruth along for the ride and, unable to resist a fast horse, sped around a curve in the road. The buggy turned over. Ruth said her arm was hurt, but Robert made her promise not to tell anyone what happened or he would be in big trouble.

Actually, her arm was broken, but her loyalty to him was such that she never told on him. The broken arm was never set, and as long as she lived, she showed me the knot on her wrist and said it was all Robert's fault.

Being the closest in age, she and Robert always stuck together, getting into trouble more than once. Once again, Ruth was Robert's passenger when he was driving that new-fangled invention, an automobile. They were going up to Richard's house, where Bill Thornton now lives. A fence was alongside the long driveway, and Robert succeeded in knocking down most of the fence posts as he went along.

Her father died when Ruth was 12 years old. When she went in to see him, his last words were, "My baby."

I believe I am safe in saying that all my mother's brothers loved her dearly, and she was fond of her seven sisters-in-law.

When she was diagnosed with cancer at the age of 47, the family was devastated. She left us on New Year's Eve of 1950.

During her illness, we would often try to second-guess the doctors and wonder what the next day would bring.

She'd manage to smile, look at us, and say, "Stop s'posing."

Aileen Taylor Smith

I am grateful to my mother, Averil Taylor, for collecting information which gives us pride through understanding who we are, why we come together each year and how blessed we are to have devout forefathers who cared enough to pave a way for us. At the annual business meeting in 1955 it was recommended that our family should have a collection of information concerning our Camp Meeting. I believe Mother and Lorraine Thornton were appointed to request, receive and collect material for a scrap book.

As family members were contacted it became clear there was too much material for a scrap book. Tucked away in family attics, in boxes and on shelves were mountains of letters, articles from magazines and newspapers, minutes of meetings, Baptism records, texts of speeches, sermons, photographs and diaries.

Miss Averil wrote letters, made telephone calls, spent hours on genealogical lists and struggled to read the hand written script of old diaries and letters. She turned the upstairs west room of New Hope into her research workshop. For a year she set aside everything else and worked tirelessly to produce "the book."

Papa told me that many nights he heard her typewriter clicking in the wee hours. She told me she once heard papa and thought her typing might be disturbing him, but when she asked if he was sick or if she was keeping him awake he said, "it's morning. I'm getting up. Have you been typing all night?"

My mother was so vibrant and full of energy that I was not surprised by her dedicated work to produce The Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. I. She was a good Sunday school teacher and Bible student. She was a wonderful mother, grandmother and friend; fiery, smart, loyal, quick tempered and just as quick to forgive or ask forgiveness. What surprised me beyond belief was that in the last years of her life her once active mind slipped into the black hole of senility. Papa was a gentle man and he became the caregiver, holding her cup, giving her a sense of security as she grew to know no one but him, serving her soup and stirring her oatmeal. When I expressed my anger and outrage over what seemed unfair and unjust, Papa said, "We cannot understand, but God has given us the strength of family. Wrap yourself in that loving warmth and always look for what is instead of looking for what is not."

Alsey Mann Johnson

Jane Sevier Johnson (9/2/1916–1/8/1995)

My father loved Camp Meeting. From the moment we locked the last mattress in the big room on the last day, he started thinking about what we would cook the next year, what we would need to bring, and who he wanted to invite to eat with us. Cooking at Camp Meeting was almost his favorite thing.

Daddy's cornbread was famous. I can see him in the kitchen now, talking to the cooks about lunch while he heated the oiled divided skillets so the cornbread batter would form a crisp crust. But the cousins who came to sit at the table or to swing out front in the evenings came for his stories more than for those thin, hot wedges of buttery cornbread. Daddy didn't have to plan his stories the way he did his menus. They flowed forth spontaneously. Although Daddy might change a few of the small details or add a flourish here and there, most of his stories were the same year in and year out. Waiting for the familiar laugh was part of their charm.

No matter how often we heard it, the story my brother, sister, and I never tired of was how Daddy met our mother, Sue Welch, and wooed her and how Fanny, his cook, helped him win Mama at last with a little touch of voodoo.

How Daddy Married Mama

This is the absolutely true story of how my father married my mother, or at least Daddy always told it for true.

Daddy had been living with my Granddaddy Johnson, running a dairy, and teaching high school English ever since he had come home to Brownsville, Tennessee, from Kennet, Missouri. He and Granddaddy lived in a big old house in town, and Fanny, their cook, lived in a little house out back and looked after them.

Now, Fanny liked to drink, and one weekend she had indulged herself a bit too much. Monday morning she was frying up her husband Casey's breakfast, and she was so hung over that she leaned on her hand in the skillet and burned it, burned it bad. She ran up to the house to tell Daddy that she had to go to the doctor, but Daddy was walking out the door to school. Mrs. Neal, the sharecropper's wife, and her son, John Wayne, had come to the house to deliver eggs. Daddy asked Mrs. Neal if she would drive Fanny to Dr. Welch's office, so she and Fanny and John Wayne set off.

Dr. Welch, my mother's older brother, practiced medicine in Brownsville. On the day that Fanny went to see Uncle Kenneth, he had gone to a medical meeting with Aunt Lucille. Grandmama and Granddaddy Welch had come to Brownsville from Savannah, Tennessee, to take care of their children. Mama, who was in her residency at the University of Tennessee Medical School in Memphis, came to look after Uncle Kenneth's patients. It was my mother who dressed Fanny's hand.

Although to this day she refuses to admit that she was ever good-looking, Mama was—and is—redheaded, green-eyed, and pretty. Fanny was fascinated. She had never seen a woman doctor before.

"How old is you?" Fanny asked as Mama cleaned and dressed the burn.

"Twenty-five," Mama replied, smiling.

"Is you married?"

"No, Fanny, I'm not."

"Why not?" Fanny wanted to know.

"I guess nobody will have me," Mama laughed.

"You ought to marry my boss," Fanny said with studied insouciance. "He's just settin' up on that hill goin' to waste, and somebody needs to marry him bad."

At that Mama looked up at burly Mrs. Neal leaning in the doorway in her sack of a cotton dress with a trickle of tobacco juice slipping from the corner of her mouth. Mama imagined what Daddy might be like and decided Fanny was prone to exaggeration. She didn't reply but kept dressing Fanny's hand.

Fanny had begun to scheme and plan.

When Daddy came home that evening, he asked Fanny how her hand was. She replied that it was fine, thank you, and said, "Mr. Alsey, I want you to marry my doctor. She's at that age when white ladies get nervous if they ain't married."

"All right, Fanny," Daddy said equitably, loosening his tie. "I will." Daddy went on about his business with no intention of doing anything of the sort, a trait that would stay with my father all his life.

Every day that week Fanny went back to have the dressing on her hand changed, and every day she told my mother that she ought to marry my father. Mama would just smile at her and say nothing.

On Sunday, just as Daddy was finishing getting ready for church, Fanny came running to the house shrieking that her hand was killing her and that she had to go to the doctor right then.

"Fanny," Daddy said, exasperated, "Dr. Welch won't want to go to the office on Sunday morning. Can't you wait until tomorrow?"

"You don't care nothin' about me," Fanny sniffled. "Here I done sacrificed myself and looked after you and your daddy all this time, and you just don't care nothin' about me."

"All right, Fanny," Daddy sighed. "I'll call her."

Daddy phoned Uncle Kenneth's house, and Mama agreed to meet them. Well, when they got to the office, Mama looked at Daddy and thought he was the handsomest man she'd ever seen, except maybe for Tyrone Power, whom he resembled with his dark hair and eyes. And Daddy looked at Mama and decided maybe Fanny didn't have such a bad idea after all. He leaned in the doorway of the examining room and tried to make himself charming.

When Mama had examined Fanny's hand and given her some aspirin, she told Fanny she was fine and wouldn't need to come back any more. Fanny and Daddy thanked Mama and left. At the car, Fanny turned to Daddy, hands on her hips.

"You the nearest thing to nothin' I ever saw. My hand hadn't hurt me in days, I done spent my two dollars, and you ain't said one mumblin' word to that woman about getting' married."

"All right, Fanny," Daddy smiled. "I'll call her when we get home."

Back at the house Daddy phoned Uncle Kenneth's again, and Mama answered.

"Dr. Welch, my maid is very anxious for us to marry, and I would like to talk to you about it."

"Mr. Johnson," Mama said after a pause. "I wouldn't wish to discourage either you or your maid, but I do not take proposals over the telephone."

And Mama said good-bye, hung up, and went into the living room to her parents.

Fanny had been standing over Daddy to coach him. When he put down the phone, she cried, "You ain't nothin'. You didn't even try! You got to call her again."

"What on earth can I say to her, Fanny?" Daddy protested.

"Feed her," Fanny said. "She's the hungriest looking white woman I ever saw."

Mama was laughing to Grandmama and Granddaddy Welch about the lunatic who had called to ask her to marry him when the phone rang again.

"Dr. Welch, are you fond of quail?" Daddy asked when she answered.

"Oh, I love quail," Mama said, thinking he meant to bring her some.

"Will you have supper with me and my father on Tuesday? We'll have quail."

Mama said she would.

Mama had heard Uncle Kenneth's nurse, Miss Penny, ask Fanny how Cousin Alsey was doing, and Mama knew Miss Penny came from nice folks. Monday in the office, she asked Miss Penny about Daddy.

"Darling!" Miss Penny exclaimed. "Did he ask you for a date? Why, women have been running after Alsey for years. He's the most eligible bachelor in Brownsville."

Mama told Miss Penny she was going to have supper with Daddy and Granddaddy.

"You'd better marry him, honey," Elvira, Uncle Kenneth's other nurse, said. "Mr. Alsey is big rich."

Mama still laughs about that one.

Daddy did wait until their second date to ask Mama to marry him again. She turned him down. After all, he was 12 years her senior and divorced, and Grandmama Welch didn't approve of him. Mama decided she would have to stop seeing him, so she said, "I'm going to kiss you good-bye."

Kiss him she did, but it turned into just "good night."

When Uncle Kenneth came back from his meeting, Mama went back to Memphis to her cardiology residency. Two or three times a week Daddy would drive over in his Ford (he always liked to drive a Ford) to see her, 60 miles up and 60 miles back. Sometimes he took her dancing at the Skyway and Plantation Roof on top of the Peabody Hotel, Daddy as handsome as a movie star, and Mama elegant in her scoop-neck, sleeveless black dress with the two rhinestone buttons at the left shoulder.

Of course, all this time Daddy was still getting up at the crack of dawn to milk the cows and deliver the milk before he went to school, and he was still teaching voice in the evenings. One morning in the middle of the week, he said, "Fanny, I want you to call the school and tell them I'm sick and won't be there today. I'm just nearly dead, and I'm going to stay home."

"Oh, no you ain't," Fanny threatened. "We ain't the kind of folks what lays out all night and then can't tend to our business in the morning. You goin' to step in here into the pantry with me, and I'm goin' to ask God to prop you up in your leanin' places."

Daddy went into the pantry with Fanny, and she prayed over him before she sent him on to school.

Now, things weren't moving fast enough between Mama and Daddy to suit Fanny, so she decided she'd better see about speeding them up. One day she asked Daddy what was taking so long.

"She won't have me, Fanny," Daddy told her. "I keep asking, but she won't have me."

Fanny looked Daddy in the eye.

"Mr. Alsey, do you want to get that woman?"

"Yes, Fanny, I do."

"Well, then, we goin' to have to go down to Belle Fennel's and get you a mojo sack. I need two dollars and some of your hair and fingernails. Demetra's girl works down at the beauty parlor where Dr. Welch goes, and she can get us some of her hair and fingernails."

Daddy, who figured there was nothing to lose by enlisting supernatural assistance, gave Fanny what she asked for. In a couple of days Fanny came back with a soiled little calico pouch tied up with a bit of string.

"Mr. Alsey, you carry that mojo sack with you all the time and won't be no way in the world that woman can get away from you."

Daddy put the mojo sack in his wallet.

Six months had gone by, and Mama had been struggling over whether or not she should marry Daddy. When she was about to have ten days of leave from her residency that would let them have some kind of honeymoon, she finally decided she would. Then she couldn't get him to ask her again. Daddy says they had gone to the zoo and were sitting on the grass when she said, "I'm going to kiss you," and threw him down. Mama says this is not so, and since she has never approved of public displays of affection, I believe her. According to her, she just asked him if he still wanted to get married.

"Get your toothbrush and let's go," Daddy said, pulling her to her feet.

So Mama called her sister, Miss Winnie (we all called her that instead of Aunt Winnie ever since the day my Cousin Bitsy said it when he was three years old), and Grandmama and Granddaddy Welch. The blood test Mama and Daddy thought they had to have to get married in Tennessee would take three days, so they decided they would go to Mississippi, which didn't require one.

"I will not go to a justice of the peace, and I will not go to Corinth or Hernando," Mama insisted. "I will be married in a Methodist church by a Methodist minister."

People who needed to get married in a hurry went to Corinth or Hernando. My mother always says she was innocent when she got married and didn't want anyone thinking she was getting married for any reason other than because she loved my father.

So Daddy called my cousin John O., his nephew, who was at Mississippi State in Starkville, and told him to find them a Methodist church because they were coming down there to get married. Off they all went, Grandmama and Granddaddy Welch with Miss Winnie, and Granddaddy Johnson, for whom John O. was named, with Mama and Daddy. And they were married by a Methodist minister in a Methodist church in Starkville. John O. was best man, and Miss Winnie was maid-of-honor.

Mama and Daddy went to the Great Smoky Mountains for their honeymoon. On the way, the first time they stopped for gas, Mama says that when she came out of the bathroom, she caught Daddy stripping the gears trying to back up because he'd almost driven away without her. Daddy always claimed she retaliated by stubbing a cigarette out in his ear while he was sleeping with his head in her lap, but she swears that a tiny cinder blew off her cigarette and back into the car and landed in his ear (she stopped smoking when I was five). Anyway, Daddy said when it burned him, he jerked awake and jammed his legs into the car door so hard that he told Mama they were going to have to get him some crutches because he was crippled. Mama told him he talked like a tree fell on him because she was not about to let him come home on crutches from a honeymoon with her.

On their wedding night, Daddy took the mojo sack out of his wallet to show Mama how he'd caught her. She laughed. He cut the sack open. He'd been carrying around a few little stones, some bones they decided were chicken bones, a couple of chicken feathers, and their hair and fingernails.

And that is how my Daddy married my Mama.

Memorial Service for Elizabeth Bailey Thornton

Delivered by Elizabeth Bailey Pittman Clairborne

Elizabeth Bailey thornton was born Nov. 28, 1898, near Chapel Hill in Middle Tennessee. She was the daughter of Sue Talley Bailey and William Bailey. She was on of three daughters who often came to Brownsville to visit their Grandmother Talley, who lived on East College Street. Her home was what we know as the Dunlap Cannon home. This is one of the oldest houses in Brownsville and has been owned by only three families.

When Aunt Lib was 7 years old, her mother died, so the three little girls returned to Brownsville to live with 'Grandmother Talley," their "Aunt Ida" Talley Powell and "Uncle Ben" Powell. That comprised the household as Aunt Ida and Uncle Ben had no children.

When she was a young girl, one night at the supper table aunt Lib said, "A young man walked me home this afternoon, and said some day he's going to marry me." Uncle Ben asked, "What is the young man's name?" "Marion Thornton," was the reply. "Well," said Uncle Ben, "I don't know Marion, but I do know the Thorntons, and they usually attain what they set out for."

Aunt Lib's classmate and closest friend was Marie Kinney. Marie was planning to marry Harbert Thornton before he left to serve in world War I, so Aunt Lib decided she would marry Marion, too. After all, they were 19 years old. They planned a double wedding at the Baptist Church, with only families attending. When they walked in, much to their astonishment, the church was filled, as everyone in town had heard of their plans. Of course, Uncle Marion always said the preacher actually married him to Aunt Marie and Uncle Harbert to aunt Lib. Whatever the case, the marriages endured for over 50 years, and they always celebrated their anniversaries together, even after they were widowed. For their honeymoon, the two couples took the train to Atlanta, where Uncle Harbert reported for duty. Three returned to Brownsville, with Aunt Marie weeping all the way.

Aunt Lib and Uncle Marion lived in many places, but wherever they lived, she made it home. She was always a lady, and a friend once said to me, "Whenever I see your Aunt Lib, I think of a true Southern lady."

Through the years, they graciously opened their home, whether to her sister, Martha, and her husband, George Murray, during the Major League Baseball off-season, or to my mother when she wanted to live in town before she married. My parents were married in the living room of the Talley house, and the ceremony was interrupted by little Marion running up to my mother calling, "Sister, sister!"

Aunt Lib never knew how many to expect at her table because of Uncle Marion's habit of inviting unexpected guests. A marvelous cook, she stretched many a meal at the last minute, and we all still have recipes for her chicken pie and "Lib's cupcakes" which she baked by the dozens. Truly, she fed the multitudes!

When I think of Aunt Lib, I like to compare the name, Elizabeth, to Elizabeth in the Bible, the mother of John the Baptist. When Mary came to tell her that she was to be the mother of Jesus, Elizabeth rejoiced with her cousin. She never sought the spotlight for herself, but quietly went about the duties demanded by each day. She also gave her son in sacrifice.

There is no greater honor than to have someone named for you, and Aunt Lib had many namesakes: her daughter, Betsy Battle, her great-granddaughter, Elizabeth Nicholas, myself, her niece, and a great-great-niece, the granddaughter of Dabney Murray Milner in North Carolina. (Also, her great-great-granddaughter, Elizabeth Bailey Pinkernell)

Elizabeth Bailey Thornton died April 24, 1989, at the age of 90. She was the last "Real Daughter of the Confederacy" in Haywood County.

The only graves in Tabernacle Cemetery of men killed in wartime are those of her son, Marion Thornton Jr., killed in World War II, and her grandson, Norman Lane Jr., killed in Vietnam.

'If This Is Death, It Is Sweet To Die'
Robert Howell Taylor

(June 24, 1816 – December 5, 1881)
From the State and Bee
December 9th , 1881

We cannot recall an instance where the death of a citizen so painfully affected our community or caused deeper and more genuine regret than the intelligence Monday afternoon that Mr. Robert H. Taylor was dead. It was well known that he was in the enjoyment of his usual good health, and many were loathe to credit the first announcement until more reliable information too painfully confirmed the sad tidings. He had been engaged during the forenoon of Monday in directing the building of a fence, himself arranging and laying the worm, and had started home at noon when he suddenly became ill and was borne to the house and placed upon a sofa, where he almost instantly expired, his last words being; "If this is death, it is sweet to die."

The funeral services were held at Tabernacle Church Tuesday afternoon, largely attended and conducted by Rev. W. L. Duckworth, who paid a high tribute to the life and character of the deceased. Appropriate and touching remarks were also made by Revs. W. T. Harris, R. V. Taylor, and G. H. Martin, after which remains were interred in the family burying-ground nearby.

The deceased was born in Mecklinburg County, Virginia, on June 24, 1816. His father, Richard Taylor moved to Montgomery County, Tennessee, in 1817. He moved a second time and settled in Haywood County, Feb'y 20, 1826. In the fall of 1829, the subject of this sketch joined the Methodist Church after professing religion under the ministry of Rev. Richard Hudson. In Dec. 1838 he married Harriet, daughter of Captain Howell Taylor. At the time of his death he was in his 65th year. He was a member of the same church at Tabernacle for fifty-two years.

In any light in which we may consider the life and character of Mr. Taylor, he was a remarkable man. In every industry and enterprise of a busy life, he exhibited rare judgment and wonderful resources and energy. Before his tireless efforts, apparently insurmountable difficulties became mere trifles in the progress and success of his undertakings. Of his chosen calling, that of Agriculture, to which he gave his best effort and study, he was a master, and eminently successful. He pursued it in all its branches from high standpoint of intelligent scientific thought, abandoning the unprofitable methods of the past for the more improved appliances that have marked the growth and development of his department of human industry during the last decade. His well cultivated farm, its fertile soil, its diversity of crops, its straight fences, and his well kept stock, and his house with all its conveniences and ample grounds indicate the presence of a master hand and the control and management of no ordinary mind.

He was highly endowed with strong mental powers and capable of the deepest thought upon any subject to which he directed his attention. He was a man of large intelligence and culture, and grasp and breadth of thought; and if in early life, as Dr. Harris remarked at his funeral services, he had devoted his talents and energies to the law or divinity or to any of the politer branches of learning, he would have risen to a position of eminence and been a star of the first magnitude.

As a citizen, and in his relations to his fellow man, his life affords an example worthy of all emulation and admiration. Liberal, unselfish, sympathetic, kind-hearted, above reproach. To the needy and suffering, he had an attentive ear and an open hand. It is not too much to say that he was faithful in every relation and duty of life, pursuing the straight lines of honor and rectitude and impressing upon those around him the sacred influences of his pure and upright life and example. As a husband and father and in the sphere of social life, he displayed some of the noblest attributes of his character, in his tender love and warm affection.

But, above all these, the beauty and grandeur of his life are best exhibited in his deep religious consecration and devotion to the church. Though absorbed in business and secular cares, he never forgot his duty to the church and to his God. He knew that all human enterprises are but temporary engagements at best and bring no real joy, that they continue but a day and pass away and are forgotten, and placing his reliance upon the strong arm of God, he carried his cross for fifty-two years! What a volume of Christian experience and life! And though he has gone from among us, the influence of his example, the memory of his virtues, the incense of his holy life, will remain to teach us that when we come to die we may exclaim as he did, "If this is death, it is sweet to die."

Robert Howell Taylor, 1868.

John A. Taylor

Written by W. L. Duckworth

John Alexander Taylor was the second son of Richard and Nancy Taylor. He was born in Montgomery County, Tennessee, June 12, 1818, and moved to Haywood County in 1826. In 1829 he witnessed the death of that mother in whom, as he said, his life was bound up; and in that death he witnessed that triumph of the religion of Christ, which influenced his heart to resolve to make that religion his own personal possession and reliance. Accordingly, the following August, at the Brownsville camp-ground, he laid his all on the altar of Christ and received a sense of pardoned sin. On the same occasion he joined the Methodist Church, in whose communion he lived a faithful life and died an honored member. Though he was but little over eleven years old when he allianced himself to Christ, he kept his allegiance inviolate for more than fifty-three years. To him Christ was the most sublime and adorable of all beings; His love was the highest authority, and His religion was the source of all good. John A. Taylor did not wear his religion as a convenience; no, with him it was paramount. It had to have precedence in all life's relations, and its principles priority in all life's engagements.

Physically, he was man of rather frail constitution. Intellectually, he was far above the average, both in the endowments of nature and the developments of culture. His fondness for book investigation enabled him to acquire a superior education, for one of his time, at a very early age, and to accumulate a vast amount of profound learning and information. Before he was twenty-five years old, he was twice chosen by his party (Democratic) as a candidate for the Legislature.

In 1843 he was married to Miss Ann B. Peete, by home he had born unto him seven children, five of whom remain until the present. With this excellent Christian wife he lived happily until 1871, when she was suddenly separated from him by a violent death, caused by her horse running away with her buggy. Before he was married he had settled upon the place at which he died, and begun his chosen occupation which was farming. In this he had such success as such intelligence, industry and piety as his always guarantee. The joint stock of himself and his young wife was about $10,000 when they began; the census of l860 recorded their possessions at $100,000.

Mr. Taylor was married again in 1874 to Mrs. Mary Elizabeth Perkins Bradley, of Louisville, Ky. This was a happy affair, and I doubt not a divine Providence for him. It was God putting His child now, just as he is about beginning a long career of suffering and decline, into the hands of one of culture, and piety, who was competent to give him that intelligent attention, that devoted care, patient watching and all this with tender, loving kindness which would palliate his sufferings, and smooth his passage to the tomb. May God make the same blessed provision of her declining days, and crown her soul with immortal glory. Amen.

These are some of the achievements of John A. Taylor's life; but his greatest achievement has not been hinted at—that true goodness, which was a blessing to his generation, a legacy to the world, and an everlasting fortune for himself in that world to which he has gone. His diary shows that early in his career he adopted ten rules for the practice and government of his life. May all who see them adopt and practice them as faithfully as he did.

Practicing on these pure principles he was a blessing to his family, to his country and to his church. By them, in his last days, he had the blessedness of a conscience void of offense towards God and towards man-saying as he often did, "since I have been a Christian I have never done wrong if I knew it". He had the blessedness of a joyful consciousness of the approval of God upon his life and His favor resting upon him, and a constant rapturous anticipation of the great destiny which was before him.

Thus, John A. Taylor, having served his generation by the will of God, fell asleep the 11th day of December, 1881, being sixty-three years, five months and twenty-nine days old. God multiply such lives in this land.

Ten Resolutions

Written by John A. Taylor, January 1, 1843

Firstly: To learn contentment in every condition in life.

Secondly: Never to speak evil of anyone.

Thirdly: Never to bear any communication between two individuals who are at the least variance with each other, that would in anywise, gender strife.

Fourthly: Never to meddle where I am not personally concerned, only at the solicitation of a friend.

Fifthly: Always put the best construction on everything.

Sixthly: Never to seek revenge for any injury, and never do myself an injury to revenge a wrong.

Seventhly: Form no opinion upon anything until I have heard all the evidence.

Eighthly: To be patient, in all things, rise as early as practiable, be industrious, never think evil, be slow to speak on matters of importance, and let every action have a definite end, in contributing to the happiness of myself and others.

Ninthly: To live up to the Golden Rule to do unto all men as I would they should do unto me.

Tenthly: The glory of God be my aim in everything.

Joseph Richard Taylor

(August 16, 1819 – December 25, 1887)

Mrs. R. V. Mann

Joseph R. Taylor was born August 16, 1819; married Mary E. Claiborne, February 17, 1843. He professed religion at ten years of age, joined the M. E. Church, in which he lived a consistent, faithful member until his death. Naturally of a genial, happy temperament, sanctified by divine grace, he possessed a magnetism over all classes, binding them closely to his great, loving heart, and thus in unison to the cross of Christ. So beautiful was his example, so forcible his precepts, so tender his affections around the home-circle, that all of his children and grandchildren were led to Christ, and united with the Church early in life. Nor was his influence less potent in the community and in the Church. During his life his seat was never vacant (unless Providentially hindered) in the Sunday-school, prayer-meeting, and class-meeting, as well as in the great congregation. Notwithstanding for years he had been the subject of sore bodily affliction, yet he remained a faithful Sunday-school teacher to the time of his death. "They shall still bring forth fruit in old age". What an example he has left us! Promptness, punctuality, and faithfulness; and while we will miss him so sadly, let us band the precious lessons of his life upon our fingers, and write them upon the table of our hearts, following in his foot-steps as he followed Christ. He was at church, as usual, December 18; went home and was stricken down with pneumonia. He was impressed that his work had ended, but was patient and resigned to suffer the will of his "loving Father". He lingered just one week, and though racked with pain, he hailed the dawn of another anniversary of the world's great Redeemer, and said; "how delightful it would be to spend Christmas-day with father and mother! Such a good time to die, while all of my children are around me." He then made an earnest prayer of submission unto Him who could command; and thus, on December 25, 1887, an unsullied life closed with a cloudless sunset. Having "served his own generation by the will of God, he fell on sleep, and was laid unto his fathers."

Mary Claiborne Taylor

(January 9, 1826 – October 27, 1906)
From the Files of the States Graphic.
Nov. 2, 1906

Mrs. Mary Claiborne Taylor, widow of the late Joseph R. Taylor, died at the residence of her son-in-law, R. A. Mann, at Rudolph on Saturday last, aged about 83 years, and was laid to rest beside her loved ones at Tabernacle the following day. She had been in bad health for some years and her demise was not unexpected. She was a native of Middle Tennessee and married in the early 1840's, thereafter making her home in the County, and reared to maturity two sons and eight daughters, the former both dead and the latter all surviving. Mrs. Taylor was a person of great refinement, fine sense, engaging manners and a high order of intelligence, and in her circle exercised a wide influence and in her death her relatives and friends feel a distinct and irreparable loss.

"MY PRECIOUS FATHER SLEEPS BY THE SIDE OF MY MOTHER. I SPENT HALF AN HOUR AT THEIR TOMBS THIS EVENING AS THE SUN WAS GOING DOWN IN THE EFFORT TO CALL BACK THEIR MEMORIES AND RECOUNT THE LEADING INCIDENTS OF THEIR LIVES. I LOVE THEIR MEMORIES AND I FEEL DEVOTEDLY THANKFUL THAT IT HAS BEEN MY LOT TO HAVE SUCH PARENTS. THEIR HOLY EXAMPLE HAS MORE INFLUENCE WITH ME NOW THAN THE GODLY PRECEPTS THEY SO OFTEN GAVE. WITH ONE HAND UPON EACH STONE THAT MARKS THEIR RESTING PLACE I DID HUMBLY IMPLORE THE GREAT GIVER OF ALL GOOD THAT HE WOULD SO GUARD AND DIRECT MY STEPS IN LIFE THAT I SHALL NEVER DISHONOR THEIR MEMORIES."

Nicholas Perkins Thornton I

(August 21, 1858 – May 15, 1915)

From The Commercial Appeal, Memphis, May 16, 1915, Pt l, p.ll, col 3:

Brownsville, Tenn., May 15. Nicholas P. Thornton aged 55 years, died at his home, seven miles north of Brownsville, this morning at 10:25 o'clock. Mr. Thornton was born and reared in this county and has spent his entire life in and around Brownsville. The deceased was one of Haywood County's most progressive farmers and was universally loved by all who knew him. He is survived by one brother, Macon Thornton, of Omord, Fla. and wife Ruth Taylor, seven sons, Macon, John, Richard, Marion, Harbert, Nicholas and Robert, also one daughter, Ruth. Funeral services will be held at Tabernacle Methodist Church tomorrow, Sunday, afternoon at 4 o'clock, conducted by Rev. G. V. Evans, assisted by Rev. B. J. Russell, interment at Tabernacle.

Recollection of his father by Marion Thornton, written in 1960:

"One night we had a big Christmas party at Church, everybody standing around the tree. Pap (N. P. Thornton) took a big fire cracker, took the inside out and tied it on the tree. Then, when everybody got all around the tree, Pap said, "les start the party," and put a match on the big fire cracker. Everybody left the Church.

"Pap was mighty good to us, give us everything he could. Every time one got 21 he would make the first payment on a farm. When I was 22 I took my horses and hitched to my wagon, thought I would go to my farm and keep watch. Took my trunk and sat on it. Pap went down to open the gate for me. He stood there and cried like a baby. He was just as sweet and tender harted as he could be. Mother had already gone up to my place. She had gone to town, bought me a suit of furniture and put in my house. She lived and worked for her children as long as she lived.

"When my dad started he went down to Cousin Jim Moore's farm, got an old blind mule. He lived in an old two-room log cabin, fed the mule in one door while he slept in the other. You can call them good old days if you want to."

belonging to Ruth Edwards Thornton, daughter-in-law

Mrs. Ruth Taylor Thornton, widow of the late N. P. Thornton of the Tabernacle community, died at the home of her son, Dr. John Thornton of this city on Thursday night, February 19, 1925 aged 61 years.

Mrs. Thornton had been ill for several weeks, but the end came rather suddenly Thursday as a result of a severe attack of heart trouble. Funeral services were held Friday afternoon at the Tabernacle Methodist church, conducted by Rev. A. W. Lassiter, her pastor, assisted by Dr. R.H. Mahon. Interment in the Tabernacle cemetery. She was laid to rest by the side of her husband who preceded her to the grave several years ago, and was a splendid Christian gentleman, honored and respected by a large circle of friends throughout Haywood County. The Thornton family is one of the best known in Haywood county. They have long been residents of the Tabernacle neighborhood, where they have kept open house for the entertainment of friends and neighbors at all times. Once every year what is known hereabouts as the "Kinfolks Meeting" is held at Tabernacle. There hundreds of people come together from far and wide to spend a week in social and religious intercourse. Mrs. Thornton's home was always headquarters for dozens of these good people and her hospitality was proverbial. She was a woman of splendid Christian character and her death will bring grief and sorrow to a large circle of relatives and friends. There are left of the immediate family seven sons and one daughter, as follows, Richard, Macon, Marion, Harbert, John, Nick, and Robert and Mrs. Otho Pittman. Mrs. Thornton associated with the Tabernacle church. All of her children are members of this church. One son Nick, has for several years been the efficient superintendent of the Sunday School, and the elder son, Richard, also filled that important post for several years.

The Thorntons and Taylors, which families are united in this family are among the largest and best known families of Haywood County.

"THE YEARS HAVE BROUGHT MANY CHANGES, SOME HAVE CEASED FROM THEIR LABORS, BUT THE WORK IS GOING ON — AND THE SAME GOSPEL STORY IS BEING TOLD BY THOSE TODAY, WHO WERE BUT CHILDREN YESTERDAY."

(Women's Missionary Society of Tabernacle Church, 1926.)

William T. Currie, II

(October 31, 1865 – December 21, 1936)
From the Dec. 25th 1936 States Graphic

Was for many years Supt. of Tabernacle Sunday School

W. T. Currie, Sr., prominent Brownsville Insurance man and former Chairman of the Haywood County Court, died at his home on East college Street Monday afternoon at 3 o'clock following a protracted illness.

A native of this county, Mr. Currie was a member of one of its oldest and most prominent families. He was a steward in the Methodist Church and took an active part in Sunday School. A man of strong convictions and possessed of rugged honesty he was outspoken on all public issues and was found at all times on the moral side. As a citizen and public official he held the respect of all the people of the community where he so long resided. His passing is a source of genuine regret to the people of Haywood County.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Nora Mann Currie, three children, W. T. Currie, Jr., and Dick Mann Currie, of Brownsville, and Miss Elizabeth Currie, a teacher of Whitehaven. He is also survived by one brother, Rev. Ben Currie, member of the Kentucky Methodist Conference and two sisters, Mrs. John Y. Taylor and Mrs. T. O. Lea of Brownsville.

Funeral services were held at the Methodist Church here Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock conducted by his pastor, Rev. Syl Fisher, assisted by Rev. J. M. Kendall. Interment was in the family plot in Tabernacle Cemetery.

The large number of sorrowing friends and relatives attending the last rites evidenced the high esteem in which he was held.

C. Emory Weddington, Sr.

(November 18, 1879 – January 16, 1953)
From the Files of the States Graphic

C. E. Weddington, Sr., for 40 years a leading figure in the business, civic and religious life of Brownsville died at the Haywood County Memorial Hospital here Friday evening following a brief illness. Death was due to a heart attack. He was 73.

A native of Douglasville, Ga., he received his early education there and was a graduate of the University of Georgia. He came to Brownsville as a young man and a traveling salesman. Later he entered the hardware business under the firm name of the Bain-Weddington Co. When the firm sold out he opened a feed and seed business here which he operated at the time of his death. For many years he manufactured dairy and other feeds under his own brand names.

Mr. Weddington was a life long member of the Methodist Church and his membership was with the First Methodist Church here since 1912. He was a member of the choir and a teacher in the Church's Bible school and a member of the Board of Stewards. He was a member of the Brownsville Rotary Club.

Active in all the affairs of his community, he was an energetic and useful citizen.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Dick Mann Weddington; a son Charles Emory Weddington, Jr., and a sister, Mrs. Eva Kelly of Douglasville, Ga., and three grandchildren.

Services were held at the First Methodist Church here Sunday afternoon conducted by his pastor, Rev. Quincy Scruggs. Interment was in Tabernacle Cemetery.

Sadness Comes To The Kinfolks Meeting Cappie Irene Mann Johnson

Services At Tabernacle Thursday at 4 PM, Aug. 20th, 1954

FROM THE FILES OF THE STATES GRAPHIC

Mrs. John Orgain Johnson, member of one of Brownsville's most prominent families and long active in civic and religious circles, died at Haywood County Memorial Hospital here, Wednesday evening at 9:10 o'clock as a result of injuries received in an automobile crash on alternate Highway 70 at the intersection to Tabernacle Church Wednesday morning. She was 72.

Deputy Sheriff George Sullivan said Mrs. Johnson's east bound car collided with an Indiana car west bound on Highway 70. Three occupants of the Indiana car were hospitalized here. They were not believed seriously injured. They were identified as Bobdan Wazmiak 10, Gregor Petryna 31, and John Jusko 31, all of Hammond, Indiana.

Mrs. Johnson was a lifelong resident of Haywood County and a member of the Taylor-Mann families this week holding the 107th annual get-together at Tabernacle Camp Meeting. She was a member of the First Methodist Church here and was long active in the work of the church.

Services were held at Tabernacle Methodist Church, Thursday at 3 p.m. The Rev. Carl Robbins conducted the rites. Burial was in Tabernacle Cemetery.

She leaves her husband, three sons, Jack Johnson and Alsey Johnson of Brownsville, Lloyd Johnson of Memphis, and three daughters, Mrs. Nolen Smith, Mrs. Charlie B. Jacocks, and Mrs. Merritt Crenshaw of Brownsville.

Memorial Service for William Thomas Currie, III

Delivered by Emily Currie Huie

William Thomas Currie, III was born on May 15, 1904 in a house about three miles from this campground. He was the first child of Nora Mann Currie and William Thomas Currie, Jr. He was brother of Elizabeth Currie Muntzel and Richard Mann Currie, the husband of Mary Neil Edwards, and the father of William Thomas Currie IV and me. He had six grandchildren, and his sixth great-grandchild was baptized right here this morning.

Tom Currie was 94 years old when he died in November. We lost the head of our family and we also said good-bye to a beloved institution and an era. But we are thankful that our loss, though painful, was not an untimely one. It was what Granny Currie used to call a time of "sad rejoicing." And, thank God, love imprints our memories so indelibly that our losses are never total.

As his daughter, I grew up believing my daddy to be the giant of all fathers. He was the tallest, the strongest, the straightest – and without a doubt the most fun. He told me unceasingly that of all the girls, I was the smartest and the sweetest and the prettiest. And I believed him! In time, of course, I realized that this was the least little bit of an overstatement. But by then, I also realized that I was in fact something better than the smartest and the sweetest and the prettiest –I was the apple of my Daddy's eye. And that assurance which he continued to nurture, gave me a cushion of security and confidence for the rest of his life.

Not that I was the only apple of his eye. My brother clearly was before me. And his grandchildren gave Daddy enormous pleasure…three in Brownsville (Cathy, Bill and Allen) and three in Atlanta (Mary Ann, Ralph and Tom). As children, they covered many happy miles in the back of his truck, going to Camp Meeting, or Drain Lake, or the farm. Is it not a joy when our children genuinely love our parents!

Once I asked my son, Tom, what he thought was the secret of Pop's popularity with his grandchildren and he responded without a moment's hesitation, "He is so incredibly upbeat." And he was. He had a positive, enthusiastic attitude, he was entertaining, and his humor was contagious.

In an e-mail from Tom to me last week, he said, "I can remember laughing and smiling a lot when Pop was around, and whenever he was speaking he would have you laughing – laughing as you pushed him through the airport in a wheelchair, laughing as you helped him get into or out of the car. To me, his sense of humor wasn't something that he turned on or off the way a comedian might, but rather it was part of who he was and the way he chose to live his life. It's one thing that he passed on to each and every one of us."

Never ambivalent, his view of right and wrong was definite and intact. As Bill once put it so aptly, "He doesn't mind telling you how he feels about something." He thought church was the place to be on Sunday morning, bills should be paid by return mail, meals should be eaten by the clock. Anyone who ate dinner after 6:00 p.m. was a "bohemian."

Daddy believed in God and the Methodist Church, the Rotary Club, the Haywood High School Tomcats, and buttermilk. And he believed in attention to detail. Polishing shoes or sharpening a pocket knife could be a seemingly endless ritual. Planting a tomato was an elaborate ceremony which called for extensive soil preparation and meticulous placement. You'd have thought he was performing brain surgery. That care for specifics was helpful in his insurance business I'm sure, where he had a reputation for treating all his customers the same.

I love the story told by an adjustor for the USF&G Insurance Company, which Daddy represented. One of his older, black customers came into Daddy's office to report in great distress the loss of his house which had burned to the ground, uninsured because the last premium had not been paid. When he was told by Daddy that he had paid the premium on the policy himself, and that the loss was fully covered, the man dropped to his knees and dissolved into tears.

Daddy was engaging and he had a genuine interest in people of all ages, especially children. If all the wooden knives he'd whittled out of cedar for children on this campground were laid end-to-end, I think they'd go from here to the cemetery. And if you were a little boy in Brownsville who wanted to hunt or fish, you only needed to tell my Daddy. He was also known to be a great admirer of pretty women. Ralph said, "Pop was deaf as a post, but for some reason he didn't have much trouble with the octave range of the female voice between the ages of 16 and 30." He was an athlete, a sportsman, and a true outdoorsman. He could walk through Hatchie Bottom without snapping a twig or rustling a leaf. He could recognize every bird by song, and I think he knew Drain Lake as well as his bathtub. Ralph loved the way Daddy began every hunting story by telling the make, model, gauge, choke and barrel length of the gun he was shooting.

Haywood County fit Daddy like a glove and there was no reason to go anywhere else. Obviously, this man was put down on this earth in the perfect environment for him. He never understood why anyone would want to travel to Europe or anywhere abroad. In fact, he probably wondered why people in Europe weren't planning trips to Haywood County!

There was nothing he valued more than family and kinfolk. On the subject of genealogy, he was a zealot. If you were a blood relative of his, you were somebody special. Reading the Taylors of Tabernacle gave him hours of pleasure. He would add his comments and analysis, and then he would just marvel at the hardships of his forefathers. He especially loved to talk about the trip Richard Taylor took moving to Haywood County. "And guess," he would say, "just guess – what do you think killed the oxen??? It was the buffalo gnats, the BUFFALO GNATS!"

Camp Meeting was clearly the highlight of my Daddy's year. Along about February, he'd begin asking about his grandchildren, one by one. "Is Mary Ann coming to Camp Meeting? Is Ralph coming? How about Tom? Is he coming to Camp Meeting?" It was a litany, and it was repeated until their plans were definite, which meant it went on for about four months. In truth, I'm endlessly grateful to him for the gift of Camp Meeting, for the way he cherished and nurtured this unique tradition and passed on to me and my children his love for this place. Because it is here, in this time warp, this dated, impossible-to-explain experience that we encapsulate ourselves each year to share our common history, to make tighter and stronger our ties to God and to each other.

My daddy had a long life which he enjoyed enormously. He even achieved one goal which I think he sought for years. He was, for a few years, the oldest man on the Campground. Mary Ann says she now imagines Pop being "free of his troubles, humming Heavenly Sunlight and strolling through whatever part of Heaven is dedicated to Haywood County, happy to be home at last." For the most part, I agree with that image. But I do believe that, given the choice, Tom Currie would take a sabbatical from Heaven for just this one week each year to be here with us at Camp Meeting. And in our hearts, he is.

"Love feast is a service where we hear testimony about religious experiences of the family and the influence the family members have had on each other"

Camp Meeting

Dorothy Beith

The Commercial Appeal, October 15, 1967

Grandpa Taylor wanted his children's children to know each other and their God. So, more than a century ago, Kinfolks Camp Meeting was born.

The fervor with which eight generations of the Rev. Howell Taylor's descendants have carried out his wish is told in the 630-page book, "The Taylors of Tabernacle – The History of a Family" and the laughter and stories swapped at the kin's annual, week-long meeting at Tabernacle.

Tabernacle is a place and a feeling. It is a 141-year old Methodist church and a circle of 30 roughly built cabins crowded on a tree-shaded knoll about six miles northeast of Brownsville, Tenn.

It is a cemetery first used by Taylors, and now almost filled with kin, whose surnames number more than thirty. Most of all, it is a Methodist revival meeting and a family reunion, which each year draws more than 300 persons.

The church was originally built by Richard Taylor, son of the Rev. Mr. Howell Taylor, in 1826. The Rev. Mr. Taylor was its first pastor. Since that time, the church has been rebuilt twice and remodeled once, but still stands as the center of the Kinfolks Camp Meeting.

Three services were conducted at the church every day of the recent gathering of the kin. On Sunday, three special services were added: a morning "love feast," a christening service and a memorial service for the family's dead.

"Love feast is a service where we hear testimony about religious experiences of the family and the influence the family members have had on each other," says Mrs. Edmond W. Taylor, whose family lives in the "old home place" of the Taylor clan near Brownsville.

She and another in-law, Mrs. John Claiborne Thornton Jr. of Brownsville, compiled "Taylors of Tabernacle" from old wills, diaries and personal interviews with the family members.

The christening service is traditionally conducted by the leader of the clan, who is always the oldest minister in the family. This position was held for 57 years by the late Rev. Howell R. Taylor of Memphis. His successor is the Rev. Richard Thornton III of Covington, Tenn., a student at Southern Methodist University.

Tradition has such a strong hold on the family that it influences the naming of their young. Every generation has its Edmond or Edmund, Richard, Howell, John, Samuel, Allen, Ann Lewis and Judith – names shared with children of the first Rev. Mr. Taylor.

The cabins at Kinfolks meeting are relatively new. Family legend has it that the first one was built after the Civil War, but the traditions preserved in them are as old as the gathering of the kin.

When not in religious services, the kinfolks spend their time roving from cabin to cabin getting re-acquainted with relatives they have not seen since their last gathering.

They sit in dirt-floored breezeways or on cabin porches, drink coffee, eat cake and cheese, sing hymns around bonfires, swap family news and retell tales of their ancestors' antics.

"We've been telling these stories for as many years as we have been coming here, and are still laughing just as hard at them as we did the first time," says William Thornton of Brownsville, the "horn-blower" for the family.

It is his duty to wake the camp at 6:30 every morning and call them to religious services by blowing on the steer horn that has been in use for more years than he can remember.

Among the tales enjoyed by the family is one which has a favorite aunt who was accidentally locked out of the love feast. She angrily dragged a chair to an open window of the church, stuck her head in and shouted: "You may lock me out of the church but you can't lock me out of Heaven."

Two incentives for family members to vacation during the Kinfolks Camp Meeting is the fact that there is only one telephone on the knoll, and the wives do not cook or baby sit all week.

That is not to say the kinfolk do not eat well. There is always country ham, fried chicken, fresh peas, beans and tomatoes, corn bread, homemade cake and ice cream and other goodies. The cooking, though, is done by men and women who have worked for the families for decades, and in some cases for generations.

Young kinfolk, from infancy to young adulthood, find special treats at the gathering. They bathe in the communal bathhouse, make mud slides on rainy days and court in the family cemetery. Legend has it that no Taylor descendant will agree to marry unless the proposal is made in that cemetery. It is considered a good luck omen.

"The real test for a girl or boy you might be considering marrying is to bring them to camp meeting. If the courtship survives that, you'd better marry them," says Alsey Johnson of Somerville, Tenn., sixth generation Taylor descendant.

Many family members choose the Tabernacle Church for their weddings, although their homes may be as far away as Ohio. Mrs. Aileen Taylor Smith of Toronto, Ontario, tells of one kinsman whose fiancé's family was wary when she planned to marry at Tabernacle.

"They could just picture us as a bunch of rough, hill country people, but were won over and had a grand time when they came for the wedding," said the blond, Canadian TV personality.

The family says there have been only two divorces (none between members married at Tabernacle), no juvenile delinquency and no persons with criminal records in the clan for four generations. They firmly believe the religious training such as that of camp meeting is the reason.

While the Taylors of Tabernacle began as landed gentry of Virginia and England (they trace their lineage to English and Frankish kings) they are now a living example of the exodus from the farm. There are doctors, lawyers, stockbrokers, bankers, teachers, and actresses, civil servants, men of industry and commerce among them. But few farmers.

And, while Methodism was the predominant family religion in the 1800s, the family of the 1960s includes Baptists, Presbyterians, Catholics, Anglicans and Jews. About this, David Taylor of Memphis, who with his two sons composes one of the last groups of Taylors, says: "When you come to camp meeting, no one asks your religion".

"It was the one heavenly thought of his life to bring the children into the church. This is the great conservative element of human society, and a benediction to the world. (Richard Taylor) wanted his children's children and the children of his neighbors converted and brought into the Church to the remotest generation. To this end these services were instituted. While we gather here annually in tender recollection of our dead, and mingle our spirits with theirs, we should never lose sight of the pious and leading thought of Richard Taylor in originating this anniversary."

Rev. Robert Venable Taylor, 1880.

Kinfolk Meeting Starting Friday

Revival services will start Friday at Tabernacle Methodist Church for the 157th kinfolk meeting of the Taylor family and other members of the church. Again this year for the 7th time, Dr. J. Ellsworth Kalas of Cleveland Heights, Ohio, will conduct services.

Singing will be led by the veteran Wilson Mount assisted by Luke Churchill. Host pastor, the Rev. Rickey Pinkston, will preside over the 7:15 sunrise prayer service each morning, while Dr. Kalas will be in charge of the 10:45 a.m. and 7:45 p.m. church services. The "kinfolks" will enjoy dinner on the ground on Sunday when 1,000 copies of a second edition of "Taylors of Tabernacle" will be distributed.

A Memorial

The crack of the bat as a little leaguer hits his first home run, the zing of a tennis ball hit down the alley, the anticipation of a young hunter brushing his duck blind, the thrill of aiming a .22 at the flickering eyes of a raccoon high in a cypress tree, the voice on the PA system "Well, lets see where they mark the ball" –these experiences shared by Z with the young in heart are his memories.

He was essentially a friend; his friendships reflected the beauty of the out-of-doors, the excitement of friendly competition, and the duty to conform to the rules.

The personal life of L. Z. Hurley and his contributions to the community merit the honor of a lasting memorial.

Resolution

WHEREAS, during a lifetime there comes along a rare individual who devotes a large part of his life helping others; and,

WHEREAS, this individual gave of his valuable time and effort unsparingly to the athletic programs of the school systems of Haywood County, and,

WHEREAS, on almost every Thursday and Friday nights during the fall this fine man was found announcing at a high school football game; and,

WHEREAS, on a summer day he could be found tutoring and instructing youngsters in the art of some sport; and,

WHEREAS, during his younger years he officiated at many little league and basketball games; and,

WHEREAS, L. Z. Hurley's memory will live on and on in the hearts and minds of children and individuals he aided in their athletic pursuits; and

WHEREAS, God in his infinite wisdom called L. Z. home during his 56th year of life; and,

WHEREAS, many will sorely miss this unselfish and gentle man; and,

WHEREAS, it seems fitting to remember L. Z. Hurley, who devoted so much to the sport activities of our citizens.

NOW, THEREFORE, this Board of Commissioners goes on record to name the field located at Memorial Stadium, L. Z. Hurley Memorial Field.

This the 17th day of January 1983.

Dixon Hood
Chairman

From the Business Meeting of the 154th Assembly:

Memorials to Cousin Callie Johnson and L. Z. Hurley were included in the list of contributions. An expression of appreciation was given Edmond Taylor for the care given the cemetery.

Margaret Taylor expressed appreciation to all the campers for cooperation in making "Taylors of Tabernacle Volume II" a success. A balance of $1,007.45 will be held in the Historical Fund for use in the future.

Jack Horner will be asked to come as song leader in 1984 as Wilson Mount might not be able to attend as usual. Luke Churchill will come back as organist.

Bill Thornton, chairman of the Building Committee reported both bathhouses rebuilt, three new camp houses, two new kitchen rooms built and that there were requests for more houses but that there was no space left to build them. George Thornton resigned due to ill health. Richard Jamison was elected to replace him. John Sharpe was elected to replace L. Z. Hurley. The name of Richard Downing was suggested for future consideration. Others on the committee are: Alsey Mann and Nick Thornton.

Kinfolk Gathering At Tabernacle

Thirty-three cabins on the grounds of Tabernacle United Methodist Church will be filled with families for the 158th year when the annual Kinsfolk Camp Meeting begins Friday night, August 3, at the historic brick church. Campers will be there from throughout the U.S. and Canada.

Dr. Jack Hinton, noted preacher, who is district Superintendent of the Jackson District will be guest evangelist. Special music will be under the leadership of Mr. Jack Horner, minister of music at St. Luke's Methodist Church in Memphis, Mr. Wilson Mount of North Carolina, and Mr. Luke Churchill, Minister of Music at First United Methodist Church of Brownsville. Together they make congregational singing an art.

In a tradition of laying by crops, then coming together for worship and fellowship, "Camp Meeting" has been carefully nurtured by the families throughout the years.

Following the tradition begun many years ago, the Rev. J. R. Thornton, President of the Association summons his fellow campers to the services by blowing the old cow horn.

There will be Sunrise services each morning at 7:15 a.m. under the leadership of the local pastor, Rev. Richard Pinkston. Other services are at 10:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Special services on Sunday will be the Communion Service at the Sunrise hour. The Love Feast will be at 9:30 a.m. led by John O. Johnson. Christening the babies will be part of the 10:45 a.m. services. The Memorial Service in tribute to those who have died through the past year will be at 3:00 p.m. Sunday. There will be 9:30 a.m. services daily for the children and vespers each afternoon at five for the youth.

Camp meeting was begun in order that "My children's children and their friends might be nurtured and brought into the church." The families have continued this tradition and invite visitors to join them in worship and fellowship.

From the Business Meeting of the 158th Assembly:

Historical report – Margaret Taylor stated that 100 more books of Volume II of Taylors of Tabernacle were available at Averil's for any who wanted a copy at $20.00 each. Margaret also discussed a reprint of Volume I, so many had requested copies. She said the following plan was to use the diaries, omitting the pictures, genealogy, and recollections. Tom Thornton made the motion that the committee use the funds available in the Historical Fund to order as many copies of Vol. I –Revised as the fund afforded. The motion was seconded by Nick Thornton. The motion carried.

Tabernacle Memorial Fund –Mary Anne Carlton chairperson was unable to be present. Bill Thornton, in reporting for her said she had beautiful note paper with an ink drawing of our church drawn on the front and are for sale. He stated also that she does receive Memorial gifts at all times.

Bill Thornton reporting for the Building Committee stated that extensive electrical work had been done by T.V.A. to make camps free of fuses blowing and blackouts. The sewage drains repaired, trees trimmed and the white trim on the church painted. He stated that due to lack of space no more houses could be built. A request was made for more security lights on the campground. The matter was given to the Building Committee to be installed at their discretion. George Thornton pointed out that much of the topsoil was being carried off by too much raking and cleaning. He suggested campers pick up heavy trash but leave some leaves in the areas not used too much.

The treasurer was authorized to donate $200.00 to our mission gift to Malone Battle and $200.00 to Tabernacle Church to be used for any needy cause, this motion being made by Bill Thornton, seconded by Aileen Smith and approved by the body present.

An expression of appreciation was given to George and Bill for their care and responsibilities through the year.

Kinfolk Gather

Between 400 and 500 Taylor relatives are expected to fill the old Tabernacle Church's campground during the week of August 2 – 8, as Kinfolks' Camp Meeting draws her children home again.

Rev. Bob Spain of Brentwood will be the guest evangelist with Luke Churchill, Jack Horner and Wilson Mount in charge of the music. Rev. Richard Pinkston, pastor of Tabernacle United Methodist Church will conduct the Sunrise Prayer Meeting at 7:00 each morning. The annual Memorial Service honoring members of the family who have died since last camp meeting will be Sunday at 3 p.m.

From the Business Meeting of the 159th Meeting:

Building Committee – Bill Thornton reported that there were no new camps this year but several had done repair. He said there is no room for a new camp – if any one needs more room it will have to be a top story addition. He asked that each camp be responsible for cutting off the water to their house and open the faucets to avoid freezing this winter. He called attention to the new P.A. system in the church and said he hoped everybody could hear better. The local church paid for the new system.

Services: Sunrise 7:15 a.m.
Morning 10:45 a.m.
Evening 7:15 p.m.
Love Feast 9:30 a.m. – Sunday
Memorial Service 1:30 p.m. - Sunday

A new board to list the guest ministers was discussed and referred to the Building Committee. The Building Committee was also asked to investigate the possibility of putting up speakers outside the church. Campers were asked to keep the sawdust away from the trees and continue to preserve the topsoil by allowing the leaves to remain on the ground.

Following an expression of appreciation to everyone who contributes in any way to making the meeting the success and joy it is to us we adjourned to meet again on August 16, 1986.

Music Committee - Carolyn Sharp stated that we are all happy with the song leaders and organist, that we are fortunate to have such talented leaders. She recommends their return next year and that their pay remain the same. Emphasis was given to encourage the young people to go to the choir. It was suggested that :

9th grade and under make up the choir on Wednesday and Thursday a.m.

9th grade and above the evening services.

All campers were asked to encourage their young people to go to the choir and to show more respect for the worship services.

Children and Youth Program was reported by the leader, Sandra Williamson, who said 50 children of all ages attended daily. The treasurer was asked to pay her for any expense she may have had in regard to materials for their hard work, etc. Anne Price and Jerilyn Thornton were on the committee.

Tom Thornton volunteered to prepare a new plaque for listing past visiting ministers to our Camp Meeting. Any expense involved to be paid by the Historical Committee Treasury.

Building Committee – Bill Thornton reported on the new lights that had been put in the trees—much repair had been done in the shower houses—campers were urged to conserve on hot and cold water and electricity. Mr. Thornton suggested that guidelines of utilities use be established. He urged campers to remove the sawdust from their camp—please don't throw it around the trees. There is no more room for building, he states.

Dr. Joe Battle offered his services and talents to make a drawing of the cemetery, drawing by lots and writing in the names of the deceased, to be placed under glass and available to everybody to see and study. His offer was graciously accepted. A discussion followed in regard to speakers to be put up outside the church but no action was taken except that it was recommended professional advice be secured.

Two other matters were suggested from the floor:

1. Parents were asked to remind the children to help keep cans and paper picked up on the grounds.
2. It was suggested that soap dispensers and a hand dryer be put in the bathhouses.

There being no other business the meeting adjourned to meet again on August 12, 1987.

From the Commercial Appeal:

The gathering of the clan—the Taylor Clan, that is—for its annual camp meeting/family reunion/revival services begins August 7th this year and concludes August 13th.

The 161st family campground meeting will include the familiar faces of Wilson Mount, Jack Horner, and Luke Churchill directing the song services. The guest preacher for this year's services is Fred Craddock of Emory University's Candler School of Theology in Atlanta. Craddock, who is a native of Humboldt, Tennessee, has been at Candler since 1979. He is referred to by Princeton Theological Seminary Professor Tom Long as "the leader in the field of preaching in America today."

The Tabernacle Kinfolks' Campmeeting will open with the 7:30 p.m. worship service, August 7, with Craddock preaching. Services will be each day at 7:15 a.m., 10:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. The Annual Love Feast will be at 9:30 a.m. Sunday and the Memorial Service at 1:30 Sunday. The Reverend Jim Alford, local pastor, will conduct the morning prayer services at 7:15 a.m.

Dr Joe Richard Thornton, III, will preside over the meeting.

The telephone number at the campground is 772-5949.

From the Business Meeting of the 161st assembly:

Association treasurer Lois Young responded in reply to a request that there was no way to have hand dryers and soap dispensers in the bath houses. A paper towel holder was put up and is working nicely.

Children and Youth Committee report was given by the chairman Anne Price. She stated that seven young mothers contributed to the success of these groups which was evidenced on Thursday A.M. when the large group of children presented a program showing what they had learned. The "Taylor" chorus was an especially lovely and appreciated tribute to Camp Meeting.

Bill Thornton reported that he had received $3,000.00 in memorial gifts in memory of deceased family members. Mary Anne Carlton also reported receiving memorials and that designated funds from Tabernacle Memorial Fund are available upon request.

A motion made by Pattie Marie Crafton concerning member addresses was withdrawn.

Dr. Joe Battle reported the survey of the cemetery that he and his family had made was complete and ready for review or correction by Bill Thornton.

The speakers for use outside the church were brought up. Guilford Thornton said he would furnish the speakers. It was suggested that Paul Jackson be called in for advice. It was so ordered.

Building and Upkeep Committee members are:

Bill Thornton, Chm.	Roy Lane
Edmond Taylor	Richard Jameson
Nick Thornton	Rick Downing
John Sharpe	Tom Thornton

Bill told of the new Weddington camp and an addition to the Schottelkotte camp house. He said due to cold weather and poor draining that many pipes burst. The motion was duly made by Roy Lane, seconded and passed, that Bill have full authority to see that all repairs be made and be paid from the Association treasury. He made several requests of the campers:

1. Pick up your sawdust
2. Fix refrigerators so that doors won't close
3. Pick up bridges and put under cover.
4. No lumber in the dumpsters.

An expression of appreciation was given Bill for his concern and care by everyone present.

Under new business:

The motion was duly made, seconded and passed that a lock box be rented at the bank for storing to protect the many pictures Dr. John C. Thornton has taken through the years. Tom Thornton was appointed to make the arrangements, and the cost to be paid from the Perpetual Care Fund. It was so ordered.

The motion was duly made, seconded and passed that ushers be appointed for all the night services and the Sunday A.M. service. Myra Jo Hurley, a member of the Music Committee was asked to be responsible for appointing the ushers.

Another matter of concern to everybody on the grounds is the safety of the children. This concern was presented by Al Smith and his motion presented and passed said: "To close the road along the west side of the cemetery during the week of the meeting except for necessary trips or emergencies. Such barriers are to be "movable".

It's August, and the Taylors are Coming Home to Tennessee

Susan Ramey Wright
Progressive Farmer Magazine, August 1988

In 1826, Howell Taylor, a Methodist Episcopal minister and Virginia planter, followed his sons to the frontier in western Tennessee. The Taylors settled and built plantations in the fertile rolling hills near present-day Brownsville.

They also built a church, a place where they could practice their staunch Methodist faith.

From that family and that church grew a tradition. In the waning days of summer, after the vegetable crops were in and before the cotton was ready for harvest, a week-long revival, camp-meeting style, was held.

Today, descendants of Howell Taylor still come back home every August. They come from as near as just down the road and from as far as California and Canada. They come by the hundreds to worship their God, to revive their spirits, and to renew their sense of self.

Since the five sons of Howell Taylor also began a tradition of begetting daughters, not many of the descendants of the patriarch carry the Taylor name now.

But they still call themselves Taylor, an outward manifestation of an inner self-knowledge that runs deep and clear in this clan.

Camp meeting at Tabernacle Methodist Church has been held every August for more than 150 years—through war and peace, through prosperous times and poor. It has become much more than a religious revival, more even than a family reunion.

Members of this remarkable family are drawn home as the dog days of another Tennessee summer approach—pulled back by some innate need for nourishment of soul and self. The annual revival is as necessary to them as daily bread.

A strong bond exists among this family, almost as perceptible as the smoke drifting from the many camps that still use woodburning cookstoves. Some of the cooks hired for the week are descendants of former cooks, who taught them the traditional recipes and techniques of cooking on woodburning stoves.

Camp meeting lasts a week and centers around a weekend of rituals, many as old as camp meeting itself. Saturday morning begins with a "heritage walk." Adults gather the children into groups and tell them the traditional family stories while taking them through the cemetery.

There's not a child in the family over the age of eight who can't recite family stories, such as the one recounting how Richard Taylor shot the Yankee.

During the Civil War, two Union soldiers robbed Richard of $500. Later Richard and two other men tracked thieves down and shot and killed one of them.

When the deed was confessed to Yankee officers, Richard was absolved of guilt. John Taylor, Richard's son, writes in his diary: "My father did not get his money, though the commanding officers commended his act and honorably acquitted him."

The cemetery, where ancient oak and cedar trees spread their arms over the graves of Howell Taylor and his kin, is the center of the social life of camp meeting. It's where young folks court and children play. It's where the family visits its members who are no longer present in body.

One of the family traditions is that proposals of marriage are made in the cemetery during camp meeting. This is where Edmond Taylor asked Averil Crafton to be his bride. "How would you like to have Taylor on your tombstone?" Averil says he asked her.

Averil and Edmond are both in their eighties now. They live in the ancestral Taylor home, just down the dirt road from the cemetery, and farm some of the original Taylor land. The shotgun with which Richard Taylor shot the Yankee hangs over Averil's dining room door.

Edmond has lived in this house all his life and has never missed a camp meeting. Averil hasn't missed one since marrying Edmond in 1927. She says that when she took her wedding vows, the preacher asked, "Do you take this man and camp meeting?"

On Sunday, the revival climaxes in a day of emotional services. The Rev. Joe Thornton, the current president of the Kinfolks Association, opens with a prayer. "Lord, we thank you for the splendor of family," he intones, "and for traditions that are overwhelming."

The "Love Feast" is next. It's a time of sharing joys and sorrows of the past year. One by one, family members, young and old, stand and unburden their hearts before their Lord and their kin.

The testimonies are interrupted now and then by singing. The Taylors sing the old hymns, the ones their forebears sang, such as "Shall We Gather at the River" and "In the Sweet By and By." Some people laugh and some cry openly. Even a visitor is caught up in the emotions and touched by the strong unity of this family.

Then all the babies born since the last camp meeting are baptized, dressed in heirloom christening gowns. Joe Thornton takes joy in performing this task.

A visiting Methodist clergyman, reminiscent of the days of circuit-riding preachers, gives the sermon. Then everyone returns to his family's camp for dinner.

That afternoon, the church fills again for a solemn memorial service honoring family members who have died during the past year. Each lost loved one is paid a touching verbal tribute by a close relative.

For more than a century and a half, the history of this family has been faithfully passed on by word of mouth. And now it has been set down in writing, thanks to Averil's leadership.

"The Taylors of Tabernacle" is a fascinating compendium of Taylor lineage, taken mostly from diaries and letters. Averil made several trips to the family homeland in Virginia, persistently asking questions and digging into dusty old records.

Averil Taylor embodies the spirit that is legendary among Taylor women, whether born into the family or adopted into it by marriage.

It is said that the women are the strength of the family, the keepers and teachers of the traditions, the ones who instill in the children that compelling sense of self that draws them back to Tennessee every year in the August heat. And there they are nourished as they rejoice in reaffirming who they are.

From the States Graphic:

Kinfolks Return to Camp Meeting

The 162nd gathering of kinfolk will fill the cabins on the grounds around Tabernacle United Methodist church when the annual meeting begins Friday night, August 5th in the historic brick church.

Dr. Jack Hinton, noted preacher who is pastor of St. Luke's Methodist Church in Memphis, will be the guest evangelist. Special music will be under the leadership of Mr. Wilson Mount of North Carolina, Mr. Jack Horner, who is minister of music at St. Luke's in Memphis and Mr. Luke Churchill, minister of music at First United Methodist Church of Brownsville. Together they make congregational singing an art. "Camp Meeting" has been carefully nurtured by the families throughout the years.

Following the tradition, Dr. J. R. Thornton, President of the Association, summons his fellow worshipers to the services by blowing the old cow horn.

There will be sunrise services each morning at 7:15 a.m. with Rev. Jim Alford in charge. Other services are at 10:45 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. daily. Special services on Sunday will be the Communion Service at 7:15 a.m., and the Love Feast at 9:30 a.m. led by John O. Johnson.

All the new babies will be christened at the 10:45 service. The Memorial Service, a tribute to those who have died during the year will be at 2:00 p.m. Sunday. There will be 9:30 a.m. services daily for the children and vespers each afternoon at 5:00 for the youth.

The families have continued this tradition and invite visitors to join them in worship and fellowship.

The Cook's Nook

"This is a lonely place...., send the crowds away to go....
buy food for themselves."
Jesus said, "They need not go away;
you give them something to eat"
Matthew 14:15

Let's start with early morning smells. Wood smoke laces the early morning air. Coffee pots chuckle and tease with wafts of brewing coffee. Ovens gently steam forth the fine textured smell of browning biscuits and graham muffins. Stove top pots bubble hash aroma. Frying bacon tantalizes. And by the time prayer meeting is over, campers are ready to eat.

Land deeded to the church so that his descendants would know each other and worship together...that's how Tabernacle Kinfolks Camp Meeting began, one man who loved his family. And that is how it continues. The years have seen generations in tents and then rough board houses. Some of these rough houses now have bug-proof screens; some even are air-conditioned.

If an army moves on its stomach, would you say Camp Meeting continues at least in part on the well being of the digestive systems of its inhabitants? Most probably. When 500+ people from across the U. S. gather for a week, food is a necessity. And good cooking and good food are two of the most tangible assets.

Hostesses and cooks have their own followings. Each camp has its own traditions. Nothing but chicken hash served here. And over there, they prefer beef (with a bit of lamb) hash. And across that way, pancakes are a special favorite. Through the years clever children have had as many as three different breakfasts each day. You know, a fresh clean child sidling into the dining room simply must be invited to "Come on and sit down, and let us fix you a plate right here."

A gracious plenty planned for welcome family and guests. The food for the body is carefully prepared as is the nourishment for the mind and soul.

What a presentation. Nurturing for the soul, mind and body. Laughter, love, little children, music to make the very ground respond antiphonally to heaven, wisdom from family elders, family remembered, family anticipated. And preachers transponding terrestrial and celestial.

From the Business Meeting of the 162nd assembly:

Dr. Joe Thornton announced the resignation of Pansy McGlocklin as Secretary of the Association after many years of faithful service. He thanked her on behalf of the association and recommended that Nan Downing take over the job as secretary.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported new houses in 1988 for Virginia Ann Battle, and Alsey and Sue Johnson. Dr. Joe Battle and son were thanked for the directory map they made for the cemetery. Gates have been put at each entrance to the grounds to limit access during the year. They will remain locked when the meeting is not in session and members of this committee will each have a key. The county has agreed to re-ditch the south and west perimeter of the grounds to improve drainage. The expense of cutting dead trees on the grounds this year has been $2,200.00. Additional water cut-offs have been added this year to help when there is trouble with the plumbing. It is hoped that Winchester Plumbing can be put on retainer next year for the week of the meeting. Campers were asked that there be no burning of trash on the grounds and were asked to pick up sawdust before leaving.

Under new business:

Janet Lee suggested that we consider planting trees on the grounds as a memorial to loved ones and for the future of the campground.

Aileen Smith asked that as each of us closes up our camps for another year we stand back and take a close look at the scene. We want the grounds to look nice for those who come back.

Joe Thornton presented a proposal submitted by Susan Schottelkotte for a newsletter to be mailed in the summer. We were asked to submit a name and address for each camp. We were also asked to submit information and news to be included in this newsletter. A copy of this proposal is included in this record.

Margaret Taylor suggested we keep a running record of births, death, etc. Ben Sharpe will come up with a data gathering system before next year.

Betty Bellamy mentioned the maintenance of the bridges on the grounds. Joe Thornton asked each one to repair bridges leading to or near his own camp if possible. If maintenance or repair cannot be managed, the Building Committee should be contacted.

Patricia Herron told us about the local Volunteer Fire Department and made a motion that we consider making a donation. Aileen Smith seconded the motion and Tom Thornton suggested we donate $100.00. The motion was passed.

From the Business Meeting of the 163rd assembly:

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton distributed a Financial Report of the Tabernacle Church renovation project. He opened the floor for any questions on the project. A motion was made that Tabernacle Association accept the gift of $5,000.00 from the Historical Committee. Guilford Thornton seconded. Motion passed. Guilford Thornton made a motion that Tabernacle Campground Association give $10,000.00 to Tabernacle Church. Dr. John Thornton, Jr. seconded. Motion passed.

A suggestion was made that a plumber be put on retainer for the week of the meeting next year. Matilda Hughes asked if the campers should call the plumber individually or if they should contact the building committee. Bill Thornton said the campground is the responsibility of the Building and Grounds Committee but asked if that responsibility extends into each camp. Campers were asked to contact members of the committee if they have problems.

New Business: Joe Thornton expressed concern over security on the grounds in the evening. Eagle Lane volunteered to help with control of this problem.

Aileen Smith expressed her concern with parking on the road in front of the cemetery at night.

Ree Moses brought up the problem of young people congregating on the ball field at night and in the early morning. She said a curfew might solve this problem. Joe Thornton asked for discussion on this matter. He said he would appoint a committee to make a recommendation for control of the problem for next year. A mandate will be presented on the first night of the meeting next year.

Bill Thornton thanked Myra Jo Hurley for the flowers in the church. He asked that someone be in charge of coordinating memorial flowers for the next year. Nan Downing volunteered.

SERVICE OF DEDICATION for the RE-MODELED SANCTUARY
Tabernacle United Methodist Church
August 9, 1989

PRELUDE — Jack Horner and Luke Churchill

*CALL TO WORSHIP — Responsively

This is the day which the Lord has made; let us rejoice and be glad in it.
I WAS GLAD WHEN THEY SAID TO ME,
"LET US GO TO THE HOUSE OF THE LORD!"
This is none other than the house of God, and this is the gate to heaven.
BLESSED BE THE LORD;
MAY HIS GLORY FILL THE WHOLE EARTH!

*INVOCATION — Dr. Ellswoth Kalas

*HYMN — "A Mighty Fortress is Our God" — 82

*AFFIRMATION OF FAITH

I believe in God, the Father Almighty, Maker of heaven and earth; and in Jesus Christ, His only Son our Lord; who was conceived by the Holy Spirit, born of the Virgin Mary, suffered under Pontius Pilate, was crucified, dead, and buried; the third day He rose from the dead; He ascended into heaven, and sitteth at the right hand of God the Father Almighty; from thence ye shall come to judge the quick and the dead. I believe in the Holy Spirit; the holy catholic church; the communion of saints; the forgiveness of sins; the resurrection of the body; and the life everlasting. Amen.

*GLORIA PATRI

WELCOME — Rev. James Alford

PRAYER — Dr. Joseph Richard Thornton, III

SPECIAL MUSIC

THE SERMON — Bishop Ernest W. Newman

PRESENTATION OF SANCTUARY — Mr. Bill Thornton

PRAYER OF DEDICATION — The Congregation

We now, the people of this church and congregation, compassed about with a great cloud of witnesses, grateful for our heritage, sensible of the sacrifice of our fathers in the faith, confessing that apart from us their work cannot be made perfect, do dedicate ourselves anew to the worship and service of almighty God; through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen

HYMN — "And Are We Yet Alive"

And are we yet alive,
And see each other's face?
Glory and thanks to Jesus give,
For his almighty grace.

What troubles have we seen,
What mighty conflicts past,
Fightings without, and fears within,
Since we assembled last!

Yet out of all the Lord
Hath brought us by his love;
And still he doth his help afford,
And hides our life above.

Then let us make our boast
Of his redeeming power,
Which saves us to the uttermost,
Till we can sin no more.

Let us take up the cross,
Till we the crown obtain,
And gladly reckon all things loss,
So we may Jesus gain.

*THE BENEDICTION — Rev. Dossie Wheatley

From the Business Meeting of the 164th Assembly

Music Committee – Carolyn Sharpe suggested that as Luke Churchill and Jack Horner work so well together, they be asked to continue in the same capacities for 1991. Jack will be asked to be in charge of arranging for the solos. Wilson Mount will be invited to continue participating.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported that there have been no new buildings in the past year. There have been the usual problems and minimal expenses. There were new lights put on the trees on the north end of the area. The committee wished to thank Richard Jameson, John Mundy, Roy Lane, Eagle Lane and John Sharpe for the work they have done on the grounds. It was reported that efforts to get a plumber put on retainer for the week of the meeting were unsuccessful.

New Business:

Ree Moses thanked Eagle Lane for opening and closing the gates to the campground. She also thanked Joe Thornton and Richard Jameson for their help in reminding campers of the rules of the campground. Jerilyn Thornton suggested that more thought be put into programming for the young people. She suggested volleyball as an appropriate activity. She also suggested that parents with children in each age group be added to the committee along with some teenagers. Susan Sharpe said that the committee could add new members and make plans for next year. She suggested that the young people he included in the planning and implementation.

Guilford Thornton expressed concern about the poor participation in the morning prayer service. Susan Sharpe said that the pulpit committee should meet and discuss changes to be made.

Mary Lou Lane thanked Lois Young and Myra Jo Hurley for the availability of extra parking across the road. She said that "No Parking" signs need to be added to the east side of Tabernacle Road, adjacent to the grounds. Tom Thornton said that the congestion helps to slow down traffic and that the building committee would consider adding signage.

Corrine Lane made a motion that Sue Smith be reimbursed for the expense for the 1990 newsletter and to continue to be reimbursed annually. Sue Johnson suggested that these funds be taken from the Historical Committee's budget. Guilford Thornton seconded the motion. Motion passed.

From the Business Meeting of the 165th assembly:

Children and Youth – Dale McWilliams asked the Association to thank Jerilyn Thornton and Ann Price for their work on this committee. Aileen Smith said that she and Ginny Ree Snyder had been telling stories to the groups this year and asked for individuals to volunteer to tell a family story next year. Ann Price thanked everyone who had worked with the children and youth this year. Aileen made a motion that story sessions be included next year for Jr. High age children. Janet Lee seconded the motion. Motion passed. A request was made that the Heritage Walk be continued.

Pulpit Committee – Chairman Moe Cavin recommended that the salary for the preacher remain $1,000.00. Tom Currie offered his resignation from the Pulpit Committee and said he would like Emily Williams to take his place. The floor accepted the nomination. Bill Thornton offered his resignation from the Pulpit Committee and said he would like Perk Thornton to take his place. This nomination was also accepted by the floor. Other members of this committee are Susan Sharpe, Joe Thornton and Larry Humbert.

Building and Grounds – Tom Thornton reported that Meriweather and Don Willie have a new camp house and that Joe Crafton and Myra Jo Hurley have added a second story to their camp houses since last year. Tom also said there have been some problems with the gates around the campground. The Association agreed that the gates serve a purpose and should be left in place. Bill Thornton offered his resignation from the Building and Grounds committee. Joe Thornton thanked him for his service and asked the committee to come up with preparation plans for next year. Eagle Lane, Carl Thornton and Mike Parker were added as committee members. Richard Jameson suggested that the committee meet regularly in order to be more effective.

New Business:

Linda Lane asked if the dead tree in front of their camp is the responsibility of the individual or the Building and Grounds Committee. Tom Thornton said the cutting of trees has been the individual's responsibility. Aileen Smith suggested that the committee should make the decision to cut trees and see that it is taken care of. Joe Thornton asked the committee to consider a solution to this question for the good of the campground. Libba Claiborne said the Perpetual Care Fund should pay these expenses.

Joe Thornton said that recordings of the church services should be made. Margaret Taylor said we should consider making these recordings and make them available for purchase. Joe asked the Historical Committee to investigate the possibility of recording sermons. John O. Johnson made a motion that no audio or visual recordings be made during the Love Feast. Dorothy Walker seconded. Motion carried.

Tom Thornton thanked Edmond Taylor for his service to the cemetery in the past.

Sue Schottelkotte will be reimbursed for the cost of the Camp Meeting Chronicle.

Dale McWilliams asked that the association consider padding the remaining pews in the sanctuary. She also suggested that a plan be put in motion to obtain pew bibles for Tabernacle Church. She will take the responsibility for implementation. Dale was asked to chair this committee and will have a recommendation for the association at the 1992 business meeting.

From the Business Meeting of the 166th assembly:

Old Business – On the subject of pew bibles, Dale McWilliams said she understood the need for additional hymnals was greater. Bill Thornton said the church has 50 new hymnals.

Tom said the new padding on the pews was given by Mr. and Mrs. Joe Crafton and Second Presbyterian Church in Memphis. The church wished to thank them for the donation.

Margaret Taylor said the taping of sermons can be accomplished with existing equipment and a tape recorder. Jim Young suggested this be done with an expenditure of up to $200.00. Guilford Thornton seconded the motion and motion passed.

Tom said the decision had been made by the Building and Grounds committee that the trees on the grounds are not the responsibility of the Association. Corrinne Lane made a motion that the trees be assessed by a professional. The motion was seconded by Mary Lou Lane and passed. Roy and Eagle Lane agreed to make an assessment of the condition of the trees on the grounds. Richard Jameson made a motion that no tree be cut without prior approval of the Building and Grounds committee. A second was made by Guilford Thornton and the motion passed.

Children and Youth – Ann Price expressed the committee's thanks to the volunteer story tellers who worked with the children's program. In particular she thanked Jane Jameson for story, Jerilyn Thornton for directing the pageant and Will Allen Weddington for the youth meetings.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported that the Corrinne Lane and Rick Currie families have a new camp house, Emily Williams moved half of the former house and the Edmond Taylor house has an addition with a double deck.

New Business – Mary Lou Lane asked that a coordinated approach be taken for clean-up of the lower bath house with one group taking morning shift and another evening.

Ruth Harmon asked members of the association to personally thank Haywood County and Jerry Stoots for their help with getting the campground ready for the meeting.

A suggestion was made that the Camp Meeting Chronicle not be mailed but be picked up when we meet in 1993.

Joe Crafton expressed concern over the electrical situation on the campground. He suggested that an effort be made to upgrade the system in the coming years. The members of the association agreed that they want rules governing the campground concerning usage of electricity to be made and executed by the Building and Grounds committee.

Several comments prompted a discussion of the existing bathhouses. Tom Thornton made a motion that no more than $5,000.00 be spent to improve the shower houses based on recommendations from the users. Mary Lou Lane seconded the motion. Blaine Cavena amended the motion by suggesting that up to $10,000.00 be spent to upgrade the shower houses by 1993. He was seconded by Gail Smith and the motion and the amendment passed. Susan Thornton made a motion that if there is an over-run in the cost, the association will agree at the 1993 meeting to cover the overage or assess each camp for the additional money. The motion was seconded by Blaine Cavena and passed.

From the Business Meeting of the 167th Assembly:

Music Committee – The committee suggested that the piano be tuned and that the organ be checked before each August meeting.

Pattie Marie Crafton made a motion that the Association send fruit or a plant to Wilson Mount. A second was made by Mary Ann Shaw and the motion passed. A card with everyone's signature and a copy of the newsletter will also be sent.

Children and Youth – Ann Price expressed her thanks to these volunteers: Jerilyn Thornton, director of the "King's Kid's" dramas, and Mary Cavena, Amy Harris, Anne Elizabeth Bishop, Suzanna Taylor Lipinski and Marcie Jameson for "The Last Supper" and Portraits of Christ presentations. She also wished to thank Nick and Jerilyn Thornton for the video equipment. Corrinne Lane expressed everyone's thanks to the committee for a job well done.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported that there were no new rooms or camps built during the year. There is a new well for the lower camp. The $2,000.00 cost was paid by the Perpetual Care fund. It supplies the new shower house and the houses from the Lane camp around to the Harriet Jameson camp.

He reported that a tree on the north side of the cemetery gate fell and caused some damage. The iron fence and brick pillars were repaired and the cost has been paid in full. Sections for the new fence were bought in 62 sections at $300.00 a piece. This expense has been paid in full also. There is a plaque on the wall in the church listing the donors. Several camps have installed their own electrical meters. Further upgrading of the electrical system will be done. Some wires have been moved to balance the existing boxes.

Tom reported that South Central Bell took out the campground telephone due to their $7.00 a day minimum requirement. He said John Sharpe felt we could get it back through the Public Service Commission.

The new shower house and the renovation of the old shower house have been completed and the cost is paid in full.

The committee asked campers who intend to add a hot water heater or air conditioner to gain approval from the Building and Grounds committee unless they have their own electrical meter.

The committee feels that trees on the campground are not the responsibility of the Campground Association. The committee will study the subject and take appropriate action.

New Business – Bill Thornton made a report on research he had done on the subject of a telephone for the campground. A motion was made that Ellis Taylor and Guilford Thornton make arrangements for a phone for the 1994 meeting. The motion was seconded and passed.

From the Business Meeting of the 168th assembly:

Music Committee – David King said that tapes of Wilson Mount singing are available for $5.00. Proceeds will go to the fund of the association's choice. The question of whether to continue to house and transport Wilson was brought up. John Sharpe said his family is glad to continue to do so. Joe recommended that the music committee make a decision on this matter.

Children and Youth – Nancy Weddington and her crew were thanked for their efforts with the children's morning meeting. The "Market Place" was a great success. Tom Thornton said that Sandra Williamson wishes to resign from the Children and Youth Committee. Susan Sharpe nominated Mary Lewis Tims to replace her. The nomination was accepted by acclamation.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported several additions and renovations on the campground. Moe Cavin built a second story and re-worked the kitchen. The Joe Thornton camp repaired a room and the Bobbie Simmons camp added three rooms on top of two. This work was all done with the approval of the Building and Grounds Committee. Joe Crafton and Guilford Thornton installed their own electrical meter. Richard Jameson removed some trees with the approval of the committee.

Tom Thornton reported on the August 9th meeting of the committee concerning a letter received from the Lane-Turner camp. The subject was the large oak tree in front of their camp. A suggestion was made by the committee that each adjacent camp and the Campground Association pay an equal amount (1/4) for the removal of the tree. Such a motion was made by Moe Cavin and seconded by Pattie Marie Crafton. The motion passed. The committee will continue to consider each subsequent case of tree removal and will consider size, cost and location. Bill Harmon suggested an assessment per year, per camp for care of the trees on the grounds. Joe asked the committee to consider the suggestion. Tom Thornton stated that the decision to cut trees is up to the Building and Grounds Committee. Eagle Lane offered to have the trees inspected by the Forestry Department and to have them marked for attention with yellow and red ribbon.

New Business

The appreciation of the association was expressed to Eagle Lane for his help with security on the campground.

From the Business Meeting of the 169th assembly:

Historical Committee – Margaret Taylor said that we should be recording information for a future Volume III of "The Taylors of Tabernacle". Since Volume II was published in 1983, the group thought it was too soon to publish another book. An interest was expressed in continuing to update the genealogy. A computer generated, soft bound book of just genealogy was suggested as a possibility. Joe asked the committee to investigate the cost and options for such a publication. There are 2 1/2 cases of Volume I, revised, available; and none of Volume II.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton expressed the Association's thanks to Bill Thornton for his work throughout the year. The committee was urged to participate more in the general upkeep of the building and grounds.

The committee received a letter from the Harmon Camp requesting permission to remove the white oak tree between their camp and the Robert Earl Thornton camp. The committee decided to allow them to remove the tree at their expense. The Chapman Camp will remove the dead ash tree behind their camp and share the expense with the Willie camp.

The committee reminded the members of the association that dogs and bicycles are not allowed on the grounds. Water balloons are also outlawed.

Joe Thornton expressed the Association's thanks to the committee.

New Business – Sally Cavin asked who is responsible for the expense of the removal of trees on the grounds. The Building and Grounds Committee is of the opinion that the Campground Association should not pay for the removal of trees. Each camp should pay and make arrangements for financial help with adjacent camps. The association will pay for the removal of trees in the common areas. Joe put the question of tree removal before the members of the association. It was decided to rule on this issue by vote per kitchen in 1996.

Bill Thornton asked the group to consider having an organized clean up day for all camps before the 1996 assembly. Mary Ann Shaw made a motion that a clean up day be held before Mother's Day. Tom Thornton seconded the motion. The motion did not carry.

Richard Carlton suggested that the association establish an archives fund to ensure that Dr. John Thornton, Jr. pictures will continue. Claiborne Thornton said Dr. John gave the slide projector and screen to the Camp Ground Association. Macon Thornton said that the family will continue to take pictures.

David Smith nominated Aileen Taylor Smith to replace Edmond Taylor on the Tabernacle Cemetery Committee. The nomination was accepted by acclamation.

From the Business Meeting of the 170th assembly:

Historical Committee - Margaret Taylor nominated Susan Thornton to be a member of this committee. The nomination was seconded by Perk Thornton and carried by acclamation. The committee will meet and pursue the publication of a volume to update the genealogy.

Music Committee – Myra Jo Hurley reported that Luke Churchill, Jack Horner, and Jay Walker will be asked to return in 1997.

Pulpit Committee – Moe Cavin, chairman, was not present at the assembly. Joe said he will confer with him following the meeting and asked Carol Cavin to sit on the committee in Moe's absence.

1997 Leonard Sweet
1998 Ellsworth Kalas
1999 Kenneth Carder

Joe Thornton also asked members of the committee to solicit opinions from the campers about inviting a female evangelist.

Building and Grounds – Tom Thornton handed out lists which divide cabins into two sections. Specific committee members are responsible for each list. Campers are to call on those designated members only when problems arise with the buildings and grounds. The entire committee will continue to consider decisions concerning the campground and buildings.

Ree Moses asked the committee to consider doubling the width of the entrance to parking on the ball field. They will consider this request.

Corrinne Lane asked that the association continue to provide upgrades necessary to maintain fundamental services to each camp. Any camp requiring additional services should obtain its own meter.

As to the issue of tree removal on the grounds, Perk Thornton made a motion that the committee maintain its position as of 1995 on this matter. As stated, each camp will be responsible for the removal of dead or diseased trees in its own area pending approval by the Building and Grounds Committee. The motion was seconded by Richard Jameson and carried.

21. Marion Thornton Camp
22. Alex Claiborne Camp
23. Paul Battle Camp (private meter)

Please call on the Committee Members above if you have a problem with your water, sewage, or electrical supply. If your problem is in your own house (not the fault of the main systems) call a plumber or electrician. Trouble inside your own camp is not the responsibility of the Building Committee.

TOM THORNTON, RICK DOWNING, MIKE PARKER, AND CARL THORNTON are the Building Committee Members responsible for the following areas:

Water and Electrical

1. Williamson Camp
2. Weddington Camp
3. John Thornton Camp
4. Bill Thornton Camp

20. Ross/Willie Camp (private meter)
21. Schottelkotte Camp (private meter)

The above Committee Members will be glad to help the above with their water, sewage, and electrical supplies. As on the first page, problems inside your own camps are not the responsibility of the Building Committee.

The Building Committee would like to remind all camps that the Campground Association has prohibited the installation of any new air conditioners, electric stove, electric water heaters, or microwave ovens unless you have a private electric meter. All construction and tree cutting must have the prior approval of the Committee. We would like to remind everybody that after many years of faithful service, Bill Thornton resigned from the Building Committee. Please do not call on him until you have tried to reach every member of the Committee. Thanks for your cooperation.

From the Business Meeting of the 171st Assembly:

Historical Committee – David Smith said the committee would like to begin work on Volume III of The Taylors of Tabernacle with distribution of the book in 2000. He asked the membership to help with the contribution of letters, etc. Ann Price nominated Sue Schottelkotte and Blaine Cavena to be added to this committee. The nomination was seconded by Ginger Hathcock and carried by acclamation. The membership was asked to continue to submit information to Sue Schottelkotte for the newsletter.

Music Committee – Myra Jo Hurley announced that Luke Churchill will retire as organist after 1997. Luke has served Tabernacle Camp Meeting for 25 years. Joe thanked the Steve Winwood family for the donation of 250 Cokesbury Hymnals to Tabernacle Church.

Pulpit Committee – Joe Thornton asked Jim Young to research obtaining a speaker for the annex. He empowered the association treasurer to pay for these if purchased. Joe announced that the committee had decided not to continue to tie the selection of the minister to a cycle of every three years.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported the Edmond Taylor Camp has a new electrical meter, the Joe and George Thornton Camp renovated the kitchen, and the Sorrelle/Mayer Camp built a kitchen and dining room.

Tom also asked that campers call only on their own committee people with questions or problems. He asked that we be good neighbors when we do clean up and dispose of trash and leaves. Joe Thornton suggested that the committee post a map with directions to the local landfill by July 1, 1998. Emily Williams suggested the information be put in the newsletter.

New Business – Sorrelle Mayer made a motion that each camp have a fire extinguisher. After a discussion the motion was withdrawn.

Macon Thornton asked that any donations to benefit the slides presentation be made to the Historical Committee.

From the Business Meeting of the 172nd assembly:

Music Committee – Myra Jo Hurley reported that Luke Churchill played the organ through the weekend and Ronnie Richards played for the night services the rest of the week.

Children and Youth Committee – Libby Kendrick reported that over 75 children are involved in this year's programming. She said they had fun, educational things to do every day. She expressed the group's thanks to all the teachers and volunteers.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported that Bill Thornton and Robert Earl Thornton cleaned up the ice storm damage. The Lynn Shaw and the John Sharpe camps have new electric meters. John Sharpe and Tom Thornton added rooms. Ginger Hathcock bought Emily Williams' cabin.

Tom asked that campers use the dumpsters for trash only. They are not to be used for mattresses, appliances or leaves and limbs.

New Business – Matthew Thornton asked the association to investigate the planting of trees on the property that will be used for future expansion of the grounds. Joe Thornton asked Matthew to chair a committee concerning the future of the Campground. Those interested in serving on the Visioning and Futurist Committee should contact Matthew.

Guilford Thornton raised concern about the big tree in the parking lot of the church. Perk Thornton said the tree is the property of Tabernacle Church. Becky Parker said the membership of the church had voted and the decision on the fate of the tree is on hold for the present time. Joe said the Campground Association will help financially with any measures taken to help save the tree. Libba Claiborne said the Cemetery Fund could help also.

Perk Thornton asked the association to consider changing the date for the start of Camp Meeting. Joe said the date must remain the same through 2001 because of commitments with ministers. He suggested the issue of change be given to Matthew's committee for consideration.

The issue of expense for removal of diseased or dead trees was discussed. A motion was made and seconded that all trees be the responsibility of the Campgound Association. The motion passed. This will change the ruling made in 1996. Joe said an assessment may be necessary to cover this expense. Joe suggested that Matthew's committee handle the tree issue and that Emily Williams be added to the committee to provide guidance. Those selected to serve on the Visioning and Futurist Committee are Emily Williams, Michael Nicholas, Blaine Cavena, Amy Martinez, Julie Taylor Miller, Tracy Hathcock, Gina Thornton, Ralph Williams, Susan Nicholas, Anna Parker and Matthew Thornton.

Margaret Taylor said plans are in motion for publishing Volume III of The Taylors of Tabernacle. She said that input from members of the association is essential.

From the Business Meeting of the 173rd assembly:

Historical Committee – Susan Thornton said Volume III of The Taylors of Tabernacle will be published when a body of data is gathered. No specific date has been set. Please submit information about birth, death, marriage or divorce to Blaine Cavena. Send other documents to Susan Thornton. Include information that will capture Camp Meeting from the turn of the century to the present. Even "one liners" are of value to the record of our history. The need to replace the Historical marker that was at Highway 79 and Tabernacle Road was mentioned. Libba Claiborne, David Smith and Joe Thornton will take care of this.

Children and Youth Committee – Ann Price expressed the association's thanks to the Harmon Camp, Nancy Weddington and crew and the 5 o'clock service crew for planning the programs for the young people.

Tabernacle Cemetery and Perpetual Care Committee – Libba Claiborne reported that Jay Kendrick had been doing some work on the damaged stones in the cemetery. Walter Walker asked that the committee take a look at doing things that prevent damage. Libba said that John Sharpe, Jr. continues to make a yearly assessment and that the trustees will do everything possible to see that all stones are safe.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton reported that the Louis Walker Camp and the Harbert Thornton Camp have new electric meters. The committee recommends that everyone make an effort to conserve water. Tom thanked committee members John Sharpe, Eagle Lane and Jay Kendrick for their help throughout the year. He also expressed our appreciation to the Mike Parker family for being in charge of the Preacher's Cabin and Ann Thornton for the singer's cabin. Tom also reminded campers to haul their leaves off the grounds; do not burn. Be sure to accompany your clean-up crew to avoid mishandling of debris.

New Business – Richard Jameson was elected to replace Billy Jameson on the Cemetery Committee. Martha Sharpe will replace Ben Sharpe as Trustee.

Joe Thornton proposed that we start Camp Meeting on July 14, 2000, due to the school calendar. He has contacted Dr. Kalas and he will be able to change his schedule to accommodate this. We will treat 2000 as a transition year and not lock in to this date for the future. The association will study the situation further to arrive at a permanent date. A motion was made to this effect and seconded. The motion passed. Leonard Sweet is scheduled for 2001.

Joe made a motion that the association will assess the trees on the common areas of the grounds and decide which ones are dangerous and have to come down. The association will pay this expense. Campers are responsible for the upkeep of trees in their own areas with approval of the Building and Grounds committee. This motion was seconded and passed. Joe said the association will also replace trees in the common areas. He suggested that we may need a sub-committee of the Building and Grounds committee to study the feasibility of a maintenance account funded by an assessment to cover these costs. This committee would create a planting campaign in neutral areas to replace the trees that are cut.

From the Commercial Appeal:

Relation, Religion Tie These Campers
By David Waters

TABERNACLE, TENN.

Rev. Howell Taylor's great-great-great-great grandson stood at the altar and asked a question. For the Taylors of the Tabernacle community, the question is an heirloom. So is the answer. "Do you hold Christ as your Lord and personal savior?" asked Rev. Joe Thornton III. The kin-filled congregation murmured affirmatively. "That's not good enough," Thornton chided before the people, his people, responded with a loud "I do!"

"It's like asking you your name". Or your great-great-great-great grandfather's name, he could have added.

Hundreds of Taylor's descendants are gathering here this week for the 174th annual Taylor "Kinfoks" Camp Meeting. It's one of the few remnants of the frontier camp meetings of the early 19th Century, the open-air, backwoods religious revivals that went on for days. The Taylor Camp Meeting is a seven-day revival, family reunion and heritage festival held each summer on the land Taylor and his five sons settled in the 1820's.

"They were Methodists of the early type," Sarah Madison Taylor Johnson wrote about Taylor and his sons in her diary in 1866. "They loved to read the bible, to pray in the closet and in the family, loved to attend the preaching of the gospel." There aren't many closets here at the Taylor camp-ground at Tabernacle Methodist Church, about 60 miles northeast of Memphis. But there is plenty of Bible reading, gospel preaching, and so much family you feel like you're walking through the "begets" in the book of Numbers.

This family gathering was begotten by Howell Taylor, a frontier farmer and preacher whose "venerable look and thoughtful words made him at once a standing rebuke to all levity and lewdness," according to the diary of his grandson, John A. Taylor. Howell Taylor, a descendant of King Edward I, begot Richard Taylor, who built Tabernacle church in 1826 and started the family's annual camp meeting.

Richard Taylor begot Joseph Taylor, who begot Ruth Taylor, who married a Thornton, and the family tree sprouted another branch. Joseph and Ruth Thornton begot Joseph Thornton Jr., who begotten Rev. Joe Thornton III, 61, Sunday's minister and the camp meeting's president since 1967.

Everyone who goes to camp meeting isn't blood relation, but everyone is related "in the blood."

Sure, campers play games, roast marshmallows, sit on porch swings, and stroll through the family cemetery. They eat vegetables, swap stories and sing. Mostly, though, they pray and worship together. The old Tabernacle church, built on a hill south of the south fork of the Forked Deer River, is the focal point of each day's activities. There are three worship services a day, five on Sunday.

"The kinship here is the Spirit," said Becky Duffey Thornton, who met husband Joe at the camp meeting 47 years ago.

The first thing Richard Taylor did when he settled here was build that church. He wanted his children's children and all the generations to know each other not only as kin but as brothers and sisters in the faith and nothing has changed since Howell Taylor brought his religious traditions and zeal from Virginia to western Tennessee.

In the old days, campers hitched horses, pitched tents, lit candles and prayed for a cool breeze. Now they come in cars, sleep in cabins, and plug in lights, fans and air-conditioners. Campers used to come and stay the week, now, many come and go through the week.

America's modern and mobile society has caused folks to make a few adjustments at Tabernacle, but the basics stand on solid ground. Each year, elders lead youngsters on a "Heritage Walk" through the old cemetery. Campers light candles in memory of family members who died. They dedicate the family's newest members to God. And, at the annual "Love Feast," they stand up and thank God for the blessings of the past year.

None forget the blessings of the past 174 years.

"Thank God their influence survives them," Sarah Madison Taylor Johnson wrote about the founders in 1866. "Their descendants, almost without exception, are following in their footsteps, though perhaps not as freely or fully as the sainted dead would have them.

Yet they are most all Christians and members of the church of their fathers and mothers."

From the Business Meeting of the 174th assembly:

Historical Committee – Margaret Taylor expressed the members thanks to Sue Schottelkotte and Al Smith for compiling and printing the Tabernacle Telegraph.

Children and Youth Committee – Nancy Weddington reported that about 65 children participated in the children's meetings. Lea Thornton conducted a contemporary worship service for the youth, which was successful. This service will be continued in the future.

Pulpit Committee – Perk Thornton said his committee has a tentative commitment from Dr. Kalas for 2003. Leonard Sweet will be here in 2001. They are in the process of considering several ministers for the future. On the list are Will Willomen , Tom Long, Jessica Farris Moffatt, Fred Craddock, and Chris Andrews. They would like to set the dates for Camp Meeting through 2005 to facilitate their scheduling. A motion was made that the following dates be set:

July 13-19 2001	July 16-22 2004
July 12-18 2002	July 15-21 2005
July 18-24 2003

With this schedule, Camp Meeting will start on the Friday closest to the 15th of July. The motion was seconded and passed. (28 for/1 against). Will Allen Weddington voiced his opposition to female ministers with John O. Johnson standing with him. Rev. Gina Thornton asked us to remember that believers must remain united.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton said Matilda Hughes has a new electric meter. He thanked Eagle Lane for his persistence in trying to fix the electrical problem. He encouraged individual camps to get their own meters. He asked that campers put requests in writing to give to him if you have issues needing to be addressed.

John O. Johnson asked about the possibility of getting the camps hooked up to natural gas. John Sharpe said that is not feasible due to liability. Perk Thornton wished to address cars parking along Tabernacle Road. He said it is a 2-lane, county road. Cars parked along the side are dangerous. Please do not park on Tabernacle Road. He also reminded that each camp should have a fire extinguisher.

New Business

Ree Moses suggested we consider not having one minister preach all services for Camp Meeting.

Susan Thornton expressed thanks to Blaine Cavena for the input of the genealogy into the computer. The volume of genealogy will be available next year. Volume III of The Taylors of Tabernacle will be published when enough material is gathered.

Tracy Hathcock spoke for the Future Planning Committee. They would like feedback from the Contemporary Worship Service. The other members of this committee are Emily Huie, Michael Nicholas, Blaine Cavena, Amy Martinez, Julie Taylor Miller, Tracy Hathcock, Gina Thornton, Ralph Williams, Susan Nicholas Dennis, Anna Parker Green, and Matthew Thornton.

From the Business Meeting of the 175th assembly:

Historical Committee – Margaret Taylor told the assembly that the deadline for submitting genealogy and text for Volume III of The Taylors of Tabernacle will be camp meeting 2002. Susan Thornton will collect this information. A motion was made that the Historical Committee continue to fund the publishing of the Tabernacle Telegraph. The motion passed. The committee would like to see each camp make a donation of $20.00 to the Historical Committee fund.

Music committee – Myra Jo Hurley reported that her committee rented the organ for use during the meeting. She said Jay Walker, Jeff Binford and Jack Horner will be asked to return in 2002.

Children and Youth Committee – Joe Thornton would like for Nancy Weddington and Robert Price to be co-chairmen of this committee.

Robert agreed to serve and Joe said he will ask Nancy to serve. The other members of this committee are Jerilyn Thornton, Dale McWilliams and Mary Lewis Tims.

Pulpit Committee – Perk Thornton made a motion that the Association permanently set the date for Camp Meeting on the Friday closest to the 15th of July. The motion was seconded and passed. Bishop William Morris will be with us in July 2002 and will remain through Tuesday. Reverend Rosemary Brown will be with us on Wednesday and Thursday. Dr. Kalas will return in 2003. Please contact the committee if you have any input regarding the ministers.

Tabernacle Cemetery and Perpetual Care Committee – Libba Claiborne reported she had consulted with a monument company in Memphis. She was told that old head stones should not be cleaned as they will weaken. They should be allowed to form a protective skin. Tom Thornton said he will attempt to have the wrought iron fence extended on the south end of the cemetery.

Building and Grounds Committee – Tom Thornton said there had been an increase in private electric meters on the campground with at least 6 new ones added in the last year. We now have a total of 24. A tree was cut on the grounds without the permission of the Building and Grounds committee. Joe said he will write a letter to those who did so and remind them of the rule. Tom asked all campers to conserve water.

Future Planning Committee – Matthew Thornton asked that Lea Thornton and Anna Thornton be added to this committee. Matthew said the focus of the committee's discussion was the long term survival and growth of Tabernacle Camp Meeting. They welcome all comments from the membership. The key issue under discussion is expansion. They will have a report on this in 2002.

New Business – Joe Thornton asked the membership if Wednesday isn't too late in the week to hold the business meeting. A motion was made and seconded that the business meeting be held on Tuesday of Camp Meeting. An amendment was made and seconded that it be held on Monday. The amended motion passed.

Jay Kendrick was nominated to replace Jimmy Simmons on the Tabernacle Cemetery Fund Committee. The nomination was seconded and passed by acclamation.

Jim Young asked for volunteers to help with the taping of services. Money is needed to purchase equipment to duplicate tapes. Rev. Jolinne Balentine estimates a set of 6 tapes will cost $19.00.

Taylor Made

For 177 years, 500 Taylors and their kin have come together to spend a week in Haywood County.

By Lea Schneider (The Jackson Sun), July 2003

"The meeting has been going on ever since I last wrote. We have had 22 conversions, the rain broke us up today."

-Adelaide Taylor
1865 Diary about Tabernacle Church

As dusk settled over Tabernacle in Haywood County, stomachs were full; tables that groaned with fried chicken had been cleared; the Lord had been praised; the children were at play in the cemetery and all was right with the world.

Some say it is the longest running revival in the United States and others say it is the longest running family reunion. Either way, when the Taylor kinsfolk met this year, for the 177th time, there was praying and eating and visiting on the same ground where their ancestors ate and prayed and visited.

Begun with a log cabin, the Tabernacle community came to life when Reverend Howell Taylor led his five sons from eastern Virginia to Haywood County in 1826.

Today, families come from far and near to this sacred ground. A graveyard full of relatives, a quaint Methodist church, plenty of space to play and a slew of rustic cypress cabins encircling a couple of bathhouses comprise the camp.

"Talk about Roots! It is roots and it is important because of my kids and grandkids. You have got to come back here to get that food and that fellowship," said John O. Johnson, a Haywood County farmer. This year, three of his four grown children and seven of his eight grandchildren made the trip to camp.

"I don't know anywhere else you can turn a 4-year-old loose and not worry about them. This is where the kids can play kick the can at night and go up into the graveyard."

Meeting with the Lord since 1826

"He wanted his children's children and the children of his neighbors converted and brought into the Church to the remotest generation. To this end, these services were instituted," wrote the Rev. Robert Venabel Taylor (1855 to 1919) about his grandfather, Howell Taylor's wishes that the annual meetings be continued.

Packing some food, the Taylor kinfolk would come to Tabernacle Church for a two-day camp meeting. After several years of traveling some distance, one family built a cabin near the church and the camp was born.

"Family and faith find their cohesion. Every time I come back, this is a revival time for me to focus n that dynamic," Joe Thornton said. Thornton, the vice president of enrollment management, vice president of church relations and chaplain at Lambuth University in Jackson, has served his family as the President of the Kinsfolk Association, the governing body of the camp since 1966.

"It is neat to know my extended family on my father's side. I want to keep the tradition going and make sure that we come here every year," said Cydnie Thornton Randow as she took a break from a ping-pong game against her husband, Brad Randow, Sr. Between points, they chase their toddler, Ben Jr. The family lives in Charleston, S.C.

As an in-law, Ben Sr. has attended camp eight years with Cydnie.

"The first time, it was pretty overwhelming. They are outgoing, and I soon felt at home. I felt it was so special, and now it has become a priority to bring my son," Ben Sr. said.

Dr. Sue Johnson was overwhelmed the first time she saw the camp on a bleak November day. The now-retired family physician was given a tour in the 1950s by her sweetheart and later husband, Alsey Johnson, a Taylor kin.

"I thought, 'How do people leave their nice homes and come here?' And I could not understand it," she said, shaking her head.

When her husband left for an overseas teaching assignment, she was invited out to join her new kinfolk, and she dreaded going.

"I got out here, and I had the most wonderful time. I slept on a bed of straw, and I stayed up half the night talking and I did not want to leave. I was hooked from the very first time," she said. She has been coming to the Currie/Johnson Camp, established in 1899, for 44 years.

"There is no way to actually tell you the extreme value of stumping your toe on the roots of these trees while you play with your cousins," she said.

"It is a great comfort to know where I came from, and all of my family are buried here so I know where I am going," said Sue's son, John M. Johnson, and attorney from Birmingham, Ala., as he sat near her on the porch of their camp, sending e-mails with his cell phone.

Fried Chicken and Cheese Grits

As suppertime draws near, the smell of fried chicken and casseroles curls about the old oaks. With some 500 campers, a mess of food needs to be prepared, and each camp hostess feeds her own crowd.

At the Shaw Cabin, porch swings are moving back and forth under a paddle fan while family members of Mary Ann Shaw, a Haywood High School English teacher, wait for the dinner bell. The camp cabin, consisting of a dining room, one tiny bedroom and an even tinier rustic kitchen, is built out of red gum with solid walls halfway up and a wire screen covering the top half. The vented rooms let the in the air but keep out the critters.

The long red tablecloth is covered with dishes for 12 – the must-have fried chicken, creamed fresh corn, squash casserole, cheese grits, pasta salad, cheese potatoes, black-eyed peas, rolls, sliced tomatoes, pickles, chess pie and sweet tea.

"I have to plan lunch and dinner for seven days," Shaw said. She visits the Farmer's Market in Jackson, freezes food, and makes use of fresh produce people bring her in order to make so many meals.

Many of the camps have employed cooks to help with the enormous task of feeding so many. Shaw has had help from cook Paulette Jarrett.

"I have fried a lot of chicken. It is the No. 1 meal all over the camp," Jarrett said while slicing tomatoes. She has cooked at various Tabernacle camps for seven years.

"When I was little I used to come out here to visit. When you are young, it really makes an impression on you," Shaw said as she explained that she is kin to the Taylors on one family line while her husband, Lynn Shaw, is kin on two of his family lines.

"About 500 people come out here, and more than likely we are related to all of them in some way," she said.

She spends most of the camp meeting week cooking, eating, and visiting but said the highlight of each hot July day is "going to the air-conditioned church to hear a really good minister."

Faith of Our Fathers Living Still

In a journal, grandson of the founding pioneer, John Alexander Taylor, tells that the pioneers had barely unloaded their wagons before the Methodist preachers came to call and talk about building churches.

Richard Taylor, Howell's son, built Tabernacle Church and began the annual meeting. The Haywood County Taylors became well-known for the strength of their religious convictions.

The motto of each one 'As for me and my house, we will serve the Lord.' I do believe it is natural for these Taylor children to become religious before they pass into their teens," wrote W.C. Johnson, editor of the Western Methodist Advocate in 1867.

"My son is the seventh generation to be baptized here. It is a great source of peace and comfort," John M. Johnson said.

As Joe Thornton, the eldest deacon, blows on a bull's horn, family members stuffed with dinner head to prayer. They gather into the pews to hear of a new baby born that day and soul-stirring opera from talented family members. Dozens of children gather up front and gleefully join the songfest with "Jesus Loves Me." Just before the preaching begins, the energetic children are released to run and play.

"I like to see the kids in the front row. It is praising God, but it is more fun and it enriches my spirituality," Cydnie, who is a Catholic, said of the camp service.

"The fact that we meet on this ground with family is key. It would not be the same without church," Thornton said from a porch swing as he watched his young cousins at play.

The highlight of the week, laced with three church services each day, is the Love Feast.

"It is one of the most genuine of any Wesleyan tradition that we share," he said of the Methodist faith at Tabernacle Church. "People speak about their faith trip from the past year, spend time in reflection and offer praise and gratitude," Thornton said of Love Feast.

Keeping Traditions

"Every family gathering is really only one generation away from annihilation," Thornton said, shaking his head that in amazement that the camp is in its 177th year. He said he knows the families sacrifice vacation to come, and some at great expense.

With well over 100 children in attendance this year, Thornton is hopeful the tradition will never end.

Years ago Joe Thornton met his wife, Becky, at camp. His memories of going to camp are laced with that courtship.

"All of my courting was done at the cemetery, and it is still done at the cemetery," he said of the tradition for the young people to head there.

If it is dusk, the young people will be courting there, and the children will be crawling all over the ancestors' gravestones and somehow, it is hard to imagine that they mind.

Source: The history of the family is attributed to Volume II of "The Taylors of Tabernacle" by Averil Crafton Taylor and Margaret Rankin Taylor, 1983.

"I FIND MYSELF RATHER MELANCHOLY AT THE PROSPECT OF LEAVING THIS PLACE WHICH HOLDS SUCH MEANING FOR ME. TABERNACLE HAS BECOME MUCH MORE THAN A FAMILY REUNION. IT IS A PLACE WHERE I COME FOR RENEWAL IN MY RELATIONSHIP WITH GOD. IT HELPS ME BEGIN AGAIN THAT DAILY JOURNEY WITH THE FATHER AND IT GIVES ME SOMETHING TO LOOK FORWARD TO NEXT YEAR.

TABERNACLE IS MY RETREAT FROM THE CARES OF THIS WORLD WHERE I CAN COME TO BE LOVED AND TO LOVE AND TO DISCOVER AGAIN HOW GREAT IS THE LOVE OF MY LORD. FOR I SEE HIS LOVE SURROUNDING ME IN EACH FACE I PASS AND EACH GRAVE MARKER PROJECTING UP FROM THE CHURCHYARD CEMETERY. I SEE HIS LOVE IN EACH CAMP, BE IT NEW OR OLD, FOR IT IS THE LOVE OF GOD WHICH BINDS US TOGETHER, MAKES US A FAMILY, AND SUSTAINS US. MOST OF ALL I SEE HIS LOVE WHERE I AM SITTING AT THIS MOMENT, HERE IN CHURCH, HIS TABERNACLE, FOR IT IS HIS HAND UPON MY HEART. AMEN."

Membership

"All the descendants of any who have ever been connected with the Church at Tabernacle shall constitute the membership of the Association, each of these may solicit the attendance of any they think will be benefitted by the services."

By-Laws, 1883

The Membership

This meeting has been called a meeting of the Taylor kin. It is a misuse of the design and term. It is as much a meeting of the Barcroft kin, or Duckworth kin, or the Williams kin, as of the Taylor kin.

John A. Taylor, 1880 (The Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. 1, pp. 287-288)

All the descendants of any who have ever been connected with the Church at Tabernacle shall constitute the membership of the Association, each of these may solicit the attendance of any they think will be benefitted [sic] by the services.

By-Laws, Article 1, 1883 (The Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. 1, p. 316)

...It was his expressed wish and desire that these meetings be perpetuated that his children's children and his neighbors' children from generation to generation, through the future be brought into the fold of Christ... All that take an interest in these meetings, and show it by their presence constitute its membership.

R.V. Taylor, August 1907 (The Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. 2, p. 49)

The Taylors have always welcomed friends and neighbors who "take an interest in these meetings, and show it by their presence" by camping. While it is not the purpose of this volume to list all the families who have "benefited by the services" over the years, three families are current, consistent and continuing campers:

The Barcroft/Simmons family has a long connection with the Taylors. One of their ancestors was the father of William Thomas Currie, II, who married Nora Ada Mann (a Taylor) resulting in today's Currie camps. Virginia Barcroft married George Womack Thornton, and Terry, the daughter of Virginia's sister Bobbie, married Macon Thornton.

The current Price-Coppedge family is descended from one of the original Trustees of Tabernacle Church. The Coppedges were linked to the Taylors in several ways, including marriage (Aileen Coppedge, cousin of Fletcher Coppedge, was the mother of Averil Crafton, wife of Edmond Taylor) and through the one room Tabernacle School, where Annie Coppedge taught for many years.

For nearly 50 years the Cavena family has been coming to Camp Meeting from California. Skip and Mary met Aileen

Taylor, daughter of Edmond and Averil Taylor, when Aileen and Mary were attending the Pasadena Playhouse College of Theater Arts, where Skip was teaching. Edmond and Averil encouraged them to come to Camp Meeting in 1955, and their family has been welcoming them ever since.

Information specific to these families is included in this section along with ancestral information from the Claiborne family, which merged with the Taylors when Mary Claiborne married Joseph Richard Taylor. Also, included is additional information on the Taylor ancestors.

A variety of information has been submitted regarding the ancestry of these families. This information, as presented herein, is intended for the personal interest of the reader, and represents just a portion of the information contained in the database. These articles have been compiled from the data submitted and have not been scrutinized or cross-checked against other sources which may be available. Anyone interested in pursuing this family lore, is encouraged to do so and to report their findings to the Historical Committee for publication in future volumes. That being said, the information is believed to be credible. The attempt has been made to identify what information comes from sources that are academic, from those that are anecdotal. Concerning the ancestry information that pre-dates Camp Meeting, The Taylors of Tabernacle, Volume III maintains the same philosophy as that stated in Volume I:

> "The Tabernacle Historical Committee feels that such information is of great personal interest, but is not an essential part of the Tabernacle story. Such charts as are presented should be sufficient to guide individual members of the family in further research along these lines to the extent that they are interested."

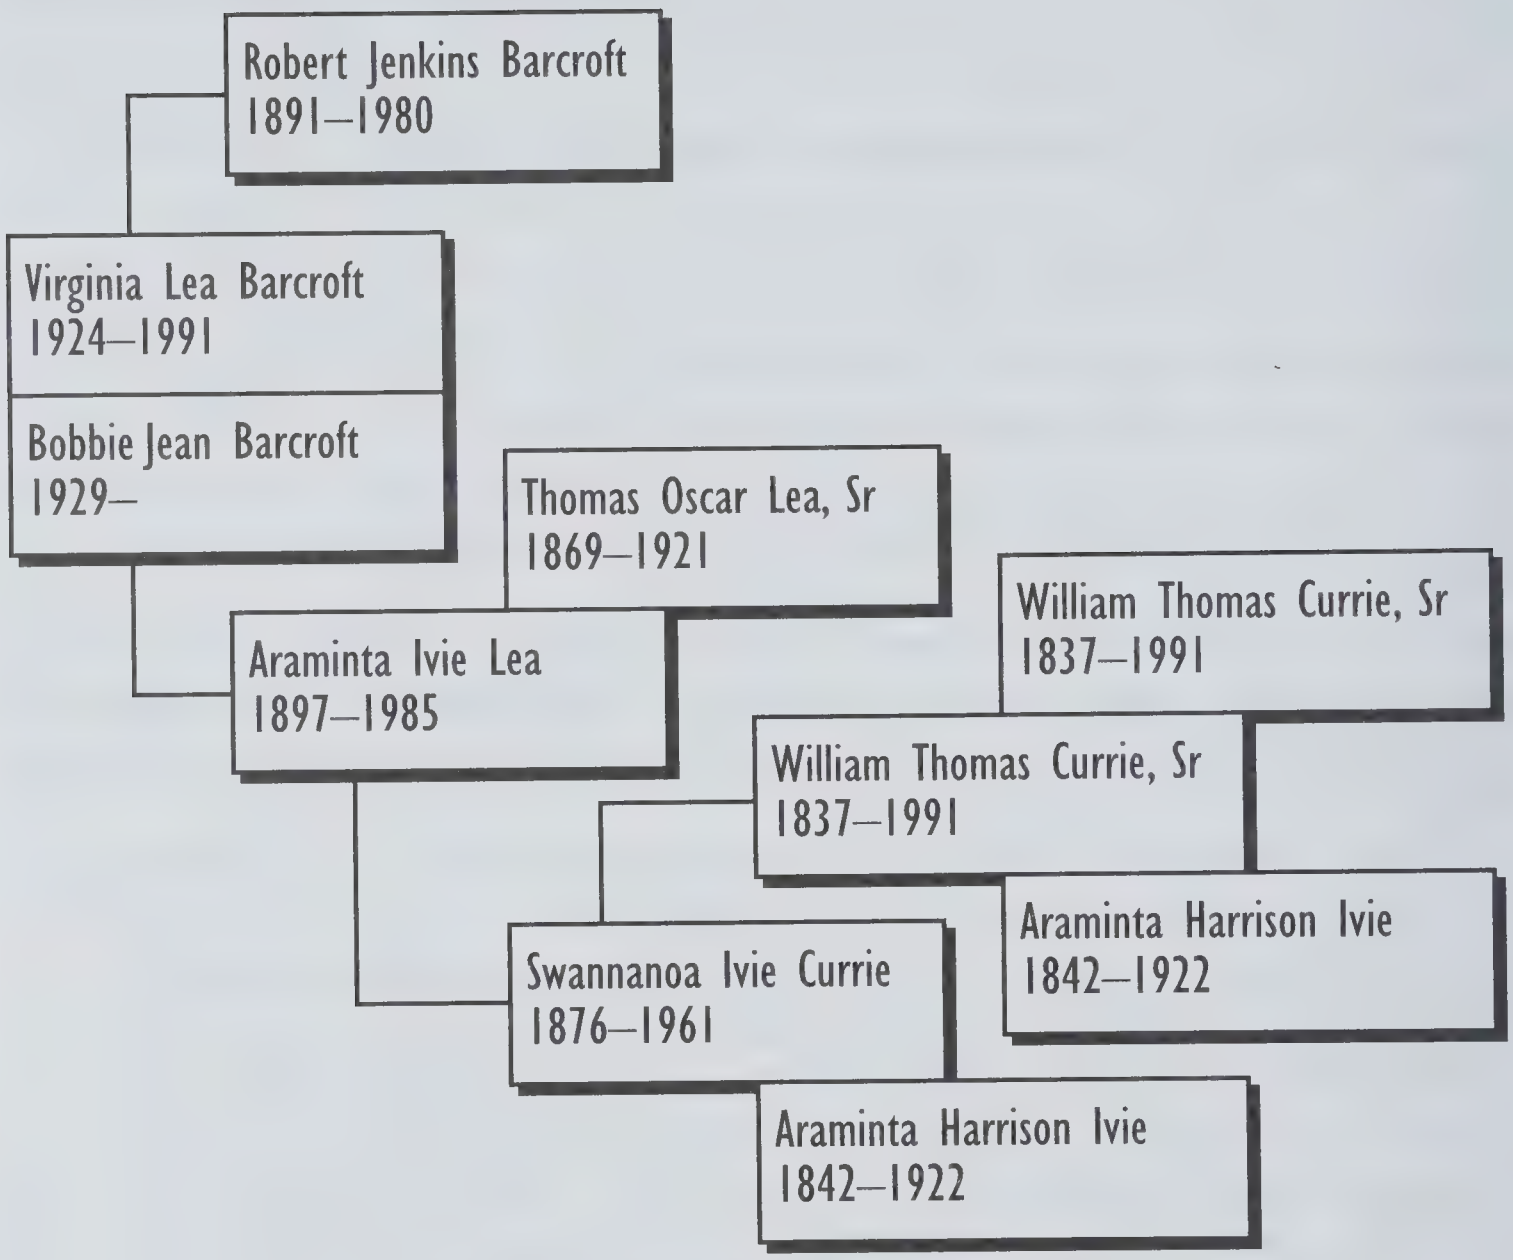
"IT IS EXPECTED OF ALL WHOSE FATHERS ONCE WORSHIPED AT TABERNACLE, AND WHO CAN WITH ANY SORT OF CONVENIENCE, TO MEET ON THAT OCCASION FOR A SOCIAL REUNION. IT DOES NOT MATTER ABOUT WHETHER THEY BRING PROVISION WITH THEM; THERE WILL LIKELY BE ENOUGH ON HAND FOR ALL WHO COME. WE LIKE THE NAME, "FEAST OF TABERNACLE," BETTER THAN ANY OTHER AND PRESUME IT WILL BE THUS CONTINUED AS LONG AS THE PRESENT MANAGERS SHALL LIVE."

John A. Taylor, 1880.

Ancestors of Virginia & Bobbie Barcroft



Virginia Lea Barcroft married George Womack Thornton and appears in the Taylor descendants. William Thomas Currie, Sr. was the father of William Thomas Currie, II, who married Nora Ada Mann and appears in the Taylor descendants.

The Barcroft-Simmons Camp

Bobbie Barcroft Simmons/
Terry Simmons Thornton

The Barcroft, Lea, and Currie families have deep roots connecting them to Tabernacle Church, Camp Meeting, and the surrounding communities.

When Tabernacle Church was renovated, a board was uncovered in one of the Sunday school rooms with the following signatures and information signed in pencil:

W.L. Blackwell and Miss Suzie Taylor
T.O. Lea & Miss Swannie Currie
Camille Blackwell & Edwin Taylor
Miss Sue Currie & Frank Taylor
Brownsville, Tennessee
Aug. 18, 1896
George B. Blackwell and Mary Russell
Brownsville, Tenn Memphis, Tenn
Vernie McLish & Emma T.
Rein 10

This board now hangs in the camp of Bobbie Barcroft Simmons, granddaughter of Thomas Oscar Lea and Swannie Currie Lea.

It is interesting to note that on November 11, 1896, about three months after signing their names in the church, Swannanoa (Swannie) Ivie Currie and Thomas Oscar Lea, Sr. (Oscar) were married at Tabernacle Methodist Church.

Swannie was the daughter of William Thomas Currie, Sr. and Araminta Harrison Ivie Currie. According to her obituary, "Mrs. Currie was the possessor of a great store of noble characteristics and was a faithful life long member of Tabernacle Methodist Church. She was of a sunny genial disposition and her presence was a benediction in any assemblage…Burial was in Tabernacle Cemetery at 3 p.m. Friday, services being conducted by Rev. Fuzzell of the Brownsville Circuit." The Currie home was two miles east of Brownsville on what is now Highway 79. The original house still stands and is now the home of Woodrow Emerson.

Oscar's mother, Mary McCleish Lea, died on November 19, 1896, a week after the wedding, of complications from a "deep seated cold." It was reported that the cold was "caught" while going to the wedding by horse and buggy in inclement weather. A quote from her obituary states, "Mrs. Lea was a most excellent woman, a devout Christian, and loyal Methodist. She had been a member of Tabernacle Church for many years and discharged her duties as such to the end. Her remains were interred at Tabernacle Friday evening in the presence of a very large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives."

After their marriage, Swannie and Oscar moved into the home of Mrs. Lea, which was a mile east of the Currie home place, near the present intersection of Tabernacle Road and the highway. Swannie and Oscar remained in the McCleish house and ran the family dairy. Their first child, Araminta Ivie Lea was born on November 22, 1897. Other children born to them were Thomas Oscar, Jr., William Currie, John Franklin (Jack), Mary Seldon, Joseph Wilson, and Swannie Edith. In about 1906 the family relocated closer to Brownsville and continued their dairy business. The McCleish house burned in 1957.

In the early 1900's the Leas camped in tents on the campground during Camp Meeting. Their campsite was where the Hurley-Young camp is now located. An account in Araminta's diary from August 1916 records her week at Camp Meeting.

On August 28, 1918 Araminta married Robert Jenkins Barcroft. In 1960 they built the camp where their daughter, Bobbie Barcroft Simmons, and family continue to camp each year.

The Barcroft family also has early ties to Tabernacle Church. In the 1860-1884 Tabernacle Class Book, as recorded on page 174 of the original Taylors of Tabernacle, William Barcroft and his wife, Mary, are listed as members. William and Mary Barcroft are the grandparents of Robert Jenkins Barcroft and thus the ancestors of current camper Bobbie Barcroft Simmons and her children and grandchildren.

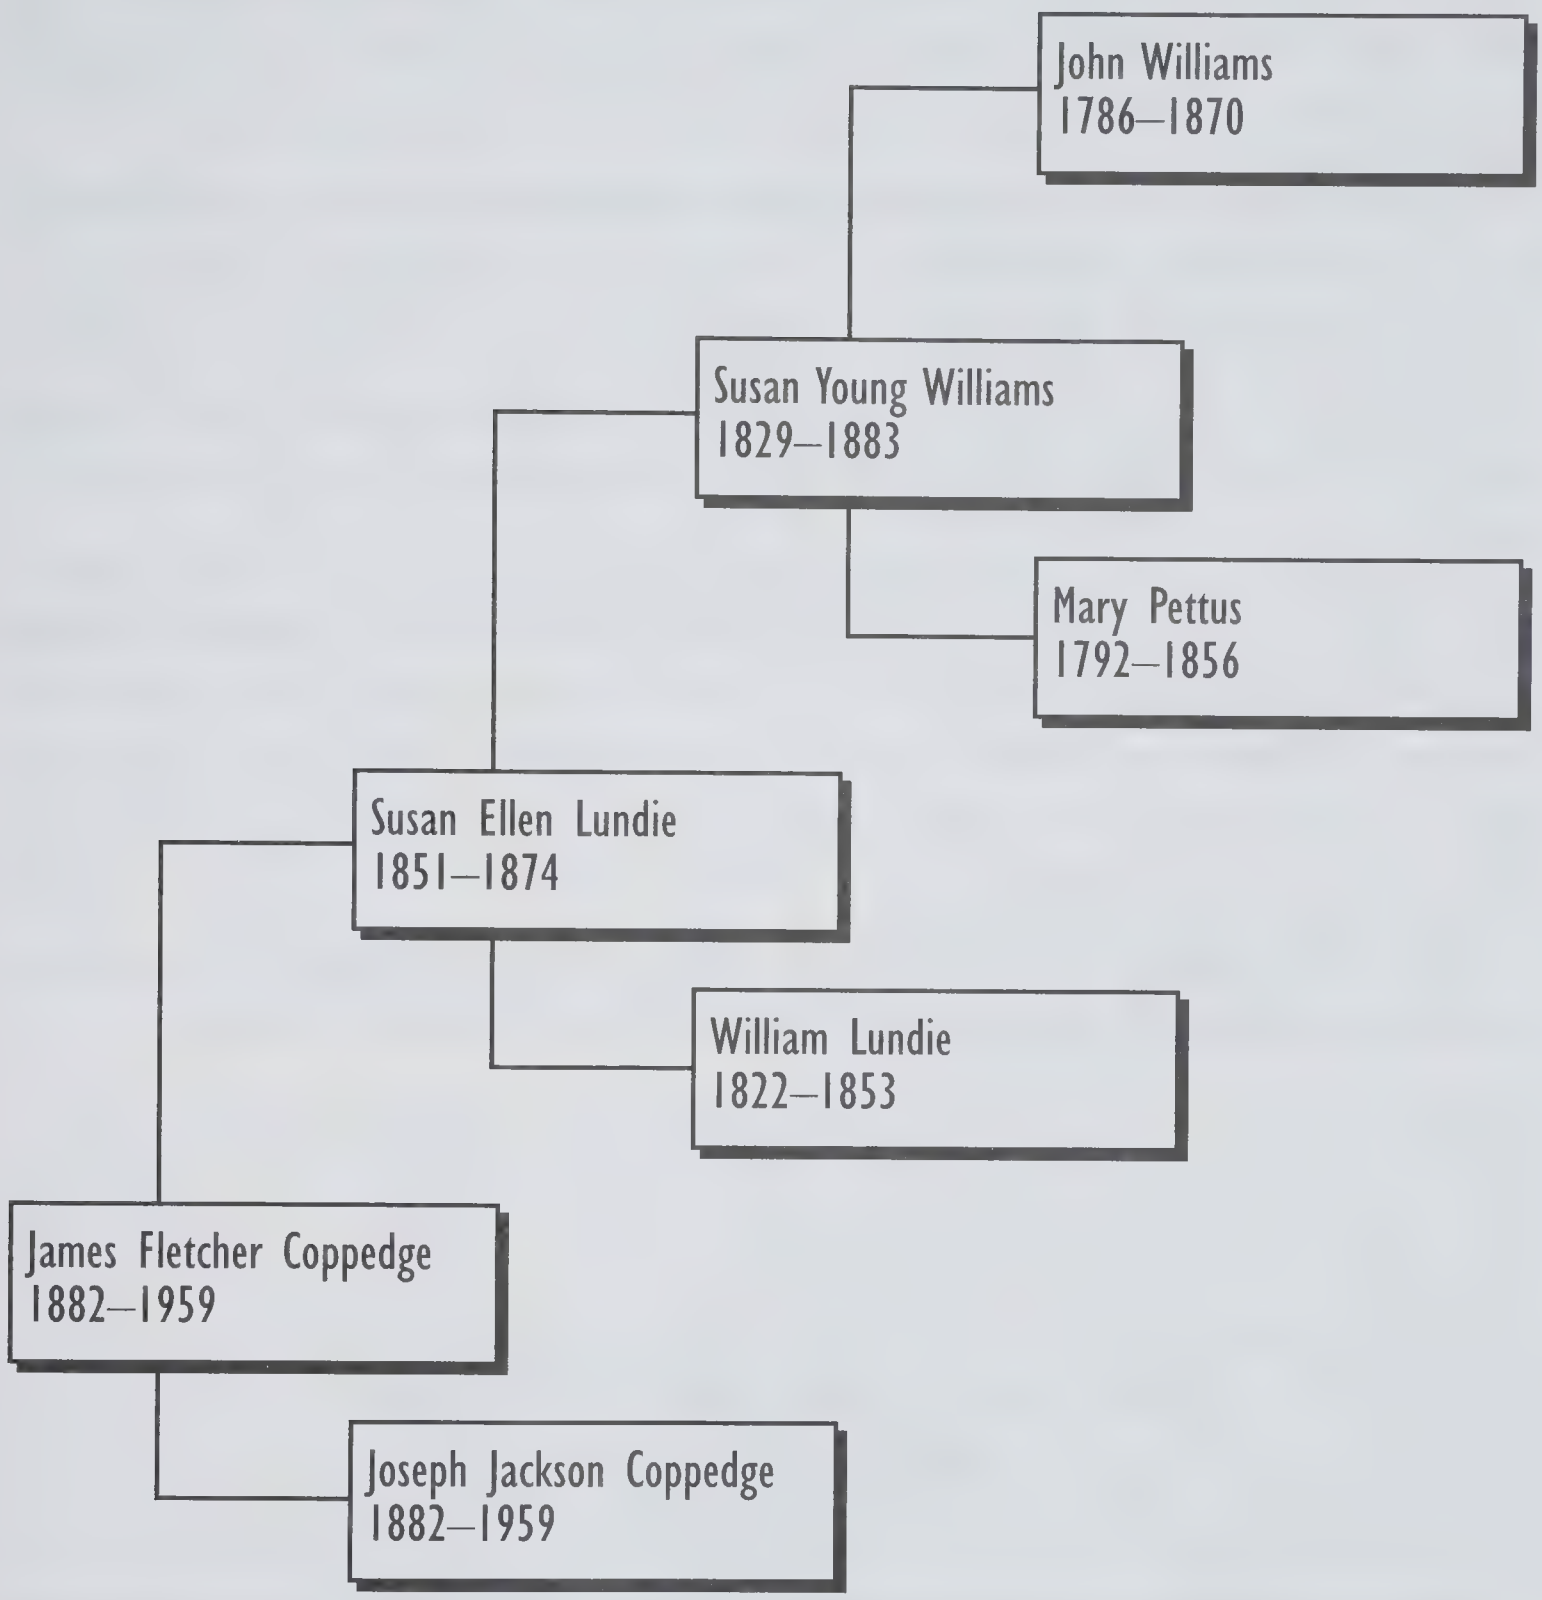
Ancestors of James Fletcher Coppedge



John Williams
(1786–1870)
by Anne Coppedge Price

Who was the ambitious young man, scouting out the best of West Tennessee, the pioneer explorer and one of the first settlers to establish residence in Haywood County? One of the original explorers and financiers from Mecklenburg County, Va., good friend of the Howell Taylor family, who took the challenge to seek out a good, safe, and prosperous land?

John Williams was a major force in establishing, building and financing our beloved Tabernacle Church. He worshiped 40 years at Tabernacle Church. His was the second pew on the right! He married his childhood sweetheart of Mecklenburg County, Va. and brought her to Tennessee. They prospered, glorified God, and reared a family of five children. Mary Pettus, his wife, "was an Israelite in whom there is no guile."

John Williams was 1 year older than John Y. Taylor and 7 years older than Richard. He probably considered Howell a second father. John named his daughter "Susan Young," after Howell's wife. John joined the Taylors in their move from Virginia to Tennessee. It was John who came first to Haywood County and reported back the prospect of good land with plentiful springs. John acted as agent for Richard Taylor in procuring land in Haywood County.

The descendants of John and Mary Pettus Williams have been associated with both the Tabernacle and the Joyners camp meetings.

Obituary for John Williams
by Rev. Guilford Jones
October 1870

John Williams, a venerable man of God, was born in Mecklenburg County, Va., Feb. 28, 1786; was married to Miss Mary Pettus in 1813: moved to Montgomery County, TN in 1819; and in 1826 he settled on the place in Haywood County, TN, where he lived till Oct. 20, 1870, when he was called to his reward in heaven. Brother Williams was a noble type of Methodist Christianity, always uniform, conscientiously so, in business and in religious duties. His first act, after rising in the morning, was to pray, and his last before lying down at night was to pray; after each meal he retired to a private room to pray; besides, he had family prayers night and morning. Thus seven times a day did he kneel before God for blessing. No wonder, then, that he was always surrounded with plenty; and had the comfort of seeing a large family of children all taking honorable positions in society as Christian men and women. He had been in the Church about sixty-five years; and was with those noble pioneer Methodists, the Taylors, in giving tone and success to Methodism in the first settling of Haywood County.

For the last forty years our preachers have seldom failed to meet John Williams on going into Tabernacle Church. On the third Sunday of last September, some of us saw him there, bending with the weight of years, yet full of faith, and almost in sight of his better home. Those of us who may be there at the next annual meeting, will see his accustomed seat filled by another, yet his name and features will be there in memory. The wife of his youth and companion for forty-three years, died in 1856; and in 1858, he was married again, to Mrs. Mary Humphries, an excellent Christian lady, who was a suitable companion to help and comfort in his declining years.

Obituary for Mary Pettus Williams

A Class-mate, near Brownsville, January 25, 1856

Sister Mary Williams, the subject of this notice, and the wife of John Williams, died of pneumonia, at her residence in Haywood County Tn., on the 4th of January, 1856. She was the daughter of Samuel and Hannah Pettus, was born in Mecklenburg County Va., Jan. 6, 1792, was married in 1813, moved to Montgomery County Tn., in 1819, where she professed religion in 1820, and joined the M. E. Church, in which she lived a most exemplary member until death, being sixty-four years old lacking two days, and for thirty years a resident of [Haywood}county. It may, in truth, be said of Mother Williams, she was an Israelite indeed, in whom there was no guile. It often happens, in reviewing the history of the departed, that the mantle of charity must be thrown over those imperfections which belong to humanity, but with the subject of the present notice the writer has been intimately acquainted from his earliest recollection, and he cannot call to mind one single work of action but what was in perfect keeping with the Christian character. _____ [as a] Christian she was deeply _____ and always con-seldom, if ever, allowed to pass without giving expression of her resolutions and determination in the Christian race. She has left a large and highly respectable family of children, and grand children to deplore her loss, yet she had the satisfaction of seeing all her children settled in life and hopeful members of the Church. When about to pass through the final struggle she called those who were in attendance around her and requested of each a promise to meet her in heaven, sending the special request to those of her children who were not present. We would say to all, let this request of your dying and now sainted mother be deeply engraved upon your hearts; bind it about your necks, carry it with you where you go, and never forget it. While we tender our sympathy to [John Williams] the aged and deeply affected companion, now left behind, we know his only solace is found in clinging closer to that cross upon which he has been leaning through a long life. We would say wait yet awhile. Thy work is not yet done. The Master has called thy Mary, and when a few more years are past, he will call thee to a more blessed reunion.

Anne Jane Ogilvie Coppedge

Letter to Camp Meeting

By popular request I am submitting the following bits of information for friends, young and old, former students, fellow Brownsvillians and Camp Meeting Crowd. I have only missed one Camp Meeting since 1917, but this year I will hear tapes, which will be brought to me by my twins, Anne Coppedge Price and Frank Coppedge.

I was born Sept. 11, 1884 in Bell Buckle, Tn as the 10th child of Thomas Jefferson Ogilvie and Mary Anne Bell. As a young girl, I was known as "Beauty" and was the toast of Webb School. After moving from Obion County, I was allowed to attend (thanks to my brother, Professor Frank Ogilvie, Headmaster) the Ogilvie School for Boys. After graduating from the University of Tennessee with masters studies at the University of Chicago, I served as superintendent and was the only teacher of several one room school houses. All of this was before being swept off my feet by bachelor dairyman, Fletcher Coppedge of Tabernacle. We were wed Sept. 11, 1917 in Springfield, Mo. I taught in a one room school at Tabernacle for six years.

The following is one of my many selections of poems that I have used for civic, church and special occasions.

Keep A Goin'

If you strike a thorn, or rose
Keep a goin'
Tain't no use to set'n whine
Cause the fish ain't on yo line Bait yo hook an' keep on Tryin' –keep a goin'
When you feel like all is up
Keep a goin'
Drain the sweetness from the cup
Keep a goin'
Only one thing's worth a while
And you'll find that helps a pile
When the wind blows hard, just smile
And keep a goin'

Tabernacle School

by Frank Ogilvie Coppedge, with acknowledgements to Bill Thornton

Tabernacle School was a one room building with desks, a wood-burning stove, and a blackboard. It was located next to the northwest corner of the cemetery. Tabernacle residents told Haywood County that they would furnish the school building, etc., if the County would furnish a qualified teacher.

Richard Thornton and Edmond Taylor attended when they were young. So, there on the Campground, off and on, from at least the 1890's to 1936, there was a school, whenever a teacher could be had. In 1930, because of a shortage of teachers, they were planning to close Tabernacle School again. Families in the community became aware that Annie Jane Ogilvie had been an accredited Haywood County teacher for several years before she married James Fletcher Coppedge, Sr. (a farmer and owner of 276 acres once in the Taylor family). Since they had three children, she hadn't taught for a while. She was persuaded to teach at Tabernacle to keep the school open. She taught for five years, and retired in 1936. Miss Pennie White Cobb (who had just become qualified to teach) was hired to teach in 1935/36, final year that Tabernacle School was open.

The school building was then used as a camp house for Rev. Howell R. Taylor for several years during Camp Meeting. Some years later it was removed, and a Chapman camp house is there now.

The school taught first thru eight grades with 12 students average for the whole school. Fletcher Coppedge completed the 2nd and 3rd grades in one year for he was the only one in his class!

Students known to have attended Tabernacle School are:

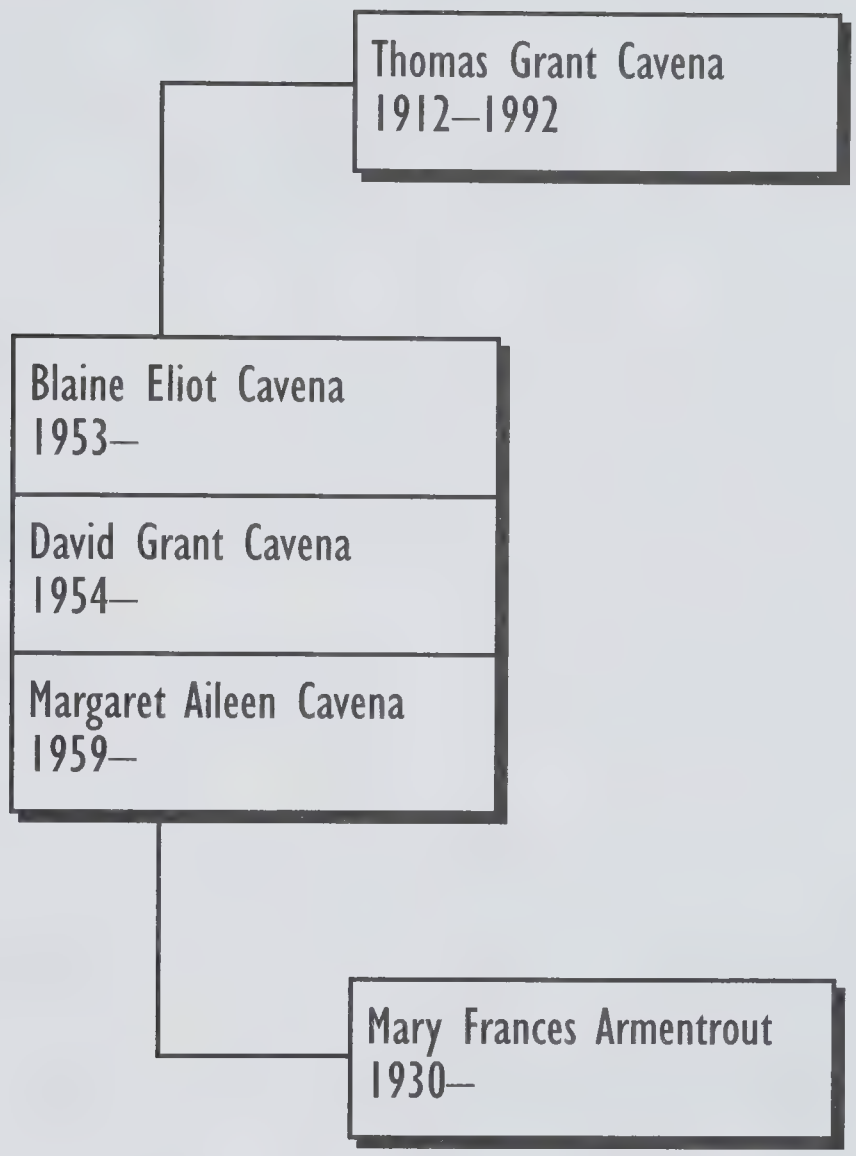
Allen: Elsie
Chapman: Beth, Pansy, William and Wilder (twins), Sarah, and Emily Ann.
Coppedge: James Fletcher, Jr., Anne Ogilvie and Frank Ogilvie (twins)
Daniels: Charlie, Neubern, and Jamie
Hendren: Elmer and His twin sister.
Marbury: Pittman and Juanita
Ross: Mamie Dell. (Millard Ross, Pansy Chapman's future husband, rode a horse to town to school, per Bill's information).
Taylor: Ellen, Fred, Matilda, and Jack
Thornton: Joe, Bill, George, and Mary Anne
Thornton: Marion, Jr. (Bill said Marion went to school in Brownsville)
Winburn: Joseph and Isabell

Excerpt from Obituary for Anne Coppedge Price

(7/15/1922–5/1/2001)

Here for over a hundred years the Wesleyan Methodist tradition has been God's instrument to touch lives with which to build His Kingdom. Mother's spiritual birthday, her personal journey toward heaven, begins here. The annual camp meeting at Tabernacle Methodist Church one mile from the family farm in Brownsville, Tennessee, was a vital part of her spiritual heritage. She would later bring her family to this place each year, keeping alive in her heart and theirs this 175-year tradition of worship, spiritual renewal, evangelism, and family reunion. (Not to mention good food!)

Ancestors of Blaine, David and Bucket Cavena



Meeting Miss Averil And Coming To Camp Meeting

Mary Cavena

In the fall of 1950, Edmond and Averil Taylor, the owners of New Hope in Brownsville, Tennessee, sent their daughter Aileen off to California to study acting and theater arts at the Pasadena Playhouse College of Theater Arts. There she met Grant "Skip" Cavena, the Technical Director of the Theater and an instructor for the College. She also met another student at the College, Mary Armentrout, who would become, in 1952, Mrs. Skip Cavena.

In 1951, Averil convinced her friend Bessie Sorrelle to join her for a drive to California to visit Aileen at school. (One can only imagine the hijinks of these two on their extended road trip!) Once her mother and friend arrived in Pasadena, Aileen recruited Skip to act as their escort and tour guide, and thus began a friendship between Averil and Skip that grew for 40 years.

Skip was an accomplished photographer and had explored much of the American Southwest. One evening he showed Averil and Bessie some of his best work: Mountains, sunsets and sand dunes, the shadows across the Grand Canyon and the sun lighting Yosemite. After graciously enduring this Bessie Sorrelle finally exclaimed "Lawd, Skip! Don't you have any pictures of people?"

Skip and Mary built their home in Pasadena, and their first child, Blaine, was born in the fall of 1953. In the spring of the following year, Skip wrote Averil to say that they were planning a vacation, which would take them through the South on their way to the Bahamas. Averil read the letter, set it down and picked up the telephone.

Mary had never met Averil, so the voice on the telephone was unknown, but there was no disputing her tone. Averil informed Mary that she and Skip couldn't take "that baby" to Nassau with them; they were to leave Blaine with her and she would care for him until they returned to Tennessee.

Skip came home from work that day to find a distraught wife who told him of the strange telephone call from "Some crazy lady calling to say we have to leave Blaine with her while we go to Nassau!"

Once the "crazy lady" was identified as Averil, Skip reassured Mary that her firstborn would be in good hands. He called Averil to accept her offer to keep Blaine (who would be eight months old for the visit) and received directions to Brownsville.

Skip, Mary and Blaine arrived in Brownsville late on a summer evening. As Averil had requested, they called her for final directions before heading down the highway to New Hope. Averil had said she would be at the turnoff for Tabernacle Road, and there she was — standing beside the Tabernacle sign in her night dress and bathrobe, waving a flashlight, at 10:30 at night! Whether this first glimpse of the "crazy lady" reassured or alarmed Mary is unknown, but Averil climbed into her car and led the way to New Hope.

Two days later, Mary and Skip said good-bye to Blaine and drove off to Florida and a second honeymoon in Nassau. Returning to New Hope after two weeks away, they found that Averil had written a letter, for Blaine, telling them all about his activities. Mary still has the letter, which includes "I really like these people you left me with, but have to admit they're funny folks and I laugh at them a lot, especially my nurse, Callie Mae. I don't know what to call these Taylors. Sometimes when the man plays with me he says, 'Come to 'Cledmond.' By the way, I've got David Taylor for a real buddy. Haven't had my temperature taken nor had any aspirin since you left; so don't suppose I'm going to get my two front teeth. Do you know these folks do one really rude thing: they put a chair across the kitchen door so I can't go in that room, but I stand by it and talk to Callie Mae when she is fixing my dinner."

In later years Averil never tired of telling family and visitors of Blaine's antics during his stay, much to his delight or embarrassment, depending on the story. Nor did she hesitate to claim credit for his better behavior, making it clear that the early training she provided had accomplished much.

Averil encouraged Skip and Mary to stay for Camp Meeting, but he had to be back for rehearsals and the opening of school. Instead, Averil exacted a promise that they would return the following year for Camp Meeting, which they did.

That year was 1955, and they brought Blaine (then 22 months) and his new brother, Dave (just 9 months). They enjoyed every minute of their stay, getting to know many new friends and beginning the never-ending process of meeting the family. Both boys were baptized, and Skip took photographs of all the families on the campground without realizing it would become a tradition. This first Camp Meeting album was created simply as a way of saying thank you to Averil and Edmond for their warm welcome and a wonderful time.

Since then the Cavenas have been returning, at first every few years but now rarely missing a Meeting. Their daughter Bucket was baptized at Camp Meeting in 1963 (at age 4) and introduced her husband Dan Tubbs to Camp Meeting in 1983. Following tradition, Dave proposed to his wife Carol in Tabernacle Cemetery in 1994.

With little family of their own, Skip and Mary's three children found at Camp Meeting the aunts, uncles, and cousins they would otherwise never have had. All of the grandchildren have been baptized at Tabernacle Church and, after his death in 1992, Skip was remembered during the Memorial Service.

For Skip the week at Tabernacle was the most restful of the year. At home he always had some project going on, but on the Campground he could and did relax, except for taking photographs for another album of the growing families and camp life. Since Skip's death, Blaine has continued that tradition, putting together a new album every five years or so, and taking orders for copies of photographs from earlier albums, which have become treasured memories.

For almost fifty years, the Cavena family has been keeping Camp Meeting. Enduring friendships have been forged as they have been welcomed into this remarkable Taylor clan, all because of an invitation, first extended by Averil Taylor a fleeting half-century ago, and then extended further by the warm acceptance of friends who are now kinfolk. It is this sense of community at Camp Meeting that leaves all of them knowing that they "belong."

Camp Meeting's foundation and core is faith — but it is also family, both natural and adopted. We are kin in heritage and faith, but we are just family. We have our characters, our feuds, our silliness and stories; our laughter and our sorrow. Yet if we tell our story using faith as our background then the joy and strength we share will be clear to all.

Blaine Cavena, 1998

Ancestry of Howell Taylor

"James Taylor" was the pioneer who brought our Taylor line to America. But which "James Taylor"? In what year was he born? Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. I leaves that date blank. The History of Fayette County, published in 1986, says that he was born in 1620. There was a James Taylor born near Carlisle England on February 12, 1610 that immigrated to the American colony of Virginia in 1635. It is credible that an educated, young man with skills as a surveyor would have made the trip at age 25, and not at age 15. Also, Taylors of Tabernacle, Vol. I lists our ancestry as Howell-Edmund-John-James who married Mary Gregory in 1682. But is this the same James who immigrated in 1635? If so, our ancestor John would have been born when James was 86 years old. Possible, but is it plausible? Or is there a generation missing between James, born 1610, and our John, born 1696?

It is the purpose of Taylors of Tabernacle, Volume III to present whatever information we have about the ancestry of Howell Taylor at face value, without further scholarly investigation or verification but with the hope that it will be of use to those who are interested in such things. The following is believed to be credible information. And having asked the questions, perhaps answers will be found.

James Taylor, born February 12, 1610 in Carlisle, England, came to America in 1635 as a surveyor and schoolteacher and settled in Orange County, Virginia. He brought with him a signet ring bearing the Taylor family crest. (This ring is owned by Helen Marie Taylor.) Orange County was wilderness in 1635, a good place for a surveyor to prosper. James left an older brother, John, in England. This John had a son James, who was born 1635 and immigrated to the Colonies before 1650. James (born 1635, nephew of James born 1610) married his first wife, Frances Walker, about 1667. Frances and James had three children – Jane, born 1668; James, II, born 1674; and Sarah, born 1676. Frances died in 1680. Two years later, James, age 47, married Mary Gregory, age 17. Mary bore James eight children, the youngest being John, born 1696, when James was 61 years old! (So, maybe we shouldn't be surprised when his great-grandson, Howell, decides to go pioneering at age 63.) Mary lived thirty-one years after James died in 1698. Their eight children were John and Ann who were twins, born 1685, but John died young. Mary, born 1686, who also died young, so they could use "Mary" again for their next child, born 1688. Then came a son in 1692 and since "John" was available, they used it. But this John also died young. Next came Elizabeth, born 1694. And finally, John, born 1696, who lived to adulthood. It is from this John Taylor that the Taylors of Tabernacle have descended.

James Taylor, II, our half-ancestor, built his home, Bloomsbury, in 1722 on a 13,500-acre estate. Bloomsbury has been restored and is currently a private museum. His descendants include James Madison, the writer of the U. S. Constitution; Zachary Taylor, twelfth President of the United States; and Gen. George Patton, hero of the second World War. James' son, Zachary, built his home, Meadowfarm, in 1727. The original structure was replaced by the current Greek Revival home in the mid 19th century. It is currently occupied by Helen Marie Taylor, as it has been occupied by Taylor descendants for over 280 years.

John Taylor, son of James, I and half-brother of James, II, was born in 1696 in Caroline County Virginia. John performed 'Public Service' in the Revolutionary War and lived to age 84. He married Catherine Pendleton. Their descendants include many people prominent in politics, agriculture and religion. Their oldest son was Edmund, born in 1723 in Orange County, Virginia. He was known as "Col. Edmund," probably from participation in the Revolutionary War. Two of his brothers are known to have reached the ranks of Lt. Colonel and Colonel in that War. (Note that this Taylor's name is spelled "Edmond" in The History of Fayette County but everywhere else it is spelled "Edmund.") Edmund married Anne Lewis, who was second cousin to George Washington, first President of the United States. Edmund and Anne Lewis built the first "Tabernacle," befriended Bishop Francis Asbury of the Methodist Church, and begat Howell Taylor.

An article for the Western Methodist Advocate dated September 12, 1867, observes that it seems "natural for these Taylor children to become religious before they pass their teens. It was the result of religious culture, of family religion, of early consecration to God. Religion was the business of life with these good people." The author was referring to Howell and his five sons, but religion in this family goes back before that. Howell's father brought the Methodist circuit riders into his home and provided the means for the early church. Howell's mother, Anne Lewis, was descended from Capt. Nicholas Martiau (variant spelling of "Marteau," born 1591). Martiau was head of a Huguenot colony that came from France and settled in the "Colony of Manakin" in Virginia. This was in the summer of 1620, three months before the Mayflower landed at Plymouth Rock. The Huguenots were French Protestants, many of whom came to America fleeing religious persecution. And even before that, Howell's direct ancestor was Rev. Rowland Taylor. Rowland Taylor was born October 6, 1510 and died February 5, 1555. He was martyred for the Protestant Reformation during the reign of Queen Mary. His offense was that he conducted church services in the English language, instead of in Latin. Rowland's wife was Margaret Tyndale, probably a relative of William Tyndale who translated the Bible into English and was also martyred. Detailed accounts can be found in Fox's Book of Martyrs.

The ancestry of Howell Taylor can be traced to Charlemagne, King Alfred the Great, Edward, I of England, and fourteen signers of the Magna Carta. Additional information on this ancestry is available in Taylors of Tabernacle, Vols. I and II, and in the work done by Helen Marie Taylor, Edward Taylor Heard, II, and others, as listed in the Bibliography.

Claiborne Family Connection

by: John Claiborne Wynne, June 16, 1982

Alexander Herbert Ravenscroft Claiborne was one of the first Trustees of Tabernacle Methodist Church, listed in a Deed of Trust for 1 1/2 acres of land and the church building from Richard Taylor to these Trustees on October 3, 1846. Elizabeth Ann Taylor Boyd Claiborne, Alexander's wife, was a granddaughter of Reverend Howell Taylor. The Claibornes were members of Tabernacle Methodist Church and were closely associated with the Taylor family. Alexander and Elizabeth Taylor died in Haywood County. All of their children and Elizabeth Claiborne are buried in the cemetery at Tabernacle Methodist Church. It is probable that Alexander Claiborne is buried there also, although there is no tombstone there with his name.

Alexander H.R. Claiborne (b.1810 d.1857) married Elizabeth A.T. Boyd (b. 1812 d. 1848), a widow, probably in Haywood Co., Tn., in 1834. Alexander Claiborne was a farmer and lived in Gibson Co. Tn., until sometime between 1836 and 1840, when he moved to Haywood County. Alexander Claiborne's home in Haywood County is still standing, and is located on the Tibbs Road between Rudolph and Tibbs in the northern section of the county. This home is now owned by the John Gorman family and is a 2 story white frame house located some distance from the road and has a beautiful lawn with large cedar trees. Alexander Claiborne was the first one of George and Anne Claiborne's children to move to Haywood County. It is probable that they made this move because this was where Elizabeth's family was living. (Note: Elizabeth's parents, John Y. and Martha Taylor, had settled their family in Haywood County in 1826, coming from Virginia. Elizabeth, their oldest child, went back to Virginia and married Aderson Boyd. She returned to her family in 1832, after the death of both her husband and their only child, and married Alexander Claiborne in 1834.)

Mary E. Claiborne (sister of Alexander Claiborne) married Joseph Richard Taylor in Trenton (county seat of Gibson County) Tn., in 1843 and they moved to Haywood Co., TN. It is thought that Mary Claiborne was living in the home of her oldest brother, Thomas B. Claiborne, in Trenton at the time of her marriage and that she met Joseph Taylor while he was attending a boy's academy in Trenton. In Haywood County, the Taylors lived first with Joseph's parents, Richard and Ann Taylor. Their next home was a log cabin in the Belle Eagle community in the northern part of Haywood County.

Around 1850, they built a 2 story frame house up the hill from this cabin. It has recently been moved near William "Bill" P. Thornton's home in the Tabernacle community of Haywood County where it has been restored by Bill's son, Tom Thornton. Joseph Taylor was a farmer and, at one time, operated a mill on Nixon Creek in Haywood County with his brother, Samuel E. Taylor. Joseph Taylor was a grandson of Reverend Howell Taylor and a 1st cousin of Elizabeth Claiborne, Alexander Claiborne's wife. Joseph and Mary Taylor died in Haywood County and are buried in the cemetery at Tabernacle Methodist Church.

The Claiborne family in America is descended from William Claiborne (b.1600 d.1677/8) of Virginia, who was born in the Parish of Crayford, County of Kent England. He was the son of Thomas and Sara Smith James Cleyborne. (This was the spelling in the English records and it is thought that William Claiborne changed this spelling to its present form after he came to America.) William Claiborne was chosen by the Virginia Company of London to go to the Colony of Virginia as a surveyor and sailed from England on the "George" with Sir Francis Wyatt. They arrived in Jamestown, Va. in October, 1621.

There are no current campers from the descendants of Alexander and Elizabeth Claiborne. Descendants of Mary Claiborne and Joseph Richard Taylor are in the Turner, McConnico, Sharpe, Shaw, Battle, Currie, Johnson, Weddington, Thornton, Cavin, Crafton, Harmon, and Claiborne camps.

"We all attended Love Feast at Tabernacle today and it was indeed a feast of Love, one which I shall long remember as a bright period in my life. When I felt my spiritual strength renewed and encouraged to take up every cross and follow on, steadily advancing onward and upward until I shall know the fullness of redeeming love. We glory in the thought that we have a religion, a precious boon from Heaven granted which can neither give nor take away.

Friends may prove treacherous, worldly wealth may pass away as the morning breeze. Fame's lofty flight soon ends in vanity nor satisfies the longings of the immortal soul, but religion is a treasure more precious than all the rubies of earth, a consoling companion in hours of adversity, a friend among strangers, and inheritance which could be purchased alone by the gift of the only begotten Son of God to die the death of the cross. He died for us, poor, perishing specimens of humanity. Tossed hither and thither by the stormy waves of life my find another here. There is the sweet harbor of the soul."

At Camp Meeting, prior to 1903. Mary Claiborne and Joseph Richard Taylor had thirteen children. Nine of these children, eight daughters and one son, lived to adulthood and married. This picture includes Mary C., seven of the daughters, the son and his wife, Hattie Sanford. Originally, each person in the picture received a copy of it. This particular one came from the estate of Suzie Macon, who was Mollie's daughter-in-law. The story is that Mollie always thought that Hattie Sanford poisoned John, so she scratched Hattie's face out of the picture. Twenty-two of the thirty-six camps in 2004 came from these sisters. Calista is the one sister missing from the picture.

The Thorntons at Camp Meeting, circa 1916. Was this tent just for them, or was it used for church services?

Back Row: Robert, Marion, Richard, Nick, Macon, Harbert

Adults: Mildora, John, Nick, Pattie, Harbert, Mandy, Marie, Sister Ruth, Otho, Macon, Ruth Edwards, Robert, Fannie, Lib, Marion, Hattie, Richard; Children in front: Ruth Taylor, Harbert, Jr., Betsy, Lois, Myra Jo, Marion, Jr., Libba, Helen, Harriet, Frances, Mary Ann; Boys in the back: John, Jr., Bill, George, Joe, Harold

Just where did all these "Thorntons" come from? Richard Taylor's grand-daughter, Ruth, married Nicholas Perkins Thornton and they had seven sons and one daughter (named Ruth who married Otho Pittman). The sons married these women and they had twenty children. Nearly one-third of the current camps are populated by their descendants.

Richard (Dick) A. Mann and Harriet Taylor Mann. They built the first permanent camp house.

Children of Dick and Harriet Mann: Capp Irene (married John Orgain Johnson), Harriet Dick (married C. E. Weddington), Nora Ada, (married William T. Currie, Jr.), Alsey Austin "Buddy" (married Mary Louis Claiborne). Five of the camps in 2004 came from these sisters.

Genealogy

Family remembered, family anticipated

Introduction

The primary purpose of this genealogy is to identify the relationships and lineage of the descendants of Howell Taylor (b.1754). Little effort has been made to determine the present status of relatives who do not participate. The geneology has been assembled from a variety of sources, including information submitted by the families of descendants. While it is not known to contain any false or intentionally misleading data, in some instances data is missing or imprecise. Where practical, the wishes of a particular family have been honored, since doing so does not conflict with the purpose stated above. This follows the practice established by those who compiled The Taylors of Tabernacle, Volumes I and II.

Essentially all information contained herein is from prior editions of The Taylors of Tabernacle and from family submissions. Other sources listed in the Bibliography are taken from The Taylors of Tabernacle. They have not been reviewed or consulted in the compilation of this genealogy. Their existence, accuracy and authenticity is unknown. Dates shown as "about," "before," or "after" are generally inferred from other information shown.

Ancestries for individuals not blood or adopted descendants of Howell Taylor have been included in the database as they appear in The Taylors of Tabernacle. They appear most often with the ancestors of Howell Taylor and with the spouses of his early descendants. This information should be considered anecdotal or derived from secondary sources. Though present in the database, these individuals are not shown in Volume III since they are not descendants of Howell Taylor.

Information is included for other families who are part of the Tabernacle community and who continue to actively camp. This information has been provided by those families.

This is not, nor does it purport to be, an exhaustively researched or authoritative genealogy. It does, however, provide much useful information for those wishing to develop such a genealogy. The reader who finds what appears to be contradictory, inconsistent or incomplete information here should consult the data base for additional information which will in many cases resolve the concern.

In this volume ToT1 refers to The Taylors of Tabernacle, Volume I. ToT1R is the revised edition of Volume I. ToT2 is Volume II. Where differences exist among the volumes, the original Volume I is generally considered the more authoritative source.

Additions, corrections or updates should be submitted to Blaine Cavena, 468 Glen Holly Drive, Pasadena, CA 91105, or e-mailed to Blaine at becavena@us.ibm.com.

Explaining Cousins

By: Sarah Elizabeth Cole

Have you ever wondered how you are related to the cousins you see every year and are some how genetically linked with? Who are my third and fourth cousins? Have you ever wondered what the "once removed" thing means? Well, this will help you figure all of those family cousin relationships that no one ever really could give you a straight answer to. We call each other cousins, but just how are we cousins?

First Cousin

You are first cousins if you have the same grandparents. The children of your aunts and uncles are your first cousins.

Second Cousin

Your second cousin has the same great-grandparents as you but not the same grandparents as you.

Third, Fourth, and Fifth ... Cousins

Your third cousins have the same great-great-grandparents as you. Your fourth cousins have the same great-great-great-grandparents as you but are not related by any other sets of grandparents. You can figure out your more distant cousins by adding another number for every level of grandparent.

"Removed"

When we use the word "removed" it means that you are talking about people who are from different generations. The word "removed" is not used when you are talking about the cousin relationship of the same generation.

"Once removed" means that there is a difference of a single generation. An example is your dad's first cousin is your first cousin "once removed." Your father's first cousin is one generation younger than your grandparents and you are two generations younger than your grandparents. This single generation difference is equaled to a "once removed".

For "twice removed" it means that there is a two-generation difference. Therefore, your grandmother's first cousin is your first cousin, "twice removed."

The Taylor Short-Cut

Each generation in our genealogy document is numbered from Rev. Howell Taylor being 1 and his children being 2, etc. So each of us knows what "generation we are in." If you and someone are the same generation - begin with yourselves and count back through each generation to the most recent common ancestor, subtract two, and that is what cousins you are. If you are not of the same generation – count back with the older generation being 'one,' subtract two, and add a "removed" for each generation between the two of you. Unless you are related to Howell by more than one line then you might be both removed and not removed. Just remember what the original Ruth Taylor Thornton said, "We's all Taylors. We either is Taylors, was Taylors or want to be Taylors." And if you can't remember someone's name, just call them your "favorite cousin" and you'll be fine.

EXAMPLE

Let's look at an example using two distantly related campers, Samuel Lee Ronk and Sara Lynne Mann.

8		Rev. Howell Taylor
7	Judith Burton Taylor	siblings	Samuel Allen Taylor
6	Edmund Taylor Green	first cousins	James Allen Taylor
5	May Elizabeth Green	second cousins	William David Taylor
4	Maggie Read	third cousins	Mildora Taylor
3	Margaret Hall Burton	fourth cousins	John C. Thornton , Jr
2	Carolyn Mann	fifth cousins	Lynn Thornton
1	Samuel Ronk	sixth cousins	Sara Lynne Mann
	Samuel Lee Ronk	sixth cousin, once removed to Sara Lynne Mann

And an example of two not so distantly related campers, William Perkins Thornton and John Guilford Thornton

3	Ruth Taylor Thornton
2	J. Richard Thornton, I	siblings	N. P. Thornton, II
1	William Perkins Thornton	first cousins	Guilford F. Thornton first cousins once removed	Guilford F. Thornton, Jr.
		first cousins twice removed	John Guilford Thornton

THE MOST KIN

Now that we know what "kin" we are to each other, who is the most kin to Rev. Howell?

Several lines in the family are results of one set of cousins marrying. However, two lines are products of three sets of cousins marrying:

Robert Burwell Alexander and Rosa Clower were 3rd cousins when they married in 1916. Robert's parents were first cousins, which gives Robert two connections to Edmund Taylor. Rosa's grandparents were first cousins, once removed, with connection to Judith and John Y. Therefore, the descendants of Robert and Rosa are kin to Rev. Howell four ways – through Judith, John Y., and Edmund twice.

Julia Rebecca Duffey and Joseph Richard Thornton, III were 5th cousins when they married in 1959. Becky's grandparents were third cousins when they married and her grandfather's grandparents were first cousins. This gives Becky connection to Richard, and Capt. Howell twice. Joe is a descendant of Richard. Therefore, the descendants of Becky and Joe are kin to Rev. Howell four ways – through Capt. Howell twice and through Richard twice.

There was a specific clause in the agreement when Richard Taylor deeded to the Methodist Church the land for Tabernacle Church. It says that if the use of the property ever ceases to be for a Methodist Church, then the land and the building would revert back to Richard or his heirs and successors. OK, so who would that successor be? In a patriarchcal society, it would be the oldest male heir of the oldest male heirs. Which would be Richard-Robert Howell-James Madison-Joseph Rowan-Joseph Rowan, Jr.-Frank Rowan Taylor, who was born 9/25/57. Or would it follow the transfer of the homeplace, New Hope, from Richard to Will A. to Edmund to Aileen to Richard? Or would it pass to the Campground Association which owns (sorta) the camp grounds? Or is that why they call it "deed-in-trust." For wasn't that what Richard intended, that we would hold each other and hold Camp Meeting in trust for all generations, now and in the future.

IF WE ARE CHILDREN, THEN WE ARE HEIRS — HEIRS OF GOD AND CO-HEIRS WITH CHRIST.

The Taylors of Tabernacle: The Descendants of Howell Taylor

The genealogy section presents an outline descendant listing, similar in form to that in The Taylors of Tabernacle, with all the descendants of Howell Taylor who appear in the Taylor genealogy data base.

Many names, especially in the descendant listings, are accompanied by a number in brackets in the form of [103] John Smith. The presence of the number indicates that in this particular list this particular John Smith appears two or more times. This can result from having more than one Taylor line in his ancestry, having multiple spouses or other causes. The sole purpose of the number is to uniquely identify this John Smith wherever his name appears in this list so that the reader knows that all [103] John Smiths in this list refer to the same individual and that a [267] John Smith in this list is a different individual.

The number associated with an individual or the presence of the number itself may vary from list to list. It is only provided when the name appears more than once in the particular list being viewed. Whether a name appears more than once in a list depends on the content of the list, so the same John Smith may be [103] John Smith in one list, [899] John Smith in another and just John Smith in a third. The number has meaning only within the context of the specific list in which it is found.

The generation numbering (A1, B1, C2...) used in prior editions of The Taylors of Tabernacle is not supported by available genealogy software in any reasonable manner and is not used here. Generation numbers, beginning with 1 for Howell Taylor, are shown. The Family Tree Maker data base containing our genealogy has , at last count, approximately 6700 individuals.

One generation shall praise Thy works
Thy mighty acts.

Epilogue

Jacob took the birthright away from his brother.

Esau came in from hunting, hungry. Really hungry. Starving. Famished. An anxious, angry, low blood sugar, don't even-think-about-talking-to-me kind of hunger. And a righteous hunger that comes from having earned it. Jacob was cooking stew. A stew full of great chunks of meat and vegetables with a savory sauce and a seductive aroma that filled the house and caressed every carnal hunger. This was no trivial bowl of soup. To Esau, it was sustenance, survival, the most important thing in his life at that time.

Esau demanded some food. Jacob offered a deal and Esau accepted, trading his birthright for a bowl of red stew. Jacob held his brother accountable and responsible for his decision. Jacob would not forgive the debt and he would not return the birthright. Esau blamed Jacob for the deal he had made. And the brothers' relationship was broken.

When it comes to family, it's easy to become an Esau or a Jacob.

Like Esau, we can trade in our birthright for something that, in the moment, seems most important. What might you trade for your heritage — what convenience or comfort or cost, what point of doctrine or ritual, what embarrassment over some decision? What might keep you from keeping Camp Meeting?

Like Jacob, we can exclude our brother from the family. We can judge his decisions and gossip. We can look for differences. We can passively say, "too bad," rather than actively looking for ways to make it more possible for him to camp. We can let family rifts become family that drifts apart. What about you might keep others from keeping Camp Meeting?

The message for us today is as it was from Paul to the Ephesians:

> For this reason I 'acknowledge the ancestors' from whom this whole family, in heaven and on earth, derives its name. I pray that out of this glorious 'heritage' you may be encouraged and strengthened with power through this spirit in your inner being. And I pray that you, being rooted and established in love, may have power, together with all the ancestors, to grasp how wide and long and high and deep is the love of God, and to know this love that surpasses knowledge – that you may be filled to the measure of all the fullness of 'community.' (taken from Eph 3:14-19)

As we seek, we are found; as we heal, we are healed; as we feed, we are fed; as we love, we are loved. We are one as we come together in this place.
